DERAILED IN LONDON SUBURB ★★

U.K. Train Crash Claims 53 Lives

Follows Fatal Airliner Mishap

LONDON (CP)—The death toll in the derailment of an express train rose to 53 today, raising to 90 the number of persons killed in travel disasters in the London area within 24 hours.

All 37 passengers and crew were killed Saturday night when a Spanish Iberia Airlines Caravelle jet crashed into a 900-foot hill nine minutes before it was scheduled to land at Heathrow Airport on a flight from Malaga.

Sunday night rescuers pulled 33 bodies from the crumpled wreck of a Hastings-London diesel express train which hurtled off the tracks near Hither Green, a London suburb. Twenty of the 139 injured died later in hospitals.

It was the worst British rail accident since 1957, when 90 persons were killed and 175 injured in a two-train collision two miles from the scene of the latest tragedy.

RETURNING FROM VISITS

Most passengers on the crowded 12-car train were young people returning to London Sunday night after a weekend with their families on the south coast.

Four cars on the train toppled onto their sides, coming to a stop in a sprawl of splintered wood and tangled metal. The remaining seven cars in the train leaned crazily off the rails.

Under the glare of arc lights, doctors and nurses crawled beneath tons of creaking, buckled metal as firemen cut paths to trapped victims with acetylene torches.

Medical teams injected pain-killing drugs into the injured and did on-the-spot emergency operations, amputating limbs to free some of those trapped. One man died as surgeons amputated his leg.

The train's crash-time speed was estimated by passengers to be between 70 and 80 miles an hour. (See story page 2.)

Rivals Battle In Aden

(See also Page 3)

ADEN (CP)—Rival Arab nationalists battled again today in an area where they used mortars, grenades and machine-guns Sunday in a struggle for the future of this soon-to-be-independent British protectorate.

The fighting was in the Sheikh Otham district, where a ceasefire was announced Sunday night after 2,000 Arabs screaming for an end to the fighting marched through the battle-torn streets.

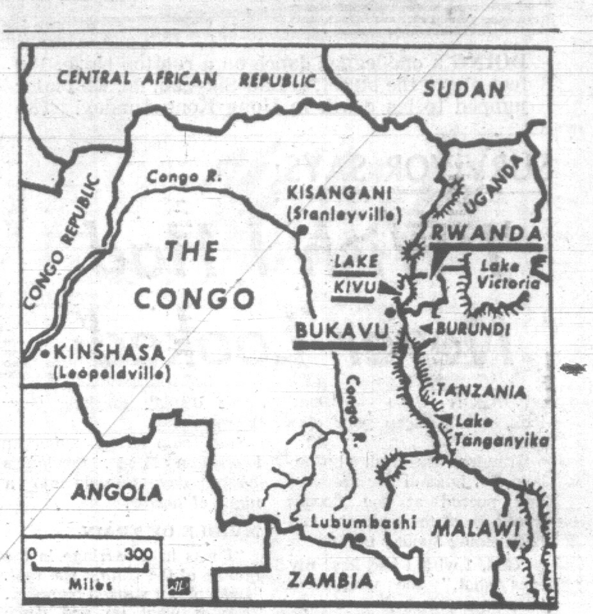
At least 15 more Arabs were killed in the civil war Sunday and 42 injured.

The National Liberation Front and the Front for the Liberation of Occupied South Yemen are vying for control of Aden as total withdrawal of British forces is expected in mid-November.

Arab police estimate casualties since Friday at 70 dead and 250 wounded.

CHANCES DIM

With the decision of the general command of the NLF here to order its Cairo representatives not to continue unity negotiations with FLOSY, only a remote chance remained for an early ceasefire.



MAP locates Bukavu which Congolese government troops have captured and the mercenaries who held it since August 8 have fled across the border into Rwanda, the Congolese government announced today in Kinshasa. The International Red Cross committee in Geneva said about 130 white mercenaries, 900 rebel Katangese soldiers and about 100 women and children crossed Lake Kivu to Rwanda during the night. FLEE TO RWANDA

Congo Claims Rebels Defeated

KINSHASA, The Congo (AP)—The Congolese government says it has defeated all the mercenaries that had been harassing it—the group which had held Bukavu since Aug. 8 and another band which invaded from Portuguese Angola last week.

The government said Sunday that the rebel forces at Bukavu had fled across Kivu Lake into neighboring Rwanda and the invaders were fleeing back to Angola after a Congolese victory in Katanga province.

In Geneva, the International Red Cross Committee said about 130 white mercenaries, 900 rebel Katangan soldiers and about 100 women and children fled to Rwanda and plans were being made to evacuate them.

In Brussels, the Belgian foreign ministry charged that after mercenaries arrived in the city of Kisenge in Katanga, Congolese Army troops arrested and machine-gunned five Europeans, including a Belgian Roman Catholic priest and a nun. It said the priest was among three persons killed and the nun was wounded.

Since July, about 20 European civilians have been reported killed by the Congolese army or police.

Foreign Minister Justin Bomboko said the situation was quiet in Katanga, where the invaders from Angola had split into two columns, one heading for Kasaji and the other for Kisenge.

LaMARSH BATTLE SHAPES UP

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Conservative members of the Commons broadcasting committee met today to map strategy in the wake of charges of mismanagement made against the CBC by Secretary of State Judy LaMarsh.

Spokesmen for the Tories and the NDP said both opposition parties were in agreement that the battle should take precedence over second reading of the new broadcasting bill which was scheduled to continue later today.

Miss LaMarsh and CBC president Alphonse Ouimet meanwhile were cooling off their spat, with no further public exchange of accusations.

Bank Suspect Killed

MONTREAL (CP) — Pierre Berthelet, 31, wanted for bank robbery, was shot and killed by police today as he tried to escape from his rooming house hideout.

MUST MEET CONDITIONS

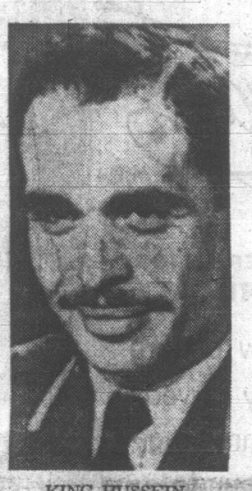
By WILLIAM N. OATIS



KING HUSSEIN
. . . strong peace bid

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—King Hussein of Jordan Sunday made the strongest Arab bid for peace with Israel so far, telling a television audience that Arab leaders are willing to recognize Israel's rights to exist and possibly to let Israeli ships through the Suez Canal if Israel meets "the right conditions."

Replying to questions on the CBS program Face the Nation, Hussein said a pre-requisite to direct peace talks is the withdrawal of Israeli troops from all Arab soil it occupied in the June war.

Israel has said it never will let go of Old Jerusalem, which Jordan seized in the 1948 Palestine war, and Israeli Prime Minister Levi Eshkol indicated a week ago that Israel intends to keep other Arab areas it captured in June.

RENEW HOSTILITIES

Artillery and tank fire punctuated the pre-dawn stillness on the Israeli-Jordanian ceasefire line Sunday, marking the third border clash in three weeks between the two countries.

An Israeli army spokesman said Jordanian guns opened up to cover Arab saboteurs who blew up a building at a farm settlement and were trying to cross the River Jordan to safety.

Jordan charged that Israel opened the two-hour artillery duel by firing on homes in the Ghor area of northern Jordan. No fatalities were reported.

Hussein meets State Secretary Dean Rusk in Washington today and with President Johnson Wednesday.

Arab countries have refused to recognize Israel's right to exist and have maintained that the 1948 state of war never has ended.

But Hussein said the Arab leaders at the Khartoum summit conference in September agreed to offer "to recognize the right of all to live in peace and security" in the Middle East.

Asked if Egyptian President Nasser would allow Israeli ships to use the Suez Canal and the Strait of Tiran, Hussein replied: "I think if the right conditions were met, yes."

'SETTLE VIETNAM FIRST AND REST WILL FOLLOW'

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters)—U Thant has called again for a solution to the Vietnam conflict to open the door for other agreements, including a Middle East settlement.

Assessing the world's situation as he entered his seventh year as United Nations secretary-general, he told reporters Saturday he considers the Vietnam problem "mainly responsible for the deterioration of the international situation".

He added:

"If the Vietnam problem can be solved, I am confident that there will be a very significant improvement in the international climate, which can lead to and generate—or facilitate—a solution of other major problems."

ANOTHER NEW TARGET

Bombers Hit Hanoi Depot

SAIGON (CP)—Another target came off the Pentagon's out-of-bounds list today as United States Air Force planes bombed North Vietnam's biggest military storage area—a little more than half a mile from the international airport serving Hanoi—a U.S. military spokesman announced.

The target was at Gia Thuong, a half mile from Gia Lam Airport, where international traffic, including planes of the three-nation International Control Commission, land.

American bombs hit buildings and anti-aircraft sites in the area, three miles northeast of the centre of Hanoi.

The Gia Lam air base, across the Red River from the heart of Hanoi, is the only MiG airfield U.S. planes have not yet attacked. It is on the Pentagon's restricted list. Among the others are the Haiphong docks and rail terminal and the power plant in Lao Cai, on the border of China.

BRIEF SKIRMISH

American F-105 Thunderchief pilots reported MiG-17 and MiG-21 interceptors in the area, and one F-105 had a brief clash with one of the MiGs, but the U.S. command said neither plane was hit.

The spokesman said Gia Thuong is considered one of the largest military storage areas in North Vietnam, with 72 storage buildings, 11 support buildings and eight administration buildings in the compound.

In another major strike Sunday, air force Thunderchiefs again raided the Puc Yen MiG base northwest of Hanoi and reported damaging at least two MiG-17s on the ground.

In the South, Viet Cong guerrillas invaded five Montagnard villages in the central highlands early today and kidnapped 245 of the mountain tribes people, a U.S. spokesman reported.

Government troops also battled Viet Cong troops near Loc Ninh Sunday.

Initial field reports said 20 South Vietnamese were killed, 38 were wounded or missing, and three American advisers were wounded.

The Viet Cong captured Loc Ninh a week ago Sunday and held it for three days. But Maj.-Gen. John Hay, commander of the U.S. Division, said the Viet Cong lost 918 dead by body count and he was certain the number killed was twice that.

3 Ridings Vote Today

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Voters today cast ballots in three federal constituencies across Canada in by-elections to fill Commons seats vacated earlier this year.

A somewhat apathetic campaign has been conducted in the Alberta riding of Jasper-Edison, disappearing under redistribution in the next general election, while cries of bribery have gone up in Nova Scotia's Colchester-Hants constituency.

In Newfoundland's Bonavista-Twillingate riding the Progressive Conservatives have led an all-out campaign to take the traditionally Liberal seat for the first time since the province joined Confederation in 1949.

Newly-elected Progressive Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield, former Nova Scotia premier, after campaigning for only two days in Colchester-Hants, is seeking a federal seat for the first time.

LONDON (CP)—Prince Philip flew to Canada today to attend the Royal Agricultural Society Commonwealth conference in Toronto and open the 1967 Royal Winter Fair.

WIRE BRIEFS

Would Return

LONDON (Reuters) — About 140 British doctors who emigrated to Canada and the United States would like to return to Britain, Health Minister Kenneth Robinson said today.

He told the House of Commons this figure was given by a health ministry team which went to North America to encourage British doctors to return.

Bridge Collapses

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao (AP)—A half-completed suspension bridge collapsed and fell into St. Anna Bay today and officials said reports indicated nine persons were killed. Ship traffic into Willemstad harbor, one of the Caribbean's busiest ports, was blocked.

31 Inches of Snow

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Snow-squalls sliced into upstate New York's snow belts for the third consecutive day today, blanketing areas east and south of Lakes Erie and Ontario with up to 31 inches of snow.

Call for Restraint 'A Canadian Original'

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Sharp said today his plan to mobilize public support for restraints on costs and prices will be a distinctive Canadian approach to the problem, and not a copy of any other country's guidelines.

Mr. Sharp told a meeting of representatives of 40 major municipalities that "everyone's job" depends on keeping Canada competitive in international markets, and that holding back costs and prices is everyone's responsibility.

"Some people have called it a guidelines policy, but guidelines means anything you want it to mean," Mr. Sharp said. "I do not intend to imitate any other country. Our problem is different. We need a Canadian approach, related to Canadian facts and Canadian circumstances."

TO CONTROL GROWTH

Mr. Sharp said the objective of current federal policy is not to dampen down the economy, but to maintain its growth at a steady rate. The economy was busting at its seams last year, and the government is trying to get it back to a rate of growth that can be maintained without excessive cost and price pressures.

Mr. Sharp said the government has "made considerable progress" in curtailing its expenditures, and he hoped soon to make an announcement of the result.

NEW MOON PROBE PLANNED

U.S. Orbits Data Satellite To Start Busy Space Week

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A multi-purpose "pinball" satellite parked itself in a stationary orbit high above Brazil today as a successful herald to one of America's busiest space weeks.

The new ATS III for (Applications Technology Satellite) rocketed into orbit from Cape Kennedy Sunday night to test systems that might eventually provide man with greater benefits from space. Included are new experiments in communications, navigation and weather prediction.

After a few days of precise manoeuvring, the satellite is to take up permanent station above the mouth of the Amazon River in Brazil.

ATS III is one of four U.S. space shots scheduled this week. Also on tap are:

1. Surveyor VI, set to blast off from the Cape at 2:22 a.m. EST Tuesday on a planned 65-hour flight to the moon. The spacecraft is intended to land in a potential astronaut landing site near the centre of the moon's surface to snap photographs and analyze the lunar soil.

2. ESSA VI, another in a series of operational weather-study satellites, to be launched Wednesday from Vandenberg Air Force Base, near Santa Barbara, Calif.

3. A mammoth Saturn V rocket, similar to the one which one day will propel astronauts to the moon, to undergo its first test launching Thursday from the Cape. The rocket, largest, most powerful ever built, is to boost an unmanned Apollo moonship 11,400 miles into space.

FIRST A NUMBNESS, THEN TRAGIC NEWS

By TED GASKELL

Everything was going just right for the 32-year-old branch manager.

He was assured of a move to head office and everybody predicted he'd be general manager while he was still a comparatively young man.

And that would mean no scrimping for his children's education; no worries about mortgages. He could settle down to a good, full life.

But that all changed within days.

First he felt a numbness in his hands which rubbing didn't eliminate. It persisted and he went to his doctor. A few days later, after a number of tests, he was given the news.

"You have multiple sclerosis."

The disease—little is known about the cause and so far there is no cure—is the most terrifying and most tragic of all.

It gives hardly any warning before striking and it strikes most often at an age — between 20 and 40 — when a man or woman has the greatest family responsibility.

It is indeed, as president of the Victoria and Vancouver Island Multiple Sclerosis Society W. H. Phillips, says "a disease of the family. It hurts every member."

The local branch looks after 200 patients with its $23,700 budget of which $12,300 will come from the United Red Feather-Red Cross Appeal funds.

Some goes for administration but the greater part by far goes to provide wheelchairs and other equipment for the patients.

Some money goes for drugs and a good deal for physiotherapy.

The society has its own daily clinic in the Saanich Health Centre where Mrs. Pat Spriggs works with up to 25 patients a week.

About two thirds of the victims deteriorate rapidly and are soon in hospital beds.

But for the rest, the condition worsens gradually and sometimes there are remissions. But the condition returns.

So far there is no cure.

That's why the society works so hard to make things as easy and life as pleasant as possible for the patients.

Almost every month there is a social night with entertainment planned.

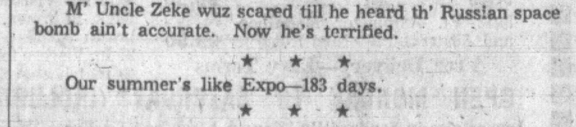
Highlights of the social year are the Christmas party usually attended by 300 or 400 patients and family, and the garden party in the summer.

An important part of the society's work is providing transportation to the therapy sessions.

For this the society has the Cosmopolitan Bus, which has on its standard frame a special body that enables it to carry six wheel chair cases.

Yarrows Ltd. provided the bus and the society pays the running costs and the driver.

"Without the bus, the society couldn't function," Mr. Phillips said.



M' Uncle Zeke wuz scared till he heard th' Russian space bomb ain't accurate. Now he's terrified.

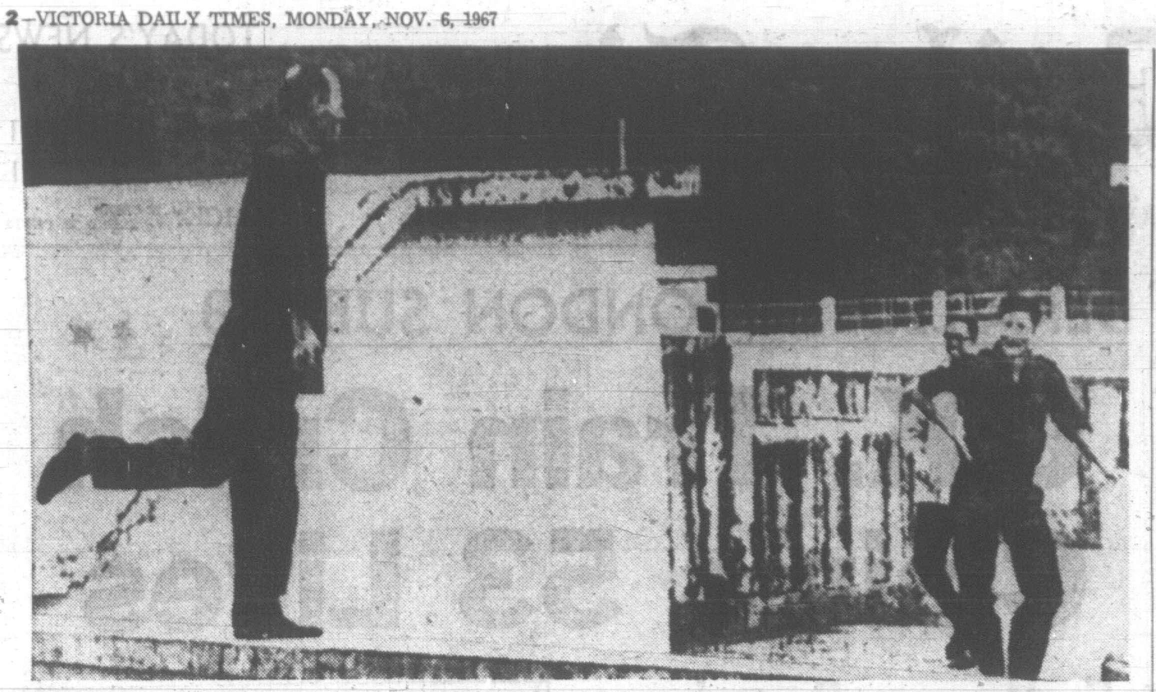
Official audited figure for United Red Feather-Red Cross Appeal contributions at noon today was $453,279 or 75.5 per cent of the $600,000 target.



DOING a one-legged dance on a rooftop ledge, 100 feet above the street, is Lau Sik-Yan, 44, who later jumped to his death in Hong Kong Sunday. The men on the right tried to coax him to safety. Lau performed on the ledge for 20 minutes before committing suicide. (AP Wirephoto.)

SURVIVOR SAYS:

'I Wish I Had Never Looked'

LONDON (UPI) — "Dont' look, dearie, keep your eyes shut."

Grandmother Ethel Cowland, 64, ignored her rescuers and peered at the floodlit wreckage of the train she had been riding Sunday night.

"God, I wish I had kept my eyes shut," she whispered. "There were bodies everywhere."

Mrs. Cowland was one of the lucky ones. She wasn't scratched in Britain's worst train crash in 10 years.

For her, the 7:43 from Hastings to London was ideal. It had permitted her to miss an earlier train and stay with her grandchildren for a fireworks display marking Guy Fawkes Day.

One stop from suburban Lewisham Mrs. Cowland's happy day turned into a night of horror.

MIDDLE OF TRAIN

"I was in a carriage in the middle of the train," she said. "suddenly, it started bumping. Then it went up and down furiously. Then it lurched and the lights went out."

People screamed in the darkness. They were tossed like rag dolls and baggage crashed down from overhead racks.

Mrs. Cowland could not remember her car leaving the track near the Hither Green Bridge.

"I ended up in a corner of the carriage," she said. "I had been thrown on top of a girl who seemed very badly hurt, It was black, very black, and I could smell smoke."

There also was panic in the wreckage and cries from the injured. In the darkness, people screamed and moaned. But one man, shouting louder than the others, gradually got everyone quiet.

"This man began organizing everyone," Mrs. Cowland said. "he was wonderful, very cool."

WET NIGHT

The man—no one thought of asking his name — began leading survivors out into the chilly, wet night even before the first rescuers arrived.

But Mrs. Cowland was too frightened to walk. So two men led her outside.

"Don't look, dearie," one of them said. "keep your eyes shut."

But Mrs. Cowland had to see what happened.

"Unfortunately, I did look," she said. "God, I wish I had kept my eyes shut."

Bodies were strewn on the twisted tracks and along the railway embankment. Mrs. Cowland saw at least 20 — "all of them seemed so still."

NEED CROWBARS

Voices called out. "we need crowbars. Please cut us out. Oxygen, does anyone have oxygen?"

Then Mrs. Cowland and the other living among the dead heard the first of 40 ambulances to arrive at the scene.

"The scene was like nothing on this earth," Mrs. Cowland said.

Levesque Surprised He Got Medal

MONTREAL (CP) — Rene Levesque says he has been awarded a centennial medal by the federal government "for service to Canada."

The Independent member of the Quebec legislature for the Montreal riding of Laurier who recently opted for a sovereign Quebec, registered surprise at being so honored.

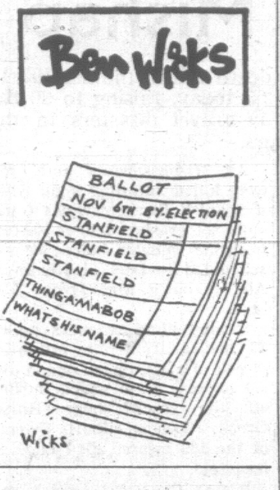
Writing in his column in the Montreal weekly Dimanche-Matin, he said the medal was mailed to him last week by the secretary of state.

The federal government is awarding about 20,000 centennial medals, with one going to each member of Parliament and provincial legislatures.

Mr. Levesque, a former Quebec welfare minister, was elected to the legislature as a Liberal but resigned to become an independent after the Quebec Liberal Federation rejected his proposal to turn Quebec into a sovereign state.

Terrorist Hunted

PARIS (AP) — French police pressed a big manhunt Sunday in an effort to trap Clarke Tenne, escaped secret army terrorist who had fought against President de Gaulle's Algerian policies. The search, aided by roadblocks on main highways and French frontiers, came as de Gaulle prepared to make one of his periodic trips into the provinces.



Degrees Awarded Two Victorians

Two Victoria men were granted degrees at the University of Saskatchewan fall convocation at Saskatoon on Saturday.

Neil Kennedy Jones and Douglas Archie Shaw both received bachelor of arts degrees. They were among eight graduates from British Columbia. A total of 86 of the 625 degrees conferred went to residents outside Saskatchewan.

20 MINUTES

Sik-Yan Was A Star

HONG KONG (AP)—For 20 minutes Sunday, 44-year-old Lau Sik-Yan was a star.

Ten minutes after a 17-year-old Chinese girl had silently thrown herself to her death from a 100-foot high rooftop ledge and while police were picking up her body, Lau crawled on to the same ledge.

While hundreds below watched, he danced and skipped along the ledge. He taunted police and firemen who tried to coax him down. He swung from a rooftop radio aerial, balanced first on one leg and then on the other, grinning, smiling and laughing as his audience below alternately gasped, cheered, and applauded.

Nine firemen and police with a circular safety net manoeuvred to stay under him.

Then, with a final laugh, he jumped. The net men missed him by a few feet and Lau crumpled dead on the pavement.

Police do not know if the two deaths were related or whether Lau was simply carried away by the fact that he had a ready-made audience.

Reality Sails Home Ahead of the Pack

By SHIRLEY HEWETT

A light northerly combined with an ebb tide to send 16 RVic yachts off to a good start in Sunday's first race of the Sidney winter series.

As soon as they had cleared the line off Armstong Point, the boats popped their spinnakers for an easy run down to the first mark in Sidney Channel.

Halfway through the race, the wind dropped, stranding some boats around the Sidney wharf mark while others straggled back again toward the channel on the second round.

Jack Smith's eight-metre Reality, sailed by a three-man team, led the fleet around the 11-mile course to finish half an hour ahead of Walter Stenner's Encore.

Results on corrected time were: 1, Jack Smith's Reality; 2, Walter Stenner's Encore; 3, Fred Gardiner's Shih Yen; 4, Dave Anstey's Hussy; 5, Peter Coombs' Doxy II; 6, A. B. Sanderson's Filey Brig; 7, Peter Young's Hammerhead; 8, Gordon MacKay's Whistler; 9, John Malleson's Swallow and 10, Don Lawson's Tepah.

DNF boats were Crescendo Concubine, Galenaia, Marionette II, Semiramis and Skua.

The Saturday races in Cadboro Bay followed the previous pattern of gusting winds. The series races for Davidson's and El Toros have been rescheduled for next weekend.

Doug Harrison and Doug Deer placed first and second in the Fireball race.

RCNSA races in Esquimalt Harbor Sunday were started in 10 m.p.h. winds which dropped to six m.p.h. but remained steady.

Robin Spear was invincible in the El Toro division with four firsts and one second place for the five races.

Bill Whitby was next with one first and three seconds. Junior Pat Brownlee sailed a fine race, coming from behind to take second place in the second race.

Twelve boats competed.

Other RCNSA results were:

O.K. DINHIES (6 boats)

First race: 1, John Ganton; 2, Frank Cushing; 3, Doug Beer. Second race: 1, Dennis Parsons; 2, Frank Cushing; 3, Doug Beer.

FIREBALLS (6 boats)

First race: 1, Jack Stacey; 2, Lou Boulanger; 3, Roger Oldham. Second race: 1, Lou Boulanger; 2, Doug Hemphill; 3, Jack Stacey.

UNIQUA 420's

First race: 1, Paul Jensen; 2, John Sharpe; 3, Margaret Ashofrd. Second race: 1, Paul Jensen; 2, Mike Weir; 3, John Sharpe.

IN HAIPHONG

Scars of War Hard to Find

By SVEN OESTE

Special to the Washington Post by a correspondent of the Swedish newspaper Dagens Nyheter.

HAIPHONG — The atmosphere of war is here but the scars of war are surprisingly few considering the heavy air raids of the last few months.

Haiphong is certainly not dead, not even crippled. Under the protection of darkness, hundreds of heavily loaded trucks take goods to the interior of North Vietnam every night.

The big bridge is down, its back broken by bombs, but there are, as there always are in North Vietnam, other bridges, other ways, other means. It may be true that the Americans have, as they claim in their official communiques, severely hit some warehouses and storage areas, but goods are obviously coming and going.

One sees the big crates everywhere along roads and in parks, quite openly awaiting their turn to start the journey inland.

In Haiphong harbor, there doesn't seem to be any empty space at the docks. Activity, to the amateur's eye, looks normal with ships from "socialist brother nations" discharging and taking in goods.

OVER-DRAMATIZED

In a sense, Haiphong and Hanoi illustrate the impression that the outside world has over-dramatized and made somewhat misleading the picture of the character of the air war against the two big cities.

The centre of Haiphong seems strangely calm. There have been no heavy air raids in the last two weeks and the occasional alerts hardly interrupt normal activity.

The centre city used to have about 200,000 inhabitants, but now only about one-third are left according to official figures. The rest have been evacuated. But this doesn't leave the streets deserted: many of them are crowded, strangely enough, with children playing.

There is the usual string of shelters along the avenues, people rushing to and fro in steel helmets. The trucks sleep in the shadow of the trees awaiting darkness and working hours.

In downtown Haiphong there are no physical traces of bombs—no ruins, no craters. Roughly a mile from the centre point of urban Haiphong (the point is the municipal theatre) the sight is different, brutally different.

Here, on both sides of the river and about half a mile from a downed bridge, a whole group of what we would call suburban dwellings is completely crushed. According to official figures, the area housed 2,000 people. Losses were limited, however, as a result of the area's effective shelter system.

They paid a second visit and arrested Harry Phillips, 20, who was subsequently fined $50 for obstructing police earlier.

At the same time the RCMP picked up Stanley Wayne Cross, 20, for causing a disturbance and resisting arrest. He was fined $100.

BLOODLESS COUP IN YEMEN

New Regime to 'End War'

SALLAL
. . . out of country

SAN'A (AP) — Yemen's new republican regime indicates that it will seek reconciliation with the royalists to end the five-year-long civil war.

The new regime came to power Sunday in a bloodless coup while President Abdullah al Sallal was out of the country. It said its goal is to "correct the situation" in Yemen.

Cairo's Middle East news agency quoted the new acting president, Abdel Rahman Iriani, as saying contacts were under way with pro-royalist tribes with the aim of bringing them into the republican fold.

Iriani is a conservative and is believed to have great influence with the warring tribes.

SUPPORT REGIME

The new premier, Moshen el Ainy, said all tribes have expressed backing for the new regime. He also said Yemen would follow a "good neighbor" policy with all sister states, including the neighboring monarchy of Saudi Arabia, which backed the royalists in the civil war that began when Sallal led the overthrow of Yemen's 11-century-old monarchy in 1962.

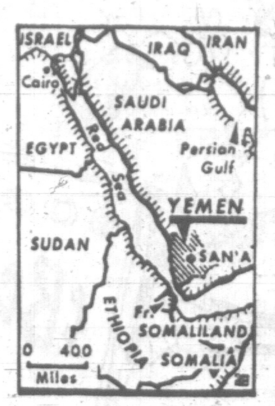
Egypt sent 40,000 troops to Yemen to keep the republicans in power, but its losses in the June war with Israel forced President Nasser to agree with King Feisal of Saudi Arabia to end their involvement in Yemen and try to restore peace there.

Sallal had obstructed the Yemen peace commission sponsored by the two nations, and it appeared that Sallal's ouster, if not engineered by the Egyptians, must at least have had their blessing.

RECALLS TROOPS

Observers said Iriani and his team of officers are likely to co-operate with Egypt and Saudi Arabia to reach a peace agreement in Yemen. Egypt already has started pulling out its estimated [illegible] troops still in Yemen and Saudi Arabia has quit supplying money and weapons to the royalist troops encamped in the hills.

The Middle East news agency said Sallal heard the news of the coup in Baghdad, Iraq, and cancelled plans to go on to Moscow for the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution. It gave no indication what Sallal might do next.



WHERE ACTION IS
. . . shaded area is Yemen

In San'a, capital of this small desert nation in the southwest corner of the Arabian peninsula, crowds of civilians, soldiers and sword-waving tribesmen surged into the streets to cheer the new regime.

Iriani, 56, is a long-time opponent of Sallal. At the former president's request, he had been imprisoned in Cairo for a year before returning to Yemen Oct. 27 for an ostensible reconciliation with Sallal.

El Ainy, a former foreign minister, will head a cabinet of 13 civilians and one army officer. Abdel Salam Sabra was appointed vice-premier and internal affairs minister.

Typhoon Sinks Ship; 81 Feared Dead

MANILA (UPI) — The owners of an inter-island ship sunk by typhoon Emma reported today 14 bodies had been recovered, 67 persons were missing and 134 had been rescued.

The Mindoro carried 183 passengers and a crew of 32 when it was caught by Emma's 110-mile-an-hour winds Saturday.

The Red Cross and the Philippine News Service set casualties on land at 84 dead, 515 injured and more than 243,300 homeless. Property and crop damage was estimated at $75 million.

Officials were trying to reach the fishing village of Baconin Sorsogon south of Manila. A tidal wave was reported to have devastated the village.

Arson Probed In Sarnia Fire

SARNIA, Ont. (CP)—Ten persons were rescued Sunday, two from a smoking second-storey apartment building, when fire struck the downtown district for the second time in less than 48 hours.

There were no injuries in the three-hour fire that left at least 26 families homeless.

Destroyed was an old four-storey apartment building and two stores on each side of it. The building, facing the St Clair River on Front Street, is only a few blocks from the site of a $1,000,000 fire which ravaged the area Saturday.

At no time did the weekend fires threaten to spread to oil refineries about a mile away. Police launched an immediate investigation to determine if arson was to blame.

Lost in Saturday's fire was a dairy and two business offices. Embers from both fires were still smouldering today.

There was no estimate of damage.

DESTROY APARTMENTS

The ground floor of the apartment building had been vacant since it was burned out eight years ago. But the apartments above were destroyed.

At the height of the blaze, a second fire, caused by an electrical defect in a drugstore, broke out less than a block away, but was quickly extinguished.

While firemen fought to contain the blaze, more than 2,000 spectators gathered in the immediate area, forcing police to cordon the entire downtown area.

'Gutless Follower Of U.S.'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Rene Levesque, independent member of the Quebec Legislature for Montreal's Laurier riding, Sunday accused the federal government of making "blood money" out of the Vietnam war through arms contracts from the United States.

Levesque, who prefers to call himself a sovereignist rather than a separatist, told 1,600 persons at a meeting of the Canadian Aid for Vietnam Civilians organization that the government is "a gutless camp follower of the U.S."

He said Canada is an accomplice in the war because this country was involved in agreements made in 1954 to keep the peace in Vietnam.

Canada stood by, he said, when these agreements were thrown out.

"This is one of the biggest nations in the world just destroying one of the smallest," Levesque said of the war in Vietnam.

"The Americans have forgotten why they are there. It has just become a face-saving operation."

Polio Vaccine Withheld After Deaths

TORONTO (CP)—Release of all Sabin oral polio vaccine produced within the last four months has been halted by Connaught Medical Research Laboratories following a warning from U.S. health authorities.

Dr. J. N. W. Ferguson, director of the laboratory, said the precaution was taken in September after the American government asked drug manufacturers there to stop using African green monkeys in making the vaccine.

The move after an undiagnosed disease involving the animals caused seven deaths in West Germany.

Dr. Ferguson said the Canadian move was only a precaution because the monkeys used in West Germany came from Uganda, while those bought by North American laboratories come from other African countries.

He said Connaught has sufficient vaccine made before last July to meet market demand.

American officials said all vaccine now on the American market is safe and danger of infection in North America is remote.

Connaught is the major supplier of the vaccine in Canada.

Unanimous Warning

PREMIER BENNETT SPEAKING last week at the Social Credit League convention, showed commendable recognition of the inflationary threat which faces Canada, and a good appreciation of some of the ways in which it may be combated. It was only when he diverged into his obsessive antipathy to the federal government that he became inconsistent and contradictory.

Basically, Mr. Bennett's thesis was almost identical with that of Mr. Louis Rasminsky, the Governor of the Bank of Canada, who also issued a warning to Canadians last week. Although Mr. Bennett seems to have flirted with the idea of compulsory wage and price controls from time to time, he is now quoted as saying: "I am not even thinking along these lines," and it is a relief to learn this. Such regulations, even in the emergency of wartime, lead to endless problems of implementation and supervision. No control plan can succeed without full public co-operation.

Like Mr. Rasminsky, the Premier spoke bluntly. Where the banker warned that if there was not voluntary restraint in spending on the part of government, management and labor, then "hard economic reality" would force us to adjust in "other more painful ways," Mr. Bennett's equally clear version was that the alternative to unrestrained inflationary spending would be either compulsory controls or unemployment and recession.

Where Mr. Rasminsky warned that if costs get out of control "we will price ourselves out of export markets," Mr. Bennett said we must keep prices and wages within reason, for "unless the people can discipline themselves the world market place will discipline them." And those forces, he added, are "ruthless".

In line with such thinking, Mr. Bennett says that provincial government expenditures will be cut or postponed wherever possible. But even with that action, the forthcoming budget will be many millions more than last year's record total. Where it is difficult to follow him is in his assertion that proposed federal government cutbacks will cause unemployment, whereas Mr. Bennett's will be in the interests of the people. A suggestion in the news report that provincial retrenchment would involve school and hospital construction, however, raises the serious problem of choice among many demands for government spending. Hospitals and schools should stand high on the priority list.

It is good, however, that so energetic a leader as Mr. Bennett has added his voice to those of federal ministers, economists and bankers in urging public recognition of the serious inflationary spiral in which we are now involved.

From now on it will be up to the public to support all reasonable measures proposed as a curb on an inflation rate which without forthright action may soon be described as "runaway."

Packages for B.C. Visitors

RECREATION MINISTER KENneth Kiernan's forecast of increased tourist earnings for British Columbia when more package tours are available to foreign visitors invites a development widely appreciated in Europe and not unknown here.

He has returned from recent travels apparently impressed by the way visitors in Europe can arrange their vacation trips in such a way that basic necessities are cared for before they leave home. "By making arrangements with their travel agent in advance, they can pay for their transportation, be assured of accommodation and meals and be freed of any fear of being stranded in a foreign land.

Some package bus tours of this type are at present available in British Columbia and Alberta, but Mr. Kiernan looks to an extension of such arrangements and a consequent increase in foreign tourist business. The scenic and industrial views of the two western provinces could offer much to visitors from Europe or the eastern parts of this continent. Mountain, lake, river and ocean vistas are unsurpassed, and logging, mining, mill or hydro operations could be put on view to provide unusual attractions. Some co-operative arrangements will be necessary, but the minister's suggestion would be well worth following up.

Caribbean Caustic

THE HAITIAN AMBASSADOR to the United States has protested vigorously that a recently-released film based on a novel by Mr. Graham Greene is "an inflammatory libel against Haiti and has been publicly released to mislead the American people."

Among the specific indictments levelled in Ambassador Arthur Bonhomme's libel charge was that the film depicted Haiti with "a wrecked port, shabby taxis, dilapidated hotels and houses, broken-up streets and roads, crippled beggars, voodoo worshippers and killers." Not a very attractive picture, certainly, but how seriously can one take the accusation that it libels Haiti when it corresponds to the description given by many a journalist who has visited the island in recent years?

The reign of terror in Haiti which is presided over by self-appointed President-for-Life "Papa Doc" Duvalier has been so thoroughly exposed that even the United States, which has propped up some pretty nasty Caribbean and Latin American regimes in its time, has cut off almost all aid to the island. It is one of those instances where the people are going to suffer as long as the president and his Ton-Ton Macoute elements remain in power, with or without foreign aid.

The Country Life

MR. H. W. HERRIDGE, WHOSE popularity in the House of Commons extends far beyond the ranks of his NDP colleagues, has once more championed the life of a countryman. He wishes that the young people of Canada could be encouraged to enjoy this type of existence and he thinks that their education on Canadian resources should start more intensively in the early grades of school.

"Let us," he said in debate last week, "get our young people to focus their attention on this important area. Let us give them a purpose in this field. They will then have an interest in the land, they will understand water conservation and forest conservation and will have an interest in wildlife."

To an age devoted to urbanization at a rapidly increasing rate, Mr. Herridge brings a breath of the frontier, a touch of nostalgia and perhaps a few awakening doubts regarding the city as the best human environment.

"Prior to being elected a member of parliament," he says, "I lived for 50 years in complete independence and security on a tree farm slightly above the social welfare level, and enjoyed every moment of it . . . I must explain that if you live under these circumstances you do not require $10,000 or $12,000 a year to live comfortably, because in addition to what we get from our timber we smoke our own bacon, raise our own cattle and burn wood in our own furnaces. We also make our own cider and wines. In fact I might tell the honorable gentleman that I am the only member of parliament who lives in a log cabin, and I am proud of it."

FROM LONDON

By EDWARD CRANKSHAW

Celebrating Power, Not Revolution

IT is not the October Revolution that is being celebrated all over the U.S.S.R. this week; what is being celebrated is Soviet power. For the Russian people the Revolution is no more than a distant and rousing chapter in their history, having no more bearing on the present than other turning points long past.

It is only the Soviet government which attaches mystical importance to the commemoration of an upheaval to which its authority is owed.

Among the great crowds making jubilee holiday will be many harboring bitterness against that authority, many secret and contemptuous deriders of official humbug, some who still mourn the dissipation of a noble dream. These last will not communicate their feelings; indeed, if they tried to do so they would not be understood. In a certain sense we in the West are closer to the events of 1917 than the Russians themselves. For them 1917 meant hope, which soon died; for us it meant fear, which persists.

There are new hopes today in Russia, some splendid, none having much to do with Lenin. The standard bearers of these hopes are mostly young. Some call themselves Communists, and belong to the party; some do not. All are more interested in the future than in the past. They want to improve Soviet society, and make it more equitable and just, less oppressive, less currupt. But they do not want to return to the primitive certainties of Lenin.

A Gap to Bridge

They want, like all rebels everywhere, to bridge the gap between reality and official pretence. They accept the broad framework of society; they can conceive of no other. They do not know — how can they?— that, for example, the social services of Britain, developed from a capitalist base with no violent revolution, are largely in advance of their own. They know that our material amenities are far ahead of theirs; never mind, they will have those, too, one day. But they believe that our parliamentary democracy is an elaborate confidence trick, which in some sense it is, without being able to see that the free expression of opinion in this country makes itself felt in many ways other than the returning to Westminster of mock enemies, who are closer to each other than to the rest of us.

If there is hope in Russia there is also pride. They have labored and suffered and laid down their lives, a peasant society transplanted into factories. They have kept Germany at bay, and crushed her. They have reached the stars. They also feel that they belong to the greatest country in the world — the greatest in all it does for good or evil. It should not surprise us that pride of country can swell the hearts of millions who, in reason, should feel disaffected. How many times has England been saved by the down-trodden and the outcast who gave their lives for a society which gave them nothing while they lived?

There are two nations in the Soviet Union, as in all other countries: the gap between the privileged and the peasant mass is appalling. But the two nations are one in their sense of belonging. They share the universal human need which must be satisfied by the conviction that what they belong to — their club, their village, their city, their country — has something the others have not got.

The Vision

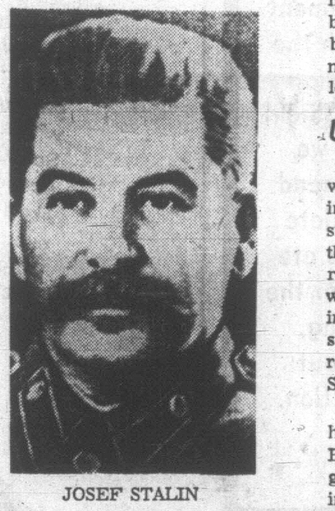
There is no need at this moment to go on about the ruin of the bright, wild-eyed no doubt foolish hopes which were betrayed, first by Lenin, then by Stalin, if not by life itself. The revolutionaries were sustained by the vision of a society in which all men should be equal; privilege would be done away with, abundance shared by all, the human spirit liberated by an environment which would kill envy, malice and greed. There would be no fear, neither the grinding fear of poverty, nor the blighting fear of authority. To realize this dream they were prepared to put up with privation and savage discipline, not perceiving until it was too late that privation and discipline had moulded them and conditioned them into the fearful and obedient servants of a new tyranny, harsher than the old.

Only those who believe that humanity can transfigure itself by a single, violent act of will can be surprised at this failure. The rest of us will see that what is being celebrated in the Soviet Union this week is the very survival of a land which tore itself to pieces and then put itself together again in the teeth of a hostile world, very much on the same lines as before — until, at the cost of unimaginable suffering and by concentrating everything on industrial development and education on the broadest front, it lifted itself up to be one of the two greatest powers in the world.

Whether this consummation could have been achieved by means other than the means notoriously employed by Lenin and Stalin we cannot tell. The achievement is there. The Soviet Union is a world power as Imperial Russia never was. The main thing that interests us today is how it will use its power.

Responsibilities of Power

Power, as Khrushchev discovered, and as his successors know, brings responsibilities with it — if only the responsibility of preserving that power and preventing its destruction by uncontrollable catastrophe. This makes for cautiousness. In many ways the Russians are models of caution just now; not for them the sort of recklessness which led the Americans into Vietnam. Their last flicker of recklessness, the Cuban adventure, was soon over. Recognising that Moscow's position could not be sustained without risking a major war that would solve no problems at all, they retreated. Just like that.



JOSEF STALIN
. . . notorious means . . .

The Anglo-American predicament distracts the mind, their mind as well as ours, from their own past wickedness — and their present, but quieter wickedness.

The Russians are not holy, only cautious. And if the main lesson of these jubilee festivities (is it really needed?) is the continuity of history and the sleepwalking way in which every society goes on repeating itself after every upheaval, we should take some comfort from it.

For the Russians are basically a very cautious people. It is too much to say, as Mr. A. J. P. Taylor has said, that throughout their history they have only asked to be left alone. They are inveterate meddlers with a compulsive urge to stir trouble in real or imaginary enemy camps; an itch to prove — to themselves? — that their way, though not on the surface attractive, is at bottom the best way; an infallible technique for raising up the very bogeys, non-existent before they thought of them, they most fear.

If Moscow's greatest folly has been crassly and often brutally to provoke in the West belligerent attitudes and to encourage nationalism at the moment in history when the most important powers were showing signs of a dawning global consciousness, so our greatest folly was to take such provocation too seriously. Or rather, perhaps, our failure to recognize beneath the ideological boasting, the age-old incapacity to leave well alone, and the conspiratorial and cynical tradition of a police state, the equally-old refusal of any Russian government to commit itself too far or too deeply for long. That, and our inability to distinguish between Russianism and Communism — an ability, to be true, shared by the Russians themselves — but not by, for example, some of her close neighbors, from whom we really should learn.

Unnoticed Pattern

All this is Greek to most Russians, who, contrary to popular belief, are not introspective except in sudden fits and starts. They would not, for example, see this pattern as it has been revealed in a recent, indeed a continuing, exercise, which has involved inciting and supporting the Arabs against Israel, then sending warships to make sure that the resulting situation is kept under control. So it will go on.

The Soviet Union is a super-power. It has won back the empire of the tsars. But by playing the nationalist power game too hard in the name of an international secular religion, it has raised the spectre of China against her before allaying the anger, based in fear, she kindled in America. This is not very intelligent, and some Russians know it. Others are feeling their oats.

We all point to the space-ships as the supreme triumph of the Soviet Union. My own guess is that the Soviet foreign office and ministry of defence contemplate with greater pride the imposing presence, fulfilment of frustrated imperial dreams, of those splendid warships tearing up and down the Mediterranean and finding safe anchorage in Suez harbor. "Long live the glorious proletarian revolution" they will all be signalling away on Tuesday. It is a bizarre concatenation of moods for the rest of us to cope with. But let us not forget that, having once stirred up trouble, those ships, by the look of it, are now helping to contain it.

Looking Back

From The Times, Nov. 6, 1907.

At a meeting of the YMCA it developed that the committee have under considerations a proposition to purchase two waterfront sites for the new association building.

One of the parties having these properties for sale offered to donate five thousand dollars to the new building if his property is selected.

The committee will go into the matter thoroughly before dealing with the offer but it is likely that something will be done in the matter in the very near future.

Focus on CBC Change

By MAURICE WESTERN
from Ottawa

BY HER somewhat sulphurous comments about rotten management in the CBC, Miss LaMarsh has succeeded better than her critics in directing public attention to the controversial broadcasting legislation now before Parliament. From remarks outside the house, it would appear that the adjective "rotten", as used by the secretary of state denotes inefficiency rather than moral turpitude. This realization should ease the shock expressed by various opposition members for, after all, the opposite attribute of efficiency has very rarely been attributed to the CBC.

Western

Even so the episode has a certain piquancy because the information that unsettled Miss LaMarsh was communicated to her only within the past fortnight by mysterious personages and was of such a nature that it can be disclosed only to those who are about to become insiders and must be prepared for the worst.

Now that we have been officially alerted to the state of Denmark, there should be a rekindling of interest in the LaMarsh bill. Indeed, the secretary of state has tossed other important logs on the fire by her television testimony that the bill is intended virtually to save the country and that the new CBC president will have to do more than the prime minister.

All this gives considerably more urgency to various questions which have already arisen about the new legislation.

To begin with, there is the matter of the five-year budget, only partially provided for in the bill but a major element in the whole scheme.

In the House on Wednesday Miss LaMarsh spoke hopefully of the new and unknown appointees, remarking: "It will be their capabilities, their attitudes and their efforts which will make or break broadcasting in the future." But they are inheriting a situation which plainly has impressed the minister, and probably the public, as a mess. At best this will take some time to master and, as Miss LaMarsh has warned the results cannot be expected to be immediately apparent.

'Don't Seem to Manage'

Of course, no one planned this situation. Past governments were presumably persuaded that they were making wise appointments. Nevertheless the problems overwhelmed the governors and the minister's final verdict is that "they just don't seem to manage."

Until the new officers have had an opportunity to demonstrate over time that they can succeed where their predecessors failed, it would seem extremely unwise for Parliament to vote five years supply for the CBC even on the dubious assumption that the principle is sound. In theory, the appointees-to-be could be dismissed at any time. But as Miss LaMarsh herself has testified, the process of her own awakening was spaced over two years.

Questions have also been raised as to the adequacy of the controls over the CBC. In the case of private broadcasters the sanctions are undoubtedly severe, perhaps even Draconian. But, of course, the CBC is in a different position; if it is deprived of a licence, the public in that area will lose the national service. The theory is that where the CBC is the delinquent party, the new CRC will report to Parliament. According to Miss LaMarsh cause will then have been established for the dismissal of those responsible within the corporation.

What Parliament does in such a situation will presumably depend on the government. It happens, however, that the government has suffered grave embarrassment because it has been extremely difficult to persuade men of known competence to take a chance with the CBC. Miss LaMarsh blames salaries for part of the trouble; evidently there is some reluctance to pay the CBC president more than the prime minister.

Hard to Find

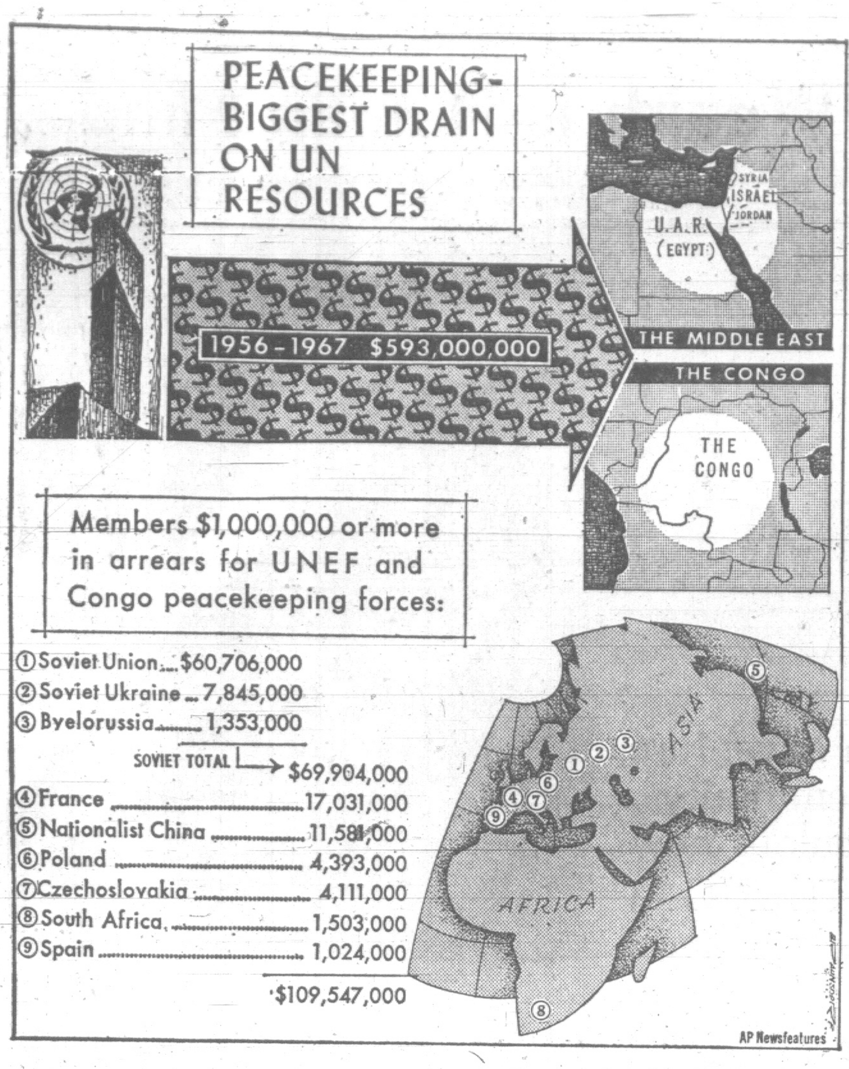
One would suppose, since the government has experienced such trouble in obtaining top CBC executives, that it would be extraordinarily reluctant to see cause for dismissal (and more trouble) even though the row within the corporation was deafening.

Miss LaMarsh mentioned other aspects of the legislation which have received less attention. It is the intention, apparently, that the provisions with respect to Canadian content shall also apply in future to commercial messages.

The problem is not solely nor even primarily that our national resolution is being undermined by commercials. What troubles the government is the thought that sponsors may sneakily resort to the United States for promotional film about distinctively Canadian goods. There is a dollar incentive here because production is cheaper south of the border. What is sought, therefore, is a protective made-in-Canada policy more favorable to Canadian artists.

But is this policy altogether consistent? One of the goals is flexibility; for example, the more a station profits, the more will be required of it in terms of high quality Canadian content. It would seem that if sponsors and producers have to put out more for promotional material, there will be that much less for quality programming.

Another curious provision will compel manufacturers to build UHF and VHF capacity into all receivers offered for sale. This surely must add to cost although it appears to be the case that prices are already at a level which has produced vast consumer indifference, especially to color.



UN FINANCING DIFFICULT

TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS—The United Nations' financial plight has eased since it plugged up its two big peacekeeping operations, but the crisis is far from solved.

Noting recently that the world organization is still more than $60 million in the red, Secretary-General U Thant warned that "prospects continue to give little cause for optimism."

A group of 14 experts who studied the financial situation said the main problem still was the failure of more than half of the organization's members to keep up with all their required payments.

●

The regular budget of the United Nations is financed by contributions from member states on a scale determined periodically by the assembly. At least that is the way it works out on paper.

A recent analysis, however, showed that from Jan. 1, 1957, through Sept. 30, 1965, the United Nations spent $1,170,500,000 and took in $976,600,000, leaving a shortfall of $193,900,000. This was partially offset after the United Nations issued $173,100,000 in emergency bonds.

●

The biggest drain on UN resources has come from The Congo and Middle East peacekeeping forces which required an outlay of more than half a billion dollars between 1956 and 1967. The UNEF operation alone cost the United Nations nearly $200 million over the years and the big Congo force ran up a whopping tab of $393 million.

Refusal of the Soviet Union, France and others to pay peacekeeping costs for one or both operations lies at the heart of the UN's current deficit.

UN diplomats are hopeful that with the drain of these two operations cut off, the organization's deficits can eventually be wiped out by voluntary contributions.

Thant has proposed a 1967 budget for regular UN activities of $141.9 million, an increase of $12.4 million over 1967 expenditures. Main reason for the jump was a plan to add 524 persons to the staff, mainly in the economic and social fields. This would raise the payroll to 8,102.

The advisory committee on administrative and budgetary questions has also submitted to the assembly a recommendation of its own that only 271 new staff members be added, cutting Thant's figure almost in half.

●

These budget estimates do not include funds for related but specialized agencies such as the UN Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO), the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO), and the World Health Organization (WHO).

Is Foreign Technology A Threat to Canada?

By DOUGLAS FISHER and HARRY S. CROWE

Twice, recently, we have read "inside" accounts of what the Walter Gordon task force is in the process of turning out for the federal government as a policy guideline in Mr. Gordon's favorite field of American economic investment in Canada.

Fisher

It will be recalled that a group of economists, mainly from the University of Toronto, and mainly associated with the production of two books by the University League for Social Reform, were put to work in a little crypto-royal commission when Mr. Gordon returned to the cabinet.

The former minister of finance and election strategist had voluntarily wandered briefly in the wilderness after the Liberals failed to do as well as he had anticipated in the 1965 election. When he came back from the desert he brought with him some scholarly Bedouins. More than one had been flushed out from behind the NDP sand dunes.

Crowe

The "inside" stories we have read we do not really claim to have understood. We get the impression that these inside scoopers feel that the task force is not especially concerned about American ownership, nor American control inside our economy which arises from the fact of ownership. But it has really got the wind up about something else. The new Yankee demon which has to be exorcised is American manipulation of technology.

The reports have not made it clear whether the magic words which the task forcers are looking for will give us more of the tainted technology or less of it, or cleaner quantities of it.

* * *

But this technology bit rang a bell. One of the more prominent Bedouins, Abraham Rotstein of the political economy department of the University of Toronto, read a paper on that subject to a Toronto group in November, 1966. It was the lead-off paper to a conference on Continentalism vs. Nationalism sponsored by the Ontario Woodsworth Memorial Foundation. Among the conference participants was Walter Gordon.

The papers of Professor Rotstein and of Mr. Gordon (and those of U of T economist A. E. Safarian and of former Ontario MPP Kenneth Bryden—the most scholarly document of the four) have now been published by the Woodsworth Foundation.

Assuming that there is something to the murky predictions that the task force is on a technology kick, what can we find in the Rotstein paper which might give us an insight into what is likely to be proposed?

Professor Rotstein speaks of the new functions of the state in the 20th century, and then goes on:

"A national state to which we assign these increased social responsibilities cannot simultaneously be hampered and restricted by the erosion of its power to make decisions in that most crucial of areas—in new technology.

"The importance therefore of the economy and of national control of our economic life derives from a new awareness of the collective common interest of the nation, by virtue of the new interdependence that derives from a closely integrated technology. For the economy is the home of the new technology and thus economic sovereignty is of the first order of importance.

"Only the nation state is today a sufficiently powerful instrument for the control and humanization of the technological society which will be the hallmark of our second century."

As a former mayor of New York said to a former Queen of Rumania, "You said a mouthful, Queen!"

The intent is clearly restrictive. However noble the motive, it is clear that what is needed is to limit or to control the pace of technological advance and of technological impact. This is at a time when entrepreneurs, engineers and economists from West Germany to Japan are saying that what their economies need more than anything else is to get a foot inside the industrialism of North America so there will be a constant feedback of technological innovation to the home country.

* * *

And it is also at the time when the need for Canadian industry to raise productivity levels through longer mill-runs, which means greater access to the American market, is more apparent than ever.

There can be no disputing the fact that with Professor Rotstein the association of economic nationalism with concern about the impact of American technology on Canadian society is deeply rooted in praiseworthy solicitude for a better kind of Canada.

He says: "We may in the end fall victims to an assembly line existence, a bureaucratic treadmill and a cultural wasteland of impoverished uniformity. But we shall fall victims to it that much sooner, and be able to do much less to protect our society, if economic sovereignty is not in our own hands, but in the board rooms of New York, Chicago and Washington."

The reports we referred to speak of a proposed recommendation to the effect that United States corporations should be induced to divest themselves of their patents to Canadian companies, and Canada would thereby get the benefit of the new technology and presumably sit on it, or delay it, or fiddle around with it so the cultural shock wouldn't be too great.

We have been told by businessmen that patents are just a small part of the technology picture. The multitude of phone calls and other exchanges on production techniques which presumably would be lost in any serious "Canadianization" of our industry are much more important.

But the larger question still is: Why should anything like this be done? If there is an economic cost to any novel proposals for Canadian statescraft, should not the first question of Canadians be: Can we afford additional economic costs on top of the already high price of our independent existence on this continent?

The Meaning of the Revolution

* * *

A Dying Lenin Questioned Its Success and Future

By PROF. ADAM B. ULAM

Almost from its beginning and continuing up to the present day a fierce argument has raged over the true meaning of the Bolshevik Revolution of October (November on the new calendar) of 1917. The question has never lost its urgency—indeed it is even more important today in the light of Chinese developments—and it is carefully examined in a series of three articles by a noted expert on Soviet affairs.

Mr. Ulam is professor of government and research associate at Harvard University's Russian Research Centre. He has written "The Unfinished Revolution" and "The Bolshevik Revolution." These articles are adapted from the book "Revolutionary Russia" which will be published this December by Harvard University Press.

What was the Bolshevik Revolution for?

Has it been a success?

These questions might seem to provide good copy for one of those half indignant, half satirical commentaries on Western interpretations of their history with which Soviet writers like to regale their readers.

But to the maker of the revolution this question would not have appeared preposterous. Practically on his deathbed Lenin pondered the meaning of the event which indelibly inscribed his name on the pages of history.

He did not express contrition or repentance. He was not the man to concede to his socialist critics, "Plekhanov (Ormartov), thou hast conquered."

But Lenin was a Marxist, brought up in the tradition that his ideology was a binding picture of social and historical reality and not merely a party program, or campaign oratory.

Was the revolution according to the gospel of Marxism? And if not what could justify this departure from the science of history? Won't the slighted Marxian gods of history take revenge for 1917?

A Chronicle Of Great Events

The occasion for these reflections was Sukhanov's "Notes on the Revolution," a garrulous, enchanting chronicle of the great events by one who, though considering himself a militant Marxist, could not accept the great October.

Here was an echo of the taunts and warnings which Plekhanov, Martov, and others had expressed before the Bolsheviks had embarked on their great adventure.

Russia was not civilized enough, her economy was not far enough advanced for her to embark on the path toward socialism. If the Russian proletariat tried to take power prematurely, it would only disgrace itself, and so on.

The great strategist of the revolution had then made light of such warnings. But now it was January, 1923, and Lenin was lying semi-paralyzed, a virtual prisoner of the politburo, forbidden to engage in any political activity. A few days before, he had written a memorandum containing a scathing characterization of his eventual successor, Stalin.

His illness accentuated his fears for the future; the party he had built up was in the hands of quarrelling oligarchs; bureaucratism and Russian chauvinism were already encrusting the whole machinery of the Soviet state.

Bureaucratic Rot And Despotism

Where all those phenomena accidental, or a function of personalities, or was the explanation more fundamental? Was the decision of 1917 somehow responsible for the bureaucratic rot and oppression of 1923?

Here there is a cri de coeur from Lenin: what else could we have done?

He writes almost incoherently: "What if the complete hopelessness of the situation having by the same token increased the strength of the workers and peasants tenfold, opened for us the possibility of laying the foundations of civilization in a different way from all other Western European countries?

But the meaning is clear enough: Yes, the revolution was a departure from the canons of orthodoxy. It was compounded of despair and of a unique opportunity. If spurned by the Bolsheviks, this opportunity might not have come again.

In his memorandum, Lenin alternates between scornful references to Sukhanov and his Menshevik ilk—"pedant," "coward" — and snatches of inner dialogue.

Tactics Those Of Anarchist

Culture—this word in the mouths of his enemies used to infuriate him: "Russia had not enough culture to build socialism; his own tactics in 1917 were uncultured; they were those of an anarchist, not of a true Marxist heir to the democratic and liberal tradition.

But now intermingled with scorn is self-questioning. Yes, we did not have enough culture, we do not have it yet. But was it so wrong first to conquer power "and then, already on the basis of the worker peasant power and the Soviet system to start catching up with other nations?"

Is it not a part of the civilizing mission to begin by chasing out the landowner and capitalists "and then start the movement toward socialism? In what books have you read that such changes of the usual historical process are impermissible or impossible?"

One is tempted to answer—in Karl Marx. But Lenin had other than theoretical reasons for this self-questioning. The gist of his own criticism of his party machine and its current rulers was precisely that: lack of culture. That Ordzhonokidze could hit an opponent, that Stalin and Dzerzhinskii could whitewash such and much worse instances of grossness and oppression was to him a source of deep humiliation and depression.

Amazed By Squeamishness

They, in turn, could only be amazed by such squeamishness in the man who had sanctioned revolutionary terror and who, when well, used to quote approvingly that one does not enter the realm of the revolution in white gloves and on a polished floor.

Lenin succeeds at least on paper, in reassuring himself. Yes, the decision of October, 1917, was the correct one. Napoleon has rightly proclaimed: "On s'engage et puis on voit."

And if those Menshevik pedants are shocked by the Russian revolution, let them just wait. They will see how ". . . new revolutions in the much more populous and socially much different countries of the East will display even more singular characteristics than the Russian revolution."

Lenin Concludes With Defiance

And with this defiant taunt Lenin concluded, except for his subsequent critique of Stalin's administrative methods, his literary activity.

Six years after the revolution, its maker still groped for its meaning and relationship to the creed which had guided his life. If one discounts the circumstances under which the article was produced—it was written by a sick and embittered man—one is still struck by Lenin's evaluation of the great event.

The revolution was not a triumphant entry into the promised land. It was the beginning of a long and tedious process of laying down the cultural foundations on which could be built bases for the development of socialism.

But apart from this attempt to fit the Russian revolution into the scheme of Marxism, Lenin suggests that, Marxism or no Marxism, the world was facing revolutionary surge.

Other societies, still less ripe for socialism according to the Marxist timetable, than Russia had been in 1917 would go through cataclysms the likes of which orthodox Marxists could not even imagine.

That part of his prophecy has certainly been verified and is the source of Lenin's successors' most vexing dilemma on this 50th anniversary of the revolution.

Stalin Rephrased The Question

Stalin is not usually credited with a penchant for ideological introspection. But shortly before his death he rephrased Lenin's question and reverted to the then distant events of 1917:

"What should the proletariat and its party do in a country—including our country—where conditions favor seizure of power by the proletariat and the overthrow of capitalism . . . but where agriculture, despite the growth of capitalism, still remains so scattered among numerous small and medium owner-producers that there appears no possibility of raising the question of expropriating these producers?"

And Stalin answers, attributing his solution of the problem to Lenin:

"Favorable conditions for seizure of power by the proletariat should not be allowed to slip by; power should be seized without waiting for the time when capitalism contrives to ruin the many millions of small and medium producers."

As to the original diffficulty, Stalin piously rejects the forcible solution, i.e., "expropriating the small and middle producers in the countryside and socializing their means of production." Yet that is precisely what he did in his forced collectivization.

Could He So Deceive Himself?

Is it credible that he could deceive himself in 1952 to the point where he came to believe that collectivization had been a voluntary process? Yet he could write about collectivization by force:

"Marxists cannot agree to take this senseless and criminal course . . . since such a course would undermine every possibility of success of the proletarian revolution and would drive the peasantry for a long time into the camp of enemies of the proletariat."

Thus both the maker of the revolution and his successor have tried to soothe their ideological conscience and to fit the Bolshevik revolution into the Marxist scheme of things. It is interesting to note their different emphasis.

Social Democrat Tradition Stayed

Lenin never emancipated himself entirely from the social democratic tradition. His continual use of "culture" and "civilization" is very characteristic. Once the necessary brutal task had been accomplished, the sense of revolution had to be sought above all in changed human relations.

In the first days of the Bolshevik regime, his self-delusion on this count was so great that he would often repeat in speeches, "For the first time in Russian history, the man with a rifle is not feared."

This belief could not withstand his subsequent experience as the ruler of Soviet Russia. But intermittently to the very end, he groped for the meaning of the revolution, not only in the great historical perspective but also in the immediate human terms.

Still Projected Dream of Future

At the very end, when he saw that this element of "culture" was sadly missing in the society he had created, he still projected his dream for the future: at least the foundations for a more humane society had been laid. By curbing the party oligarchs and by introducing simple proletarians into the central party organs, one could save the Soviet system from bureaucracy and corruption.

And above all, the Bolshevik revolution had lit the beacon of hope for those Eastern countries for which the orthodox Marxist would have decreed patient endurance of further decades of oppression and backwardness. The revolution had not turned out to be what it had promised in 1917, but it freed Marxism from a fatalistic bondage to the assumed laws of history and restored to the doctrine, and to the millions of people who followed it, militance and hope.

Chance to Seize Power Is Taken

For Stalin, the retrospective justification of the revolution was much more mechanical in nature. There is no heart-searching inquiry into the "cultural" meaning of the event, into its human implications for the rulers and the ruled. One could not let a favorable opportunity of seizing power slip by.

Power meant the ability to perform huge tasks of social engineering, tasks which the orthodox Marxists would await dully for history to perform for them.

An efficient organization of society and technological progress—those were the goals which justified the revolution, just as they have justified the "criminal course" he took in liquidating the indivdual peasant holdings.

Who could have asked for more at that stage of history?

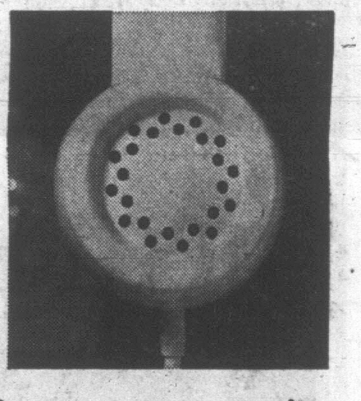
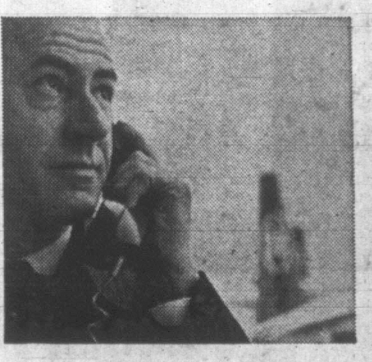
Salesman-of-the-year



The secret of making a business grow is, in most cases, quite simple—win more and more customers spread over a wider and wider area. Nothing helps you find them, sell them, satisfy them and re-sell them so quickly and economically as the skilled use of your telephone. Here are just a few profit-making ideas.



Call for Orders

This big-city truck dealer has no problem about keeping in touch with his many customers and prospects in distant parts of the province.

Head office sales staff follow up leads, arrange demonstrations, solicit orders and maintain contact with established customers by a carefully planned routine of Long Distance calls.

Think of the convenience! He has his customers at his fingertips and keeps right up with their requirements. Cost is negligible compared with operating local offices.

Finally, this dealer also lists a ZENITH number in key centres like Nanaimo, Kamloops and Prince George. It enables customers and prospects there to call him without cost to themselves—another valuable business-builder!

Salesman on the Wing

This salesman is on a trip through his company's market area, extending from Vancouver to the Lakehead. One of the most useful things he carries is his B.C. TEL Long Distance Credit Card.

This enables him to make Long Distance calls from anywhere. He uses it constantly to confirm appointments at his next stopover and contact inconveniently located accounts.

He also keeps in daily touch, of course, with head office: reporting on progress; channelling orders, queries and complaints for fast action; collecting fresh leads as he flies from point to point.

His periodic "swing through the territory" is quite an expensive item of overhead. Long Distance ensures, at minimum cost, that his company gets every last cent of value from it.

"Touring" by Phone

This busy Sales Manager, "tours" his area in a morning—with B.C. TEL's Sequence Calling service.

He simply gives the operator the list of Long Distance numbers he wants. She gets them for him in the right order and at the intervals most convenient for his other work.

He holds regular Conference Calls, too, with his company's three other offices in Calgary, Winnipeg and Toronto—all four of them on the line together, talking and listening as though they were in the same room.

There's no end to the profit-making uses of properly planned Long Distance calling. Ask one of our experienced Communication Experts to explain some of the possibilities for your business—naturally without obligation. Contact him TODAY.

"In Victoria call 386-2211"

If calling long distance, ask the operator for ZENITH 7000 (there is no charge).

Indians Make Fair a Success

A happy crowd of Indians and non-Indians mixing freely added color to the Peninsula Country Fair in Sanscha Hall at Sidney on Saturday.

The fair, sponsored jointly by the parishes of St. Elizabeth's in Sidney and Our Lady of Assumption in Brentwood, made a gross profit of $2,000 from a crowd estimated at 1,500.

Conveners were Mr. and Mrs. Konrad Welle.

Members of Saanich Indian bands played a large part in making the fair a success.

Chief Hummingbird and his Sun Dancers performed dances while members of the Kuper Island Indian school band, who went to Expo this summer, provided the music.

In a salute to the fair, the sudden crash of the band's drums startled people. As one boy said: "Something has happened to my stomach."

Pete Rolston of Vancouver, well-known ventriloquist and magician, was so popular that children almost crowded him off the stage.

After the performance he was nearly mobbed. He signed 500 autographs and shook hands with hundreds of youngsters.

The fair featured stalls of home-made cooking, sewing, attic treasures, Christmas decorations and Polish cooking.

Lieutenant-Gonernor G. R. Pearkes and Mrs. Pearkes who attended with Mayor Arthur Freeman, were specially interested in a stall demonstrating the making of Indian sweaters from raw wool.

OLD FASHIONED METHOD

They saw Nellie and Doreen Pelky, Mollie Underwood and Elsie Claxton card the wool and spin it the old fashioned way before knitting it into sweaters.

Another attraction was a stall selling hundreds of brilliant-colored paper flowers made by Indian school children.

Profits from the fair go towards church work.

In the evening there was a bingo game. A dance ended the fair.

Candidate Named

BROOKS, Alta. (CP)—Rancher Jack Horner of Pollockville, Alta., was named to represent the Progressive Conservative party in the constituency of Crowfoot in the next federal election. He was opposed by Dr. Lawrence Kindt, member of Parliament for Macleod. Under federal redistribution, Macleod and Acadia, which Mr. Horner represents in the Commons, will be absorbed by Crowfoot.

'SHARE IDEAS FOR AN OPEN WORLD'

Chief Source of Wealth Is Human Mind

EDMONTON (CP) — Man has moved into a new phase of life in which "the principle source of wealth is no longer the soil but the human mind," economist Barbara Ward said Saturday.

Miss Ward told more than 500 persons at the University of Alberta that the last decade has seen "a tremendous application of brain power," but the problem of proper direction for this brainpower remains.

Man, she said, must learn to share his ideas so as to create "an open world."

Sharing of ideas in an open world would be a step toward reversing the process by which the tremendous gulf between rich and poor grows year by year.

Miss Ward, a former assistant editor of The London Economist, was awarded an honorary Doctor of Laws degree earlier Friday at the fall convocation of the University of Alberta.

She is the author of books including The Rich Nations and The Poor Nations, Nationalism and Ideology and Five Ideas That Change the World.

Each year, she said, the Atlantic nations add to their national economies an amount equal to the total economic output of all Latin America. It is an amount equal to twice the total economic output of India or Africa.

"We have invented economic assistance and a start has been made, but we are not systematized."

Nations must go beyond a casual, politically motivated form of economic aid to underdeveloped nations. A situation in which one nation aids another only if they agree politically is not good enough.

Mankind has always been divided by some form of hierarchy either financially or tribally, but this too is changing, she said.

A man now is accepted for "what he is as a human being" not because he is a member of a status or class group.

Miss Ward said that in the long term, ideologies will not be the factors deciding the future of man.

"Communism is one way of getting through the first stages of industrial revolution" but now the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. were moving closer together.

The United States was accepting long-range planning and the U.S.S.R. was realizing the efficacy of the profit motive and becoming more "bourgeois."

"There is nothing more bourgeois than having four wheels and sitting in a smog."

FIVE PEOPLE FOUND ALIVE

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — Five persons were found alive Saturday in the wreckage of a Brazilian twin-engine passenger plane that crashed into a fog-shrouded mountain peak near Curitiba with 25 aboard. One of the surviviors was in critical condition.

Rescue teams reached the wreckage on the 4,400-foot mountain, where the plane crashed Friday on a flight from Sao Paulo to Curitiba. The peak is 45 miles from Curitiba.

Emergencies Show Increase

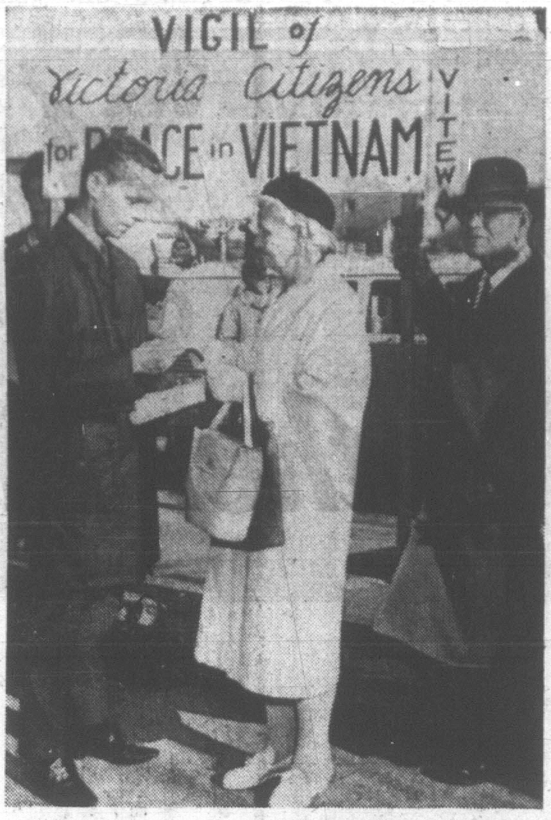
St. Joseph's Hospital treated 1,732 emergency cases in October, 242 more than the same month last year.

The total was 303 less than that of September, however.

The report shows 1,019 persons required surgery and 718 were medical cases including 48 fractures.

Traffic accidents sent 63 to hospital, two more than October, 1966, but 26 less than September this year.

Of the total, 1,476 were released after treatment and 206 were admitted.



"PEACE VIGIL" participant Bob Munro, 665 Constance, hands a leaflet to a passing pedestrian. Saturday marked one year since the Victoria Citizens for Peace in Vietnam started the weekly vigil at the corner of Douglas and View Streets.

Still Going Strong 40,000 Leaflets Later

By PAUL WILLIAMSON

Every Saturday at 1 p.m., 35 or more persons gather quietly on the east side of Douglas near View for a weekly "peace vigil."

The vigil had special significance on Saturday. It was the 52nd.

One hear ago a group of ordinary citizens banded together to form the Victoria Citizens for Peace in Vietnam.

A mixed group of students, civil servants, workingmen, clergy and pensioners, they decided to hold weekly vigils on a busy downtown street to remind Victorians of the implications of the war in Vietnam.

Since November of 1966, in anyone's terms, the war has become worse. Bombing missions have increased, the number of American servicemen in the area has increased, North Vietnamese determination has not wavered, and peace seems as far away as ever.

But the vigil in Victoria will continue.

Committee chairman W. T. Lawson puts it this way.

"People all over the world opposed to war still ask the question what do you do?

"We don't have the answer, but we feel our vigil does have an impact.

"We have distributed 40,000 leaflets over the year. At the least, we have made many Victorians think about the role of Canada in the war."

Saturday, as the participants stood silently with anti-war signs, one man passed a leaflet to passers-by.

The sheet was headed "What the War in Vietnam Means to You."

"It means higher prices, higher interest and mortgage rates, a threat to many jobs," the leaflet proclaims.

And it quotes The Financial Post to substantiate the claim.

For one of the goals of the vigil is to make Victorians realize the depth of Canada's involvement in the war.

"Paul Martin's recent statements are a step in the right direction," said Mr. Lawson, "but only a step.

"Canada has never been neutral in this war, and we still sell war materials to the U.S. Last year, $311 million worth of Canadian goods were shipped to the U.S. for eventual use in Vietnam. We ask for an embargo on these sales."

And what is the reaction of the average Victorian to the vigil?

"Very good," said Mr. Lawson. "In the entire year we have had only 10 or 12 leaflets thrown on the ground.

"Many people will stop and stand with us for a few moments. Even many American tourists have expressed a genuine interest."

Reasoned disagreement is rare, he said.

"Once in a while we have an intelligent debate. But usually those who disagree either dismiss us as some communist plot, or have other fantastic ideas.

"Many believe Canadian troops and NATO are involved in the war."

Mr. Lawson emphasized the war in Vietnam is the business of Victorians.

"It is an inhuman and immoral war with heavy civilian casualties. It could easily blow up into a world war. There is no doubt it is our business."

As he spoke, the normal cross-section of busy Saturday afternoon Victorians jostled by. Two youths in blazers with military crests paused, shook their heads, uttered an audible "tsk, tsk," and hurried on their way.

"It's frustrating all right," said Mr. Lawson, "and nobody has the answer to that. But it is satisfying to be doing this little bit and getting some response."

Hovercraft Service To Start in Spring?

A hovercraft service between Victoria and Vancouver may start in the spring.

Pacific Hovercraft Limited of Richmond has a $490,000 deal for a hovercraft and its application will be heard by the Air Transport Board in Victoria later this month.

Another application, from Inter-Air Travel Limited for a hovercraft service linking Vancouver, Victoria and Nanaimo, will also be heard.

Barry Jones, president of Pacific Hovercraft, said here Friday, a Vancouver-Nanaimo service will be added to the Victoria-Vancouver run within a year if the first stage gains approval.

One-way passenger fare will be $7.25 and it will take one hour and 12 minutes between Victoria and Vancouver, he said.

Long-range plans include a service as far north as Prince Rupert.

The hovercraft would have a capacity of 36 passengers. Terminals being studied include Patricia Bay Airport and a site somewhere in Oak Bay.

Hovercraft, successfully tested in the United Kingdom and in use in several countries, fly on a cusion of air about four feet off land or water.

'Concentrate Your Efforts On Province'

Times Staff Reporter

VANCOUVER — Premier Bennett Saturday night told his party to forget the pleas for a national revival and concentrate all its efforts on sending a solid Socred contingent to Ottawa as spokesmen for B.C.

In the keynote address winding up the B.C. Social Credit League's convention here, Mr. Bennett appeared to write off the exhortations of Socred MPs Bert Leboe and Howard Johnston and national president MLA Herb Bruch.

In varying terms, all three had told the convention that they must work hard to unite the shattered national party in order to revive a drive to form the federal government.

But Mr. Bennett gave the opposite advice in his closing speech.

"We've sowed too much time and effort on rocky soil, on a nation that's not yet ready," he said.

"I would hope that we would concentrate our efforts in the next federal election on winning seats in B.C."

He said wasting time in scattering efforts across a national scene was to blame for the fact that there are only four Socred MPs in Ottawa.

The "ground is fertile" in B.C. and that's where the effort should be placed he told the delegates who had just finished passing resolutions urging wider national efforts and renewed efforts to close the apparent breach between B.C. and Alberta's Socreds.

"Take 22 or 23 members down to Ottawa from B.C. and then the House of Commons will listen to us," Mr. Bennett said.

"The work is here. The harvest is ready if we apply ourselves."

Mr. Bennett urged his party to begin campaigning now to elect B.C. Socreds in the next federal vote.

"This Social Credit government is keeping Canada solvent this very night," he said. "My friends, tell it everywhere."

He reminded the convention of his Friday call for self-discipline in wage and price increases and said B.C.'s fiscal policies under his administration "stand alone as a beacon of light for the rest of Canada to follow."

Mr. Bennett decried the projected $400 million deficit in Expo 67 as a "national disgrace" and part of the Liberal government's mishandling of budget policies.

"This financial crisis didn't come from Mars or the moon and the Russians didn't bring it to us," he declared.

"It wasn't caused by us (B.C.) but we're going to help out.

"It's the Liberals, and when election time comes around, there's no sense in replacing them with those underwear Tories or those Socialists — the walking Communists."

COMMITTEE TO SCREEN RESOLUTIONS

Delegates Apologize to Hotel

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

VANCOUVER — A Saanich and The Islands constituency resolution so embarrassed the Social Credit League's annual convention here that delegates took steps to prevent a recurrence in future.

The convention ended Saturday.

In a close vote, a motion from the floor was approved, asking the league's executive to appoint a resolutions committee to screen submissions for accuracy before they are presented at the next convention.

This followed an earlier motion from the floor, requested by the executive, apologizing to the Hotel Vancouver for the Saanich resolution.

FIGURES 'WRONG'

The constituency had complained that the hotel charged the league $1,000 a day for convention facilities and urged that it be switched to a cheaper North Surrey hall owned by a Social Credit member.

President George Driedigger told delegates that passage of the resolution and consequent publicity had caused "immense embarrassment" to the hotel because the figures were wrong.

He said the hotel charged the 500-delegate convention only $300 a day for extensive facilities which was "very, very conservative when you consider the amount of services we received for this fee."

The convention approved a Victoria resolution asking the provincial government to give an exclusive franchise to B.C. Hydro's Pacific Stage Lines operation on government ferries connecting Vancouver Island to the mainland.

This would ban Vancouver Island Coach Lines from using the ferries.

The resolution said this should be done because ownership of VICL recently passed from local to eastern Canadian hands.

NO GAMBLING

Delegates rejected a resolution proposing legalized lotteries operated by the government after Attorney-general Robert Bonner said he was "unalterably opposed to having organized gambling in Canada."

By narrow margins, it rejected a proposal that all B.C. schools be built on standardized architectural plans and passed a request that the provincial government make low-interest mortgage loans to housebuyers.

Another resolution, calling on the provincial government to set up a "department of tomorrow" with its own cabinet minister, was literally laughed off the convention floor.

The motion was submitted by delegates from Chilliwack.

LAUGHING MATTER

It noted that almost 50 per cent of the population is under 25 years of age — "The province's hope for tomorrow" — and asked for a special government department "to administer to the needs of this group."

As convention officials read out the resolution, delegates started laughing.

"Tomorrow? We've got enough trouble with today," joked one lower mainland delegate.

The convention chairman asked for somebody to introduce the resolution, but nobody stepped forward — not even from the Chilliwack corner of the convention hall.

The motion never came to a vote.

A resolution urging that one of Premier Bennett's ministers without portfolio be named minister of consumer affairs was also lost, but by a narrow voting margin that took three counts to determine.

Home Rule Eyed By Englishman

LONDON (CP)—Columnist George Gale, faced with all this talk of Scottish and Welsh resurgence, is contemplating —tongue in cheek—establishment of an English Nationalist party.

Writing in The Daily Mirror, Gale says he dearly hopes that the Scottish and Welsh nationalist parties, each flushed by a recent election victory, "succeed in their enterprises of separating Scotland and Wales from England."

He argued that some of Britain's worst laws were thought up by Celts. The joy-stifling limitations on public drinking time he blames on the late prime minister, Welshman David Lloyd George.

If the separatist dreams come true, "we English could proceed to create a civilized, humane, liberal and rich society here . . . without all these damn Scotsmen and Welshmen cluttering up the place and nagging us about what is good for us . . . and about how dreadfully we oppress them."

An English Nationalist party would at least give Englishmen parliamentary representation by their own compatriots. But among the results of any rigorus racial segregation would be "the practical difficulty of mixed marriages."

Gale says he personally has nothing against the Celtic interlopers. In fact, "some of my best friends are Scots and Welsh."

RUBBER FOUND ON RUNWAY

HONG KONG (UPI)—A jet airliner that crashed and killed one of 127 persons aboard may have blown out a tire during takeoff, Hong Kong's civil aviation director said today.

T. R. Thomson told newsmen it was too early to specify the cause of Sunday's crash in Hong Kong harbor. But he said bits of rubber were found on the runway before the Saigon-bound Cathay Pacific Convair 880 nosed into the choppy waters seconds after going aloft.

They Ran Into Wreck But Thought It Empty

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — An unusual double accident in which one man was killed was discovered Saturday by a curious motorist.

The events, which claimed the life of Sterling Lester Hogan, 32, a Prince Rupert school teacher, happened on a frosty portion of the Northern Trans-Provincial Highway 23 miles east of here.

He was found dead in the crumpled wreck of his car, which skidded off the highway into a 15-foot ditch.

Sometime after the accident, Mr. and Mrs. Imre Eredics of Prince Rupert skidded into the same ditch in their car, narrowly missing the first vehicle.

They were not injured, and said they did not look into the second car because they thought it was an old wreck.

Mr. Hogan's body wasn't discovered until Garwin Gebert of Prince Rupert stopped to investigate after he saw both sets of skid marks.

Ford Back at Work In Catch-Up Drive

DETROIT (AP)—Cars rolled off Ford Motor Co. assembly lines today for the first time since Sept. 6, when the United Auto Workers went on strike against the No. 2 auto-maker and won record gains for 160,000 UAW members at Ford.

At Chrysler, the union's No. 2 target, bargainers worked against a Wednesday midnight deadline to come up with a contract covering the firm's 95,000 production workers and 8,000 salaried workers represented by the union.

Ford assembly lines were closed for 60 days, 46 of them during a national strike by the union and the last two weeks over local disputes. Ford workers won roughly $1 an hour more in wages and fringe benefits above the previous Big Three rate of $4.70 an hour.

All the company's key parts plants have settled local contracts. Four out of 16 assembly plants are still without new contracts. About 11,000 Ford workers in Canada were laid off because of a shortage of parts from the U.S. plants.

CONTINUE TALKS

Union and company bargainers continue negotiations at Chrysler Corp. today.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW president, and John D. Leary, Chrysler vice-president for administration, headed the two negotiating teams.

"I must report we have made some progress today," Reuther said Sunday. "But there is still very much work to be done if we are to avoid a strike by Nov. 8."

Chrysler is expected to follow generally the major economic pattern of the Ford contract.

The biggest problem in Chrysler negotiations is equal pay for Canadian and American workers, which the union says was the only major demand it did not win at Ford.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Wall St. Bounces Back

Wall Street made a dramatic recovery today to end up down 1.33 after the Dow Jones index had slumped down more than eight points during fairly active trading.

Traders despaired of a rally as the market began to erode early but bargain hunters restored many of the early losses by close.

AT VANCOUVER losses and gains were evenly divided to noon today.

Levy Industries climbed to $40.50, a gain of .50. Pacific Pete and CAE Industries both lost .75.

Central Del Rio fell to $20 in oils.

In the mining section, Brenda gave up .15 at $7.80 and Granduc was off .20 at $6.30. Placer gained .25 at $33.50 and Arctic added .07 to $2.50. Utica put on .10 at $4.25.

AT TORONTO the stock market was higher at the close of light trading today.

On index, industrials gained .05 to 158.87, golds fell .17 to 164.44, base metals slid .23 to 104.92 and western oils dipped .39 to 198.61.

Final volume was 2,776,000 shares compared with 3,725,000 Friday.

General Products Manufacturing A jumped 3⅛ to 83, Famous Players 2⅛ to 42⅝, FPE-Pioneer 1½ to 34, Computing Devices 1⅛ to 14⅞ and Ingersoll 1 to 35.

B-A Oil dropped 1⅛ to 36⅛ and Canadian Westinghouse 1 to 15.

Trading was suspended in shares of British International Finance (Canada) Ltd. and York Lambton Ltd. pending the companies' financial situation and management status.

In base metals, Deniso fell 1 to 81½, Highland-Bell ⅝ to 12¾ and Roman Corp. ⅜ to 27⅛.

Hollinger advanced 1 to 25 and Rio Algom ¼ to 34¼.

Among western oils, Husky gained 1c to 22¾. Scurry-Rainbow fell 1⅛ to 42⅞ and Central-Del Rio ¾ to 20¾.

AT MONTREAL prices edged slightly lower in early afternoon trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange, as several early morning gains melted into losses.

International Nickel dropped one point to 111¾, matching a similar slide on the New York Stock Exchange. DuPont fell ¾ to 26, and CPR, Alcan and Denison about ½ point each.

AT LONDON stocks rose today, helped by company announcements and weekend press comment. Some major stocks were unable to maintain their early gains but motors and aircrafts were strong.

Many dollar stocks improved. Canadian Pacific was strong but elsewhere in Canadians the gains were small. Support was shown for Canadian banking issues.

Press comment in advance of profit figures to be announced today helped British Motors. Leyland also advanced and Rolls-Royce was wanted.

BIF SHARES SUSPENDED

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto Stock Exchange today suspended trading in shares of British International Finance (Canada) Ltd. and its subsidiary, York Lambton Corp., because it says it wants to know who actually controls the companies, and the state of their finances.

BIF, the company which, through York Lambton, holds controlling interest in the Bank of Western Canada, has been plagued by trouble since early this year. Sinclair Stevens, a Toronto financier who started BIF six years before, sold his interest to Marc Bienvenu of Montreal in a complicated transaction under which Mr. Bienvenu would lend $3,000,000 to York Lambton and, when this was redeemed, use the money to buy a controlling interest in BIF.

The TSE wants to know whether Mr. Bienvenu has yet exercised this option.

York Lambton was to get the money to repay Mr. Bienvenu from the sale of its Bank of Western Canada holdings. Although the company has started proceedings to wind up the bank, the process is delayed by court actions involving the voting rights of a block of shares to which Mr. Stevens claims ownership.

BIF elected its board of directors at its annual meeting in July, but the Ontario Supreme Court froze its actions after granting an injunction declaring the election invalid. The injunction was brought by three directors not re-elected at the meeting.

A hearing is pending on whether to make the injunction permanent.

M. R. Jennings, secretary of BIF, said Monday he would investigate the reasons for the stock exchange suspension. He said the company would make an announcement "in due course."

BIF closed at $1.05 Friday on the Toronto Stock Exchange and York Lambton at $1.10. They traded at around $5 earlier this year. The stocks are not listed on the Montreal Stock Exchange.

Import Bars 'Serious Blow'

TORONTO (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson said Saturday night that proposals in the United States Congress to restrict imports could strike a serious and possibly fatal blow to efforts to expand world trade.

These proposals are of particular concern to Canada, whose trade with the United States is greater than that between any other two countries in the world, Mr. Pearson said in a speech to the closing dinner at the world congress of Junior Chambers of Commerce.

While the outcome remained uncertain, the U.S. government had assured Canada of its "continuing support for a liberal trade policy," despite congressional efforts to eliminate or reduce tariff concessions exchanged in the recent Kennedy Round of international trade negotiations.

A small group of demonstrators, most of whom appeared to be in the 20s, shouted at Mr. Pearson when he arrived in the lobby of the Royal York Hotel to attend the dinner. They protested against the war in Vietnam and accused Canada of complicity in the U.S. prosecution of the war.

A few demonstrators broke through a police cordon and got closer to the prime minister, but he was quickly met by formally dressed convention delegates and whisked up to the convention floor.

VIETNAM 'TRAGIC'

He made only one reference in his speech to Vietnam, stating that the fighting there, "tragic, savage and always in danger of spreading if it is not stopped," provides "dramatic evidence of how far we have to go to reach the objective of world security and how difficult the road will be towards it, even without the roadblocks of ideology, chauvinism and prejudice scattered along the way."

His subject was trade. He told his international audience that if restrictive action is taken in Washington, then Canada and other trading nations will have to re-examine the concessions they granted at the Kennedy Round bargaining in Geneva, Switzerland.

"It would be difficult to prevent compensatory withdrawals of such concessions. This would damage trade and, indeed, other relations between our two countries.

"It would also be a grievous and perhaps fatal setback for further world efforts to promote freer trade."

But, "even if the Kennedy Round arrangements are all successfully put into operation, there will be a great deal more to do to promote international trade."

Garment Men Face Competition

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadian Garment Manufacturers were told Saturday they can expect stiffer overseas competition in the future and were invited to join ranks with the United States industry to fight it.

Ellis M. Meredith of Washington, executive vice-president of the American Apparel Manufacturers Association, said foreign manufacturers are "doing what they think is necessary to capitalize" on opportunities in North America.

He invited the National Garment Manufacturers Association, which concluded its annual meeting here on the weekend, to work with the United States manufacturers to keep the overall industry strong and viable.

"We should work together at every opportunity," he said, adding that the industry is faced with more opportunities — and more problems — than ever before in its history.

PROBLEMS

He said U.S. manufacturers are suffering from increasing competition from low-wage foreign countries, similar to Canadian manufacturers.

"Of course there are problems, tough problems, but was opportunity ever offered out of scale with problems?"

He denied the U.S. apparel-textile industry is a protectionist industry, but added it is seeking "controlled growth in the imports of our products."

"I believe this is enlightened, realistic internationally desirable point of view. I can think of no substantive argument against it."

ECONOMY IN TROUBLE?

Deficits Hurt Japan

By RICHARD HALLORAN
The Washington Post

TOKYO — The Japanese economy, universally held up for acclaim as the most vigorous industrial one in the postwar world, is headed for serious trouble, both short-term and long-run.

A few influential government and private economic voices here are being raised in warning, urging a basic rethinking of Japan's policies of rapid economic growth. But most political leaders appear complacent and unwilling to consider fundamental changes that would be politically unpopular.

Meanwhile, the day is approaching when the strains and imbalances built in during the past decade of swift growth will force the economy through the wringer of austerity.

Japan's gross national product is running about 108 billion dollars — fourth largest in the world after the United States, the Soviet Union and West Germany — but problems reflecting long-run weaknesses are piling up.

Foremost of these is a recurring deficit, the fifth since 1953, in Japan's balance of payments. The deficit for the April-September period this year was 190 million dollars, which represented a drop of 480 million dollars below the surplus of a year ago.

Forecasts for the entire fiscal year, ending March 1, 1968, predict a deficit of close to 700 million dollars.

Fastest School Honored

Margaret Jenkins Elementary School is the fastest school in town. It has an award from the City of Victoria Fire Fighters to prove it.

The school's 750 pupils cleared the building in 63 seconds to win the award for the second time. The award last went to the school in 1962.

Deputy Chief Carl Coates made the presentation Tuesday after city schools had been judged by the fire department's fire prevention bureau. Honorable mentions went to St. Andrew's school, South Park elementary and Bank Street elementary.

Cats Lure Fans

Late Letdown Gives Vernon 4-4 Deadlock

Despite a late letdown that cost his Victoria Cougars a victory, coach Doug Anderson feels the defensive roles of the British Columbia Junior Hockey League team are "much improved".

Consequently, the major disappointment after Saturday's 4-4 draw with Vernon Essos was the fact that Cougars "couldn't hang on" for a victory before a rather-astonishing Memorial Arena crowd of 3,448 fans.

"Obviously," said Doug, "It looks like the fans here are taking to junior hockey. I'm only sorry that we couldn't send them home on a happier note."

TYING WEEKEND

For Vernon, it was a tying weekend.

They went back to New Westminster on Sunday and pulled out a 5-5 draw with the Royals on the strength of two late goals.

In other league games, Penticton Broncos tripped Kelowna Buckaroos 6-3 Sunday. It was Kelowna's second straight weekend loss, losing 6-2 to Kamloops Rockets on Saturday.

Essos passed up two one-goal leads, then overcame a two-goal deficit to tie Cougars.

STILL THIRD

The deadlock left the Cougars in third place with seven points, one behind New Westminster and seven behind leading Penticton.

Vernon had a 1-0 lead going into the second period and was leading 2-1 when Victoria tied the match. The Cougars forged ahead on two quick goals midway through the final 20 minutes, but Vernon came back, scoring two goals in the final three minutes. The tying goal came with just 35 seconds left in the game.

Keith Rolston led the visitors with two goals and an assist. Bob Mayer and Lawrence Quechuk got the other goals.

Victoria scorers were Jim Murdoch, Garth Greig, Barry Clarke and Neil Sanders.

Murray Finlay stopped 26 shots in the Victoria net, while Jack Gilroy stopped 25 shots for Vernon.

World Soccer Disgrace

LONDON (AP) — British sports writers Sunday described Glasgow Celtic's clash with Racing of Argentina Saturday as a second Battle of the River Plate — and a disgrace to world soccer.

Racing defeated Celtic 1-0 in Montevideo for the World Cup championship after five players were sent off the field.

"This must be one of the most infamous games ever," said James Sanderson of the London Sunday Express.

Another Express commentator, John MacKenzie, said: "The disgusting scenes which marred this third game for the Intercontinental Cup will go down in history of soccer as the worst of all time.

"Soccer was forgotten as the teams clashed in a disgusting brawl."

He added: "The Scots took more punishment than flesh and blood has any right to take. But nevertheless no one can completely exonerate the Celtic boys. They descended at times to the level of their animal-like opponents."

John Blair, commentator of The People, said:

"The match was a disgrace to football. Racing are the world champions but in the eyes of any true sportsmen, it's a hollow honor."

Scottish writers described Racing as "a bunch of soccer thugs" and "hired assassins."

John MacKenzie wrote in the Scottish Sunday Express:

"Sadly at the end of it, all the men of Racing, a highly organized bunch of soccer thugs, won the title. It is a title they cannot wear with pride or honor.

Plester Paces Chemainus

Jerry Plester put in 22 points to help Chemainus to a 53-42 win over Claremont Saturday night in the final round of the boy's basketball tournament at Claremont.

Dave Tooby got through the strong Chemainus defence to score 17 points for Claremont.

In another game Nanaimo defeated St. Louis Gaels 56-40, boosted by 12-point scores from Bill Baker and Chris Kaganou. Pat Griffin scored 23 points for the Gaels.

'GRAB YOUR PARTNERS . . .'

Like a country hoedown, but without music . . . That was the scene in Boston Garden Sunday night as Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs enlivened National Hockey League game with violent free-for-all in second period. Brawl was touched off after collision between Bruins' Bobby Orr and Brian Conacher, of Toronto, shown going at it in front of linesman Walt Atanas in upper right.

Conacher Check Starts Wild Brawl

Benches Empty After Bob Orr Dropped to Ice

(Times News Services)

Coach Harry Sinden does not think it fair his Boston Bruins are liable for fines because they left the players' bench to take part in a wild-swinging National Hockey League brawl on Sunday night.

"It's a raw injustice," said Sinden in the Boston dressing room after the Bruins tied Toronto Maple Leafs 2-2.

"They left the bench first. What is the other team supposed to do? Our players had to act when all those Toronto players went on the ice."

The donnybrook broke out in the second period after Brian Conacher of Toronto knocked Boston defenceman Bobby Orr to the ice, dazed and bleeding from a gash on the bridge of his nose.

"Nothing could have been more deliberate," Sinden said. "He (Conacher) just brought his stick up and hit Bobby. It happened at the blue line almost directly in front of our bench. We saw what happened. It was a cheap shot."

JOINS FRAY

Orr recovered after Conacher had been knocked to the ice by another Boston player and charged into the foray. Toronto defenceman Alan Stanley joined the battle and then, the entire Toronto team led by captain George Armstrong stormed onto the ice.

The Boston bench also emptied within seconds, making both clubs responsible for fines to league president Clarence Campbell.

Toronto coach Punch Imlach was hesitant to comment on the brawl after the game.

"It's a good sign when a team can come back in this type of game," he said. "We didn't quit. We kept driving all the way and it paid off."

The Leafs tied the game with 2:14 remaining on Peter Stemkowski's goal.

FOURTH GAME

"This was our fourth game in five nights—all against the tough teams," said Imlach. "We beat Montreal, Detroit and New York and I'll take this one."

The fight was the wildest dust-up in the National Hockey League this season.

Conacher skated off down the ice after hitting Orr, but three Boston players followed him and threw him down at the Toronto blueline. Orr, meanwhile, staggered to his feet and joined the foray—blood dripping from a gash on the bridge of his nose.

Then the entire Toronto bench poured onto the ice, freezing Conacher and sparking a set of minor skirmishes around the rink. Even the two goaltenders, Johnny Bower of Toronto and Gerry Cheevers of Boston, started struggling.

Referee Art Skov stepped in and started calling penalties. Orr, who required three stitches, received a five-minute major for fighting and shared the box with Conacher.

SEWERS BUSY

Stanley, Johnny McKenzie and Ken Hodge drew minor roughing penalties and Boston's Ted Green was given a 10-minute misconduct for remarks to the officials. Other injuries included six stitches to Johnny Bucyk of Boston, three to Dallas Smith and one to Stanley.

In other Sunday night games, Montreal Canadiens failed for the second consecutive night to defeat Philadelphia Flyers of the expansion Western Division and had to settle for a 1-1 ties.

The amazing Lost Angeles Kings scored four times in the third period to pound Detroit Red Wings 6-4 and Chicago Black Hawks, paced by Bobby Hull's 11th goal of the season, tied 2-2 with California Seals in interlocking contests.

Unitas Turns On Green Bay

By Associated Press

— Green Bay turned back the clock on Johnny Unitas, but Unitas turned the tables on the Packers.

Unitas, who fumbled away Baltimore's last hope for the 1966 National Football League title when the Packers caught him on the run, won a frantic fourth-down footrace in Sunday's rematch and then pitched the unbeaten Colts to a 13-10 comeback triumph over the defending NFL champs.

With less than two minutes to play and the Colts behind 10-6, Unitas, forced out of his pass-pocket by the Packer rush, scrambled through a patch of daylight and picked up six vital yards for a first down on the Green Bay 23-yard line.

On the next play, the magnificent quarterback fired a touchdown strike to Willie Richardson, ending the Colts' five-game losing streak against Green Bay and keeping them atop the NFL's Central Division with a 6-0-2 mark.

Unitas' second TD pass in the final 2½ minutes—after rookie Rich Volk recovered Lou Michaels onside kick—avenged a 14-10 loss to the Packers at Baltimore last Dec. 10, a loss that eliminated the Colts from the Western Conference race.

In Sunday's other games, Los Angeles Rams remained one game behind the Colts in the Coastal race by trimming San Francisco '49ers 17-7; Cleveland Browns buried Pittsburgh Steelers 34-14; St. Louis Cardinals outscored Washington Redskins 27-21; New Orleans Saints whipped Philadelphia Eagles 31-24 for its first NFL victory; Minnesota Vikings overtook New York Giants 27-24 and Chicago Bears bounced Detroit Lions 27-13.

The Packers stymied Unitas through three quarters and built a 10-0 lead on Don Chandler's 49-yard field goal and Bart Starr's 31-yard TD pass to Donny Anderson.

Unitas got the Colts back in the game on a 10-yard payoff pass to Alex Hawkins with 2:19 to go in the final period. Michaels flubbed the extra point conversion, then sliced a short kickoff. Volk fell on the ball at the Green Bay 34 and the Colts put over the winning touchdown with 1:28 on the clock.

Walter (The Flea) Roberts bolted 91 yards with the opening kickoff for one touchdown, zipped 27 yards for another after picking up team-mate Jim Taylor's fumble and scored a third on a 49-yard pass from Gary Cuozzo, leading New Orleans' expansion Saints out of a seven-game skid.

Fred Cox' 13-yard field goal with 10 seconds to play capped Minnesota's second half comeback against New York.

Ticats Clinch First

By The Canadian Press

A comedy of errors in Montreal and two costly fumbles that didn't look a bit funny in Toronto left the scene unchanged after the final weekend of regular-season action in the Eastern Football Conference.

Coach O. K. Dalton of Montreal admitted Saturday the Alouettes' 15-1 loss to Ottawa Rough Riders was a "comedy of errors."

Hamilton Tiger-Cats defeated Toronto 9-5 Sunday after turning the Argonauts' first-quarter fumble into the only touchdown of the game and holding their lead late in the game by forcing another fumble.

The victories left Hamilton in first place to await the winner of the Nov. 11 sudden-death semi-final between the second-place Riders and third-place Argonauts.

Vikings Drop Alberni Team

ALBERNI—University of Victoria Vikings trounced Alberni Athletics 91-44 Saturday night in an exhibition senior men's basketball game.

Viking scoring was heavy for the whole team, with Ken Jackson leading with 16 points. John Lauvass got 15, Barry Burch 13, Brian Brumwell 12, Tom Child 10, Al Glover eight, Mike Taafe six, Bill Carlson five and Brian Craig and Skip Cronk three each.

Ken Larson led the Athletics with 16 points.

Softballers to Meet

The annual general meeting of the Victoria Senior Men's Softball League will be held Tuesday at the Ingraham Hotel, starting 7:30 p.m. All teams are urged to send representatives.

Wanderers Held To Single Draw

Oak Bay Wanderers couldn't do better than a tie against Vancouver opposition in two exhibition matches at Windsor Park Saturday.

Wanderer's first-division club played to an 8-8 draw with first division Trojans but the second-division team lost 16-0 to the Trojans' second division.

BUT NOT LIONS

Riders Finish On Glad Note

By The Canadian Press

Saskatchewan Roughriders kept their momentum going toward Saturday's sudden-death playoff clash with third-place Edmonton by thumping Winnipeg Blue Bombers 24-14 Sunday in the last Western Football Conference league game.

The Riders, defending Grey Cup champions, were forced to meet the tough Edmonton Eskimos after Calgary Stampeders beat British Columbia Lions 35-30 Saturday night in Vancouver to clinch their second WFC crown in three years.

Although Saskatchewan and Calgary finished in a first-place tie with identical 12-4 records, the Stamps earned the title because of a better record against the Riders over the season.

Saskatchewan's last conference game, before 11,015 Blue Bomber fans in Winnipeg, was a rough one. Referee Al Dryburgh of Winnipeg was attacked by several fans at the final gun after he ejected Bomber guard Dwayne Crozier, who was involved in a fourth-quarter fracas with Roughrider centre Ron Atchison.

George Reed scored two Roughrider majors and Gord Barwell collected the other touchdown when he grabbed a Ron Lancaster pass and ran 88 yards.

More record-setting was done in Vancouver Saturday night as Peter Liske, Calgary's sharpshooting quarterback, fired five touchdown passes to finish the season with a total of 40.

That topped the old CLF season mark set in 1960 by Tobin Rote of Toronto Argonauts.

Liske, the West's nominee for the CFL's Player-of-the-Year award, had already set records for number of passes thrown and completed in a single season before he entered the game.

His favorite target in the high-scoring contest before 23,706 fans, was Terry Evanshen who scored two touchdowns to salt away the Western Conference's scoring crown with 102 points.

His two touchdown receptions gave him a season mark of 17 to tie the WFC mark set by Saskatchewan's Hugh Campbell last year.

Jayvees Miss Win Experience

Only University of Victoria Jayvees failed to get part of the action during a topsy-turvy weekend in the Inter-City Junior Basketball League.

However, nobody could say the improving Jayvees missed the fun of winning through lack of desire. They gave it a big try Sunday on their home court before dropping a whisker-thin decision — a 53-51 shaving by North Shore Mountaineers.

That made it a happy weekend for the Mountaineers, who downed the Jayvees 70-63 on the same floor Saturday night after arriving in town with five defeats in their first five starts.

Unfortunately for the Uvic lads, they were left with the only perfect record in the league — six game, six losses.

Two victory streaks went out the window at Vancouver as Victoria Chinooks and Vancouver CYO Saints played catch with the league lead after starting the weekend battles with four straight wins.

Chinooks were bounced out of the top spot Saturday as they faltered in the final minutes and tumbled 53-48 to Killarney while Vancouver CYO Saints thundered to their fifth triumph — an 83-42 spanking of Vancouver IGA Grovers.

It was a different story Sunday.

Chinooks came up with a superb defensive performance and a remarkably well-balanced attack and overpowered Killarney 83-49.

Saints found the Grocers an entirely different cup of tea and finally tasted defeat when Bill Bazluk stole the ball in the dying seconds and cruised in for a layup to give IGA heart-stopping, 63-62 triumph.

The upset decision enabled Chinooks to regain a share of the top berth and set the stage for next weekend's twin bill in Victoria, when Chinooks and Saints clash to decide who goes out in front.

Randy McKenzie (24 points) was the greatest Grocer Sunday while Blair Wakefield (16 Sunday and 20 Saturday) was the sharpest Saint.

KEITH DAGG WINS . . . . . . EVERGREEN CHAMPIONSHIP

Victoria Rink Hits Jackpot

VANCOUVER (CP) — Keith Dagg's Victoria rink captured the Evergreen tournament of curling champions and $2,000 Sunday by defeating former world champion Ron Northcott of Calgary 5-4.

The Dagg rink, with Ray Dagg third, Jack Trueman second and Barry Harvey lead, took advantage of Northcott's mistakes on the final two ends to post its win in the $3,800 bonspiel.

The Northcott rink of Jim Shields, Bernie Sparks and Fred Storey had a 4-3 advantage going into the 11th end.

But Northcott, the 1966 world champion, missed a take-out which would have given him five points in the 11th. Instead, Dagg managed to pick up a point to tie the contest going into the final end.

Dagg's fine shotmaking in the 12th saw him slip his final rock to the button behind a guard. Northcott elected to try to outdraw his opponent but his final rock hit the guard.

The Northcott rink won $800.

The Lyall Dagg rink of Vancouver won the consolation event and $400 by defeating Bruce Roberts of Seattle, last year's United States champion, 8-5. The Roberts rink pocketed $200.

Northcott and Keith Dagg advanced to the final with 10-9 victories in the semi-finals.

Northcott edged Lyall Dagg while Keith Dagg nipped Roberts in an extra end.

The Victoria rink entered the semis by edging Hec Gervais of Edmonton, 10-9 while Northcott easily handled the Lynn Mason rink from Burnaby, B.C., 8-3.

Roberts' rink made it into the final four with a 9-8 extra end win over Max Gordon of Richmond, B.C., and Lyall Dagg beat Buzz McGibney of Trail, B.C., 10-9, in the other quarter-final pairing.

Broken Leg Jolts San Jose's Cause

By ERNIE FEDORUK

San Jose Apaches, still hopeful of picking off the Western Division championship of the Continental Football League, gave coach Don Walsh their best offense in five games.

In the process, Walsh lost the man who made it tick.

Bob Daugherty, a highly-regarded halfback owned by San Francisco 49ers, suffered a broken leg as San Jose rolled to a 33-9 victory over Victoria Tyees Saturday night at Royal Athletic Park.

Daugherty just came off the injury list eight days ago after recovering from torn knee ligaments. Until the unfortunate injury, in the opening minutes of the second half, the hard-hitting back was expected to give the already-tough Apaches a big boost in their duel with Orange County Ramblers for the conference lead.

Daugherty showed Victoria fans just why the NFL 49ers covet him.

He carried the ball 13 times for 75 yards and a 5.7 average, caught two passes and scored San Jose's first two touchdowns.

He climaxed a 71-yard, 10-play march the first time Apaches took the ball by breaking through the middle of Victoria's line for a 27-yard touchdown run. He scored his second major just before the first quarter ended by taking a 21-yard toss from quarterback Charlie Green.

Charlie Fuller and flanker Eugene Williams scored San Jose's other majors. Dick Tatley, despite a handicap of being born without a right foot, accounted for Apaches' other points by kicking two field goals and three converts.

It was obviously San Jose's night, but Victorians enjoyed their brightest moment when speedy Tom Foster returned a kickoff 89 yards for Tyees' only major. Cliff Smith kicked the convert and the other Victoria points came on a second-quarter safety touch.

STRONGEST DISPLAY

Walsh felt it was Apaches' best game, offensively, in almost two months. They ground out a whopping 433 yards compared to only 147 by Victoria.

Fuller and John Travis backed up Daugherty's running with some fancy stepping of their own to give San Jose a solid ground attack.

Quarterback Green supplied diversification. He made good on 10 of 14 tosses for 161 air yards and backup man Chow Galle got hit on four of nine throws.

Williams, Daugherty and Fuller also doubled as pass-catchers but the standout in that department was end Steve Cox, who caught five throws for 101 yards, the longest a 40-yarder.

SACRAMENTO NEXT

Tyees couldn't get untracked against a San Jose defensive line that showed exceptional takeoff ability and sure tackling.

Victoria quarterback Terry Durham, rushed most of the night, did well to complete 10 passes, including four each to Steve Jones and end Bruce Kramer.

Lloyd Owens was the only Victorian to enjoy any success rushing against the tough Apaches, gaining 40 yards in eight carries for a 5.0 average.

Tyees, now 3-6 in the won-lost department, complete schedule obligations in the same Royal Athletic Park next Saturday against Sacramento.

Squeeze on First By Orangemen

(Times News Services)

Orange County Ramblers locked up first place in the Continental Football League's Western Division Sunday, using the aerial game to defeat Eugene Bombers 24-7.

All of the Ramblers' touchdowns came on passes. Jerry Otterson tossed a pair, a 29-yarder to Rhome Nixon and a 13-yarder to Bobby Gaiters, while backup quarterback Dave Mathieson fired the third — a 28-yarder in the fourth quarter to Nixon.

Victory erased the last hopes of San Jose Apaches, who defeated Victoria Tyees 33-9 on Saturday, of overtaking Orange County.

In another game Sunday, Seattle Rangers trampled Sacramento Buccaneers 41-0 and established two league records.

End Joe Peyton caught 14 passes for one record and Joe Chapman returned a pat 88 yards for the other.

George Fleming gave the Rangers two field goals in the first quarter and booted five extra points for the Rangers.

In the second quarter, Les Mueller scored and a minute and one-half later Chapman returned the punt. Tom Roth hit flanker Don Mann on a four-yard touchdown pass and Mueller went 43 yards for a TD in the third quarter.

Tom Hulett passed 20 yards to Peyton to cap the scoring in the final period.

Stance Not Much But Does the Job

HONOLULU (AP) — Dudley Wysong addresses a golf ball as if afraid it was going to hit him back.

He started the $100,000 Hawaian Open playing so badly he said he wasn't sure where the ball was going after he hit it.

But when it came down to the final holes, the quiet Texan refused to fold under the birdie pressure of veteran Billy Casper, and Wysong won the $20,000 first prize in a sudden death playoff.

Wysong and Casper finished the 72-hole tournament, played over the wind-swept, 7,000-yard Waialae course tied at 284.

That was four under par for the four rounds.

The first prize check was Wysong's largest, and the victory only his second. He won the Phoenix Open last year.

He has a strange address. He puts his club behind the ball—and then moves it three or four inches to the right until the club and the ball aren't facing each other at all.

"It drives you crazy to watch him," said Casper.

NIRMAL DILLON
. . . two goals

Penalty kickers were important men Sunday in the Victoria and District Soccer League's First Division as the top four clubs got richer by holding each of the four losing teams to one goal.

Canadian Scottish needed a first-half penalty goal by Jack Breuker to retain their two-point margin over second-place Victoria West.

The spot kick provided the victory margin in a 2-1 battle with Gorge Molsons as John Rostron booted a second-half tally for the Scots and Dennis Somner matched Rostron's effort in the last minute as he cashed in on a Gorge penalty shot.

University of Victoria Vikings also grabbed a 2-1 decision as they protected their third position by nipping Luckies on a penalty goal by Joe Milligan in the dying seconds.

Wests and fourth-place Red Lion Inn each finished with 3-1 victories. Nirmal Dillon scored twice as Wests topped Hourigan's Kickers and goals by John Tregear, Kend Bedord and Owen Richmond did the trick for Lions against Tally-Ho.

William Head Saints were the only losers to get more than one goal during the day, but their two tallies weren't enough in sa second division match with Colony Inn, which grounded the Saints 4-2.

In other second division battles, London Boxing Club stayed out in front by bombing the University Norsemen 6-0, Island Tug edged Victoria West 1-0, Mayfair Clippers earned a 1-1 draw with Gorge and Falcons held Sidney Hotel to a scoreless deadlock.

B.C. TOURNAMENT

Randall Leading Singles Scramble

Victoria trundlers were setting the pace in two events as the first weekend of play in the men's provincial tenpin bowling championships finished Sunday night at Mayfair Lanes.

With many bowlers still to fire their shots in each event of the American Bowling Congress competition, current leaders will be keeping their fingers crossed in hopes their scores will stand up until the tournament is concluded next Saturday and Sunday on the same lanes.

Leading the team event is the Fort and Duchess Service team of Victoria while other Victorians hold three of the top six spots in singles.

LEAD IN DOUBLES

Nanaimo's Ken Bell is out in front in the race for the most coveted title—the scratch all-events—with the 640 three-game total he rolled in the team contest.

Tom Locke of Vancouver is second in the all-events after firing a 625 series in the handicap doubles. Working with a handicap of 195, Locke and Denny Woo (484) have a total of 1,304 for first place in doubles.

Next in line are J. Penarsky and C. Quarnipas, Ladysmith (1,297); R. Langill and R. Morgan, Kamloops (1,285); H. Haddon and S. Norman, Nanaimo (1,250), and B. Wain and C. McLaren, White Rock (1,246).

Victoria's Robert Randall added a handicap of 99 to his 581 series to take the singles lead with a slender, one-pin margin over Kamloops kegler P. Langill (613-66—679.)

Jack Fletcher of Victoria is third at 669, followed by J. Penarsky, Ladysmith (663), A. Ell, Vancouver (663), and Len Scott, Victoria (655).

JOKERS SECOND

Adding a combined handicap of 453 to their 2,703 total, Gary Baker (604), Greg Michaux (497), Frank Evans (503), Len Dyson (542) and Harold Mellville (557) pace the team event with 3,156.

Two other Victoria quintets are second and third. The Jokers (Merv Nelson, John Harris, Jim Thompson, Mel Nelson and Fred Nelson) have 3,033 and Victoria Cabinets have 2,998.

Rounding out the top five teams are Inmans of North Vancouver (2,964) and Johnny's Service of Ladysmith (2,963).

Taylor Tops Motor Event

Stu Taylor posted the fastest time of the day as the Victoria Motor Sports Club staged an autocross Sunday over a gravel pit course off Keating Cross Road.

Taylor covered the twisting route of approximately one-half mile in 1:20.44 while winning the small trials class in a Ford Trials car.

L. Mellor wheeled his Corvair around the course in 1:21:06—second best time of the day—to top the large sedan class.

Winners of other classes were J. Davies, J. Storr, B. Angel, P. Reynolds and Judy Taylor.

Oak Bay Ladies Wrap Up Season

Second round of the Benning Cup event and the anual par competition will be combined into a 2-in-1 tournament which will wind up seasonal activities for the ladies' division at Victoria Golf Club.

Columbus Rolling Along

VANCOUVER — Columbus remained the only unbeaten team in the Pacific Coast Soccer League Sunday as they whipped Burnaby 3-0 before 1,700 fans at Callister Park.

The first half was scoreless but Columbus went ahead at five minutes of the second half on a goal by Peter Simpson. Goals by halfback Ben Zadink and left-winger Sergio Zanatta wrapped it up.

Victory moved Columbus into second place.

UBC Thunderbirds held onto first place with a 5-1 decision over New Westminster Labs in a Saturday match.

UBC's Dave Kotula started scoring off and Labs' Don Wilson evened it up for half-time. Gary Thompson and Ash Valdal kicked in two for UBC and Kotula finished off with his second and third goals of the day.

In other Saturday play, Vancouver Firefighters scored their first win of the season, 2-0 over North Shore Luckies, on goals by outside left Louis Trischuk and Bill Cooksley.

Castaways Charge Back Into Tie for Rugby Lead

Knocked out of the top berth of the Victoria Rugby Union's First Division Saturday, Castaways climbed back into a tie for the lead Sunday by clipping Cowichan 12-5 at Duncan.

Victory was the fourth in five starts for Castaways and it got them back even with University of Victoria Vikings, who had stepped out in front with their fourth triumph Saturday. Vikings tripped James Bay Athletic Association 15-8 at the Uvic campus.

Paul Bayliss paced Castaways with two trys. Garry Webster added a try and Alan Rees chipped in with a drop goal.

Cowichan points came on a try by Goodman Goodmunseth and a convert by veteran Derek Hyde-Lay.

Vikings needed a nine-point surge in the second half to overcome a 8-6 half-time deficit and get their second win over JBAA.

SPECTACULAR RUN

In the opening half, Rod Fiddick, with a try, and George Wilson, with a penalty goal and a convert, counted for the Oarsmen while Gary Johnston and scrum-half Dave Slater were scoring for Vikings.

Slater went over for another three-pointer in the second half, Paul Carnes broke out for a spectacular 80-yard run to set up a try by Brian Usher and Rich Pike ended the Uvic outburst with a penalty goal.

In a second division game Saturday at Macdonald Park, JBAA thumped the University Norsemen 19-0 after two first-half trys by Adam Ustik had sent the Oarsmen into a 6-0 lead.

In other Sunday action, Oak Bay Wanderers trimmed Rainbow Sea Cadets 23-0 in the junior division and Mount Newton fashioned a 17-8 midget division triumph over Oak Bay.

Powell River Lads Find Blue Weekend

Happiness isn't a place called Victoria for the Powell River club campaigning in the Vancouver Island Juvenile Hockey League.

Owning three straight victories when they arrived in town for a pair of weekend games, the Powell River lads departed with two defeats staining their previously perfect record.

Victoria Nixon's Truckers nipped the visitors 3-2 Saturday at Memorial Arena and Esquimalt compounded the miseries Sunday at the Sports Centre by humbling Powell River 6-4.

Saturday's verdict left Nixons the only unbeaten club in the league and the Truckers added their fifth triumph Sunday at Comox, beating the home team 10-0.

Ernie Carley, with two goals, and Ray Mouncey scored for Nixons Saturday. Carley collected three tallies at Comox as Perry Ethier, Darrell Leswick and Laurie Bennett each scored twice.

Graham Brown sparked the Esquimalt attack with three goals and two assists. Also counting for Esquimalt were Don Blythe, Dave Mick and Rod Sluggett.

Norfolk Keeps Hockey Crown

Norfolk House is continuing to cut an impressive path through field hockey circles.

The Norfolk girls, winners of the provincial schoolgirls' tournament for the third time in four years the previous weekend, retained possession of the Bridgman Cup Saturday at Lansdowne Junior High School.

Competing against 15 other teams in the 31st annual trophy competition for Vancouver Island schools, the Norfolk first team retained the cup by defeating Oak Bay High's first side 2-0 in the final, winning on goals by Gail Stirling and Virginia Rogers.

Playing on four fields, the teams played a total of 31 games before the title was decided. Teams were divided into four sections for round-robin competition and the two top clubs from each section advanced into knockout play.

Reaching the knockout stage were Lansdowne, Cowichan, Oak Bay I, Esquimalt, Norfolk House I, Oak Bay II, Queen Margaret's and St. Margaret's.

In semi-final matches, Esquimalt was ousted by Oak Bay I and Queen Margaret's was eliminated by the champions.

Triple 'Thank You' To Car Pushers

By ELIZABETH FORBES

This is a public "thank you" to three understanding men who helped me out of what could have been a series of embarrassing situations with my car last Thursday afternoon.

I don't know their names. Indeed, I'd never seen them before. So the only way I can thank them is through this column. With the sincere hope that they happen to read it.

Forbes

Trouble started in front of the Victoria Press building with little more than 20 minutes for me to keep a hair appointment.

My car wouldn't start. No matter how I tried or what I did, the engine was stubbornly dead.

A young man in the office, noted for his success in tinkering with automobiles, tried his hand. No luck.

He thought however that he could get the car moving in neutral, with my foot on the clutch and him pushing behind.

"We'll get it going at two or three miles," he explained. "Then I'll shout. You take your foot of the clutch, put it in gear and give it the gun. You'll go!"

★ ★ ★

He was right. I did go. And, in my ignorance of things mechanical, I thought after that push-off my Morris would continue to go.

When I missed the green light at Blanshard and Bay I quickly discovered I was wrong. The engine died again. The car wouldn't start. There was a line-up waiting for the "go-ahead" sign. And I was at the head of the line.

With only a second or two to spare I jumped out, ran to the small truck immediately behind and pleaded with the driver — "Push me! Push me!"

He didn't argue. He pushed. Following instructions I had received from the lad in Victoria Press office I put the car in neutral and clamped my foot on the clutch.

We crossed Bay Street and the engine started again.

Off I went! I made the green light at Pandora but just missed it at Johnson Street. Again the car stopped. Again the engine was dead. Again I was at the head of the line.

★ ★ ★

I know what you are thinking. There were garages to right and left of me at that intersection. I should have called for help.

You're right! But, believe it or not, at the time all I could think of was get going, keep going and somehow make that hair appointment. (Do I hear you say "just like a woman?")

There was a private car immediately behind me at the Johnson Street light, with a fair haired man wearing a checked sport jacket (at least I think it was checked) at the wheel.

He didn't argue either. He pushed. The engine started and I skittered toward Yates Street like a rabbit with a fox on its tail.

I made the light. Also the one at View. And I just managed to skim through the Fort Street signal before it showed red.

It was when I turned east at the Royal Theatre and then south on Quadra at the YM-YWCA building that my luck ran out. The car stopped again right in the middle of the intersection and there was no one behind me to push.

★ ★ ★

Several cars went by, the drivers turning disapproving glances at my Morris. None stopped. That's when I gave up.

A young man with a friendly smile who was walking along the street pushed me to the curb. And I went into the "Y" and called the Automobile Association.

Immediately a pleasant voice at the other end of the phone took charge. A service truck was sent to the rescue. The trouble was soon diagnosed. Dead battery.

You can see from this brief account that I do owe sincere thanks to the man in the truck at Bay Street, the driver of the car at Johnson and the young man near the YM-YWCA. They very definitely saved me from being the centre of and the reason for several traffic tie-ups.

Oh yes! To keep the record straight, let me say, I never did make that hair appointment!

Three More Receive Canada '67 Medals

Three more Victorians have received silver centennial medals in recognition of valuable service to Canada.

The medals, awarded from the office of Secretary of State Judy LaMarsh, were received by Norman P. Forbes, 2544 Dunlevy; George E. Burrell, 2760 Burdick, and Miss Margaret Bell Thompson, 1860 Crescent.

Mr. Forbes, principal of Oaklands Eelementary School, is one of Victoria's best-known teachers and school administrators.

A native son, he has trained more principals and vice-principals than most other members of the teaching profession in the Greater Victoria area.

He has also promoted sports among young people.

Mr. Burrell is district manager of the Veterans' Land Administration with headquarters in Victoria.

Mr. Burrell is a veteran of the Royal Canadian Navy.

Miss Thompson has been a teacher at the Christian Elementary (private) school since 1965, and is a specialist in primary grades. She taught for many years in Saskatchewan before coming here.

"She was very surprised to get the medal," a colleague said, "but she is highly esteemed for her long and patient devotion to teaching."

Kamloops Team To Study Kidney Machine

A team from Kamloops is coming to Victoria early next year to study the kidney machine at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

The machine does the job of a living kidney by removing wastes and poisons from the bloodstream, and the lives of nine people now depend on it.

Royal Inland Hospital, Kamloops, will be the first outside Victoria and Vancouver to open a renal dialysis (artificial kidney) unit.

One reason the Kamloops team is coming to Victoria is that a woman from North Kamloops is now dependent on the kidney machine.

She will be transferred to the hospital at Kamloops as soon as a dialysis unit can be installed.

HOME GARDEN

Wintering Technique For Fuchsias

By HILDA BEASTALL

Fuchsias grew well this past summer and are lasting so long that gardeners are wanting to know how to keep them for next year.

Hilda

If they are successful fuchsias might reach the popularity of geraniums in the coming summer.

Both fuchsias and geraniums require about the same wintering if they are to be kept in some part of the dwelling house.

Large geraniums may need a little cutting back for ease of handling. Fuchsias can also be reduced to a size easily managed.

Fuchsias are better off and far less trouble during winter if kept in a coldframe with sawdust or peatmoss heaped around the roots and lower stems. Glass frame covers can be raised in mild weather and additional covers put over the glass in severe frosts.

COOL PLACE

For gardeners who have not yet decided how useful a coldframe is all the year around, some cool place in the house must be chosen.

Geraniums can share such a place. It should be light, cool but free of frost, with a day temperature not over 40 deg. F. Ventilation on every mild day is a necessity, and an occasional drop of water.

The amount of water will depend on the size and type of container and the temperature of the storage. Only enough should be given to prevent the soil from becoming dust dry, but not enough to cause new growth to start on the plants.

Geraniums will keep their leaves at this temperature.

By late March or early April, according to weather at that time, fuchsias should be pruned back to within an inch or so of each main stem, and given a good watering. Warmer temperatures of the time of year will soon cause growth.

Kamloops Amalgamation Makes It Fifth Largest

KAMLOOPS (CP) — At precisely 3:28 p.m. Saturday, Kamloops officially became the fifth largest city in British Columbia.

After almost one year of preparations, amalgamation of the city of Kamloops and the town of North Kamloops has been achieved. Population of the combined municipalities is 23,000.

Its new status became official during which Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell presented Mayor Peter Wing with the letters patent for the expanded city.

Also revoking the initial letters patent issued to the city in 1893, Mr. Campbell returned them to the new city council for storage in city archives.

He told the inaugural council meeting and approximately 600 residents present for ceremonies "B.C. cities are growing up."

Referring to the Alberni-Port Alberni amalgamation the previous Saturday, he said:

"You two municipalities are showing the way to a lot of communities in British Columbia in the next 10 years. Many will be learning that things happen faster and more efficiently when people work together."

Participating in ceremonies were MP Davie Fulton and Highways Minister Gaglardi.

Mr. Gaglardi made three announcements to residents of the city.

He said tenders for the construction of a bypass, which will permit traffic on the Trans-Canada Highway to go by rather than through Kamloops, are to be called in a few days.

He also announced that plans for the construction of a regional college in the city are being speeded up, but did not elaborate.

As well, work on the Yellowhead route through the Rockies is to be completed as soon as possible, Mr. Gaglardi said. Original completion date on the route was tentatively slated for next fall.

Rain Dampens Guy Fawkes Day

LONDON (AP)—Rain over much of Britain dampened the fuses of the country's annual fireworks celebrations Sunday night.

Five brigades reported only about 70 calls to quench Guy Fawkes bonfires which got out of control around Britain. Premature celebrations Saturday night resulted in about 400 calls.

Fireworks Day celebrates the 1605 gunpowder plot, when Guy Fawkes and his supporters tried unsuccessfully to blow up Parliament.

RUSSIANS TRAINING WITH FRENCH FORCE

LONDON (AP)—Russian troops are training with French forces in France as part of a Franco-Soviet military exchange program, the Sunday Telegraph reports.

The newspaper also says the Soviet Union has made "secret overtures" for bilateral military contacts with Canada and Belgium who, like France, are members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. It says Canada rejected an invitation for Gen. J. V. Allard, chief of the Canadian defence staff, to visit Moscow.

Meet the Mercedes-Benz Diesel, the long-life car. (87% of its ancestors are alive today).

Mercedes-Benz built the world's first Diesel-powered passenger car 31 years ago.

Today's version gives up to 30 miles per gallon in normal driving, and does it so smoothly that "many unsuspecting passengers are surprised to learn that they've been riding in a Diesel," according to CAR LIFE magazine.

Besides fuel economy, the 200 Diesel saves you money in the parts you'll never have to repair or replace. There are no sparkplugs, points, condensers or distributors. And Diesels stand up while other cars are falling apart: eighty-seven per cent of all Mercedes-Benz Diesel cars built since 1936 are still in running condition.

Economical as it is, the 200 Diesel is also comfortable. Mercedes-Benz engineering know-how provides the jolt-free riding ease of fully-independent suspension. The sure stopping power of front disc brakes. And the rugged durability of a body welded in 10,000 places, armed with 48 pounds of rustproofing.

With proper care, your 200 Diesel can be running smoothly—and saving you money—when other cars have been chopped up for scrap. A remarkable machine; come in soon for a thorough test-drive.

Poor Nations Keep Arms Salesmen Busy

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — It's been a bad period for critics of the international arms race.

The Soviet Union, traditionally defensively inclined, is building an aircraft carrir, which suggests more capacity for far-from-home adventures to go with its rising influence in the Mediterranean.

The U.S. has renewed arms shipments to the Middle East, despite further serious fighting between Israel and Egypt that has set back United Nations peace efforts.

Israel is getting light jet bombers. Five (pro-U.S.) Arab states are also on the list. Libya and Morocco will get the lightweight F-5 jet fighters, which Canada manufactures as the CF-5.

Lebanon, Saudi Arabia and Tunisia are involved, too.

Most depressing of all to congressional critics of the arms race, who two months ago had mounted a major attack on mixing arms and foreign aid, is a breakthrough in Latin America.

The U.S. has been telling the military-minded governments there — where generals are on or right behind the seat of power — that the F-5 will be available in 1969.

But Peru, which has just devalued its currency and has one of the lowest standards of living even for a depressed region, couldn't wait.

BOUGHT FROM FRANCE

It says it has purchased supersonic jet fighters from France, spurning a last-minute U.S. offer. The assumption is that President Belaunde Terry had to buy continued support from the military with the new aircraft, which France was only too happy to sell.

To Democratic Senator Frank Church of Idaho, leading critic of military aid, Peru should have been given the option of having to go to France for its foreign aid as a result.

But there is evidence that this threat was made and didn't work. Peru would rather have the planes and gamble that the U.S., in the interest of hemisphere self-security, will continue to dole out economic assistance through the Alliance for Progress to head off any threat from the left.

Now, Brazil — another militarily-operated government — wants its aircraft, too. Substantial other orders are expected which the U.S. will strive to corner.

The U.S. sales of arms to less-developed countries has risen considerably in recent years and approached $900,000,000 worth for the year ended last June 30.

The Soviet Union, in the race to influence the less-developed nations, distributes about $600,000,000 worth. The U.S. figures do not include NATO allies such as Greece or Turkey, or South Korea or South Vietnam.

Defence Secretary Robert McNamara has contended to congressional critics that only 11 per cent of arms sales are made to the less-developed and needier countries. The rest is purchased by Australia, Canada, Japan and Europe.

But the slice going to the poorer countries is rising quickly and accounted for about 30 per cent of all U.S. arms sales in the last year.

REPEATS TONIGHT

Exciting, Moving Performance By Olefsky

By AUDREY JOHNSON

A decade before Brahms was born, Carl Maria von Weber wrote his opera, Euryanthe, the overture to which opens the current pair of Victoria Symphony programs at the Royal Victoria Theatre.

It is followed by Brahms' Third Symphony, written 60 years later.

The juxtaposition of the two works forms an interesting commentary on the art of programming. For Weber, closely linked to the time of Mozart and Haydn, presaged the writings of both Brahms and his contemporary Tchaikowsky in this glowing, wonderfully inventive overture.

Later in the program we hear Tchaikowsky and Weber's almost-contemporary, Haydn — the Cello Concerto in D.

The Tchaikowsky Roccoco Variations for Cello and Orchestra is a delightful work whose unfamiliarity no doubt is related to its complexity as far as the solo instrument is concerned.

It is not every day that so dazzling a performer as Paul Olefsky is available. The distinguished American cellist's guest appearance Sunday, was as exciting and moving as his recital performance Wednesday night had led one to anticipate.

Accompanied with finesse by Laszlo Gati and the orchestra, Mr. Olefsky exploited all the enchanting grace and animation of the Haydn in what was a complete gem of a baroque performance.

In both the dazzling technical intricacies the Tchaikowsky and the brilliant cadenzas of the concerto, Mr. Olefsky rose to heights of virtuosity that amazed and thrilled. But his playing is constantly diffused with the warmth of a truly romantic spirit and his musical taste is impeccable.

From the opening brass and woodwind chords of Euryanthe, Mr. Gati established a sense of assurance and vitality within the orchestra.

The precision and zest with which the string section responded matched the beauty and security of the winds and resulted in a stirring performance that was a tribute to both conductor and new concertmaster Raymond Ovens.

Much that was admirable was also to be found in the performance of Brahms' profoundly lovely Third Symphony. Mr. Gati is hampered here because Brahms does demand a denser, more opulent string texture than is at present available.

But what orchestral forces he does command, he used with skill and discernment, revealing a strong feeling for the splendor of the work and the great spirit that motivates it.

The concert will be repeated tonight at 8:30.

'Control Radio, TV:' Lapierre

CRANBROOK (CP) — The national vice-president of the New Democratic Party, Laurier Lapierre, Saturday night called for more control of private radio and television.

Addressing a party nominating convention in Cranbrook, Mr. Lapierre spoke in answer to an editorial broadcast a few hours earlier by Lloyd Hoole, manager of radio station CKEK in Cranbrook.

Mr. Hoole had criticized Mr. Lapierre, former co-host with Patrick Watson of the CBC television program This Hour Has Seven Days. He had called Mr. Lapierre the "enfant terrible" of Canadian TV, and said he did on television "what little boys painting on bathroom walls do."

Mr. Lapierre said "this vicious attack on the CBC, my friend Patrick Watson and myself is more proof that the time has come to control private radio and TV."

He added that if there is anything the CBC and commercial radio have in common, it is "rotten management."

The meeting named James Patterson of Kimberley to contest the Okanagan-Kootenay riding in the next federal election.

ACCORDIONIST ON SUNDAY

Visiting accordionist Leo Aquino will perform at 3 p.m. Sunday in McPherson Playhouse under the sponsorship of the Musical Air Society.

SEYFORT'S GAMBLE MAY PAY

'You Have to Go Outside To See If You're Good'

By AL WHITE

It takes a lot of money and effort—not to mention patience and talent—to make your mark as an established artist. First of all you have to be good, and then you have to show your work where exposure means the most.

The place to make the first grab for an international reputation in the shortest time today is New York City—so that's where Victoria artist Charles "Rudy" Seyfort decided to make it.

He had an asset when he started out in the form of a private one-man show of his work by request of the Lynn Kottler Galleries of New York.

So he crated 23 of his best pieces and flew off to the east to brave the notorious critics of the art centre of the continent.

The resulting two-week show, in late September, left Seyfort optimistic—but doubtful about his position in Victoria.

●

Recently he took time out from the novelty wood carving that earns his daily bread and butter and relaxed at his woodland home on Ten Mile Point to talk about the trip.

First of all, how did he find the art-viewing public in New York?

"Excellent," he said—they turned out in numbers to view his sculptures, bas-reliefs and charcoal sketches throughout the two weeks of the show.

But how did he fare with the critics, who can devastate an artist simply by ignoring him?

Again, the optimistic answer: "Three critics came to the show—and that's good," he said. "Quite often they ignore a show."

The critics were impressed by his work—particularly the centrepiece of the collection, a bas-relief in wood on a stormy, atmospheric orange background entitled Exodus.

This work, which depicts huddling, shrouded figures trekking through a mood of anger, received special mention in several reviews.

●

Seyfort thought the attention he was paid an indication that his work can stand careful scrutiny and judgment.

"A critic can put you up or down just with a write-up . . ." he said.

"He comes in and doesn't say very much—you wait for the papers to come out to see if it's any good."

(One critic, in his over-all summary of Seyfort's works, praised his "skilful knowledge of the figure and its articulation.")

Waiting for the reaction was "like sitting on needles" for Seyfort—the show was a gamble for him, with more than $2,000 of his own money invested in it.

And it was a gamble that could have been a flop, if the show had been ignored or panned by the critics.

The money put in by Seyfort was only to cover the cost of getting him and his paintings to and from New York. The gallery paid for the showing and supplied advertising and promotion to bring in the public.

●

Of course the only way to make money on the showing was sell some paintings (with the gallery taking 75 per cent of the price). And here bad luck caught up with Seyfort.

SEYFORT
. . . satisfies critics

Through a mix-up during transportation, the collection was under bond for the return trip and he couldn't sell any of it.

Since the show he has had requests for "a couple" of the pieces and plans to send pictures to prospective buyers in New York.

Why bother to take the risk at such great expense if a living can be made in Victoria doing wood, concrete and stone carvings and the occasional art work on commission?

"You have to do it to find out if you are up to the standards . . . if you fit in an art colony or not," Seyfort said.

"You have to go outside to be recognized.

Seyfort doesn't think the modest reputation he has enjoyed for the past few years here counts for much on the international scene.

"Victoria is a funny place . . . there is a lot of money here . . . But in the arts field the place is dead as a duck.

"Victoria is one of the few places in Canada that could support a big art centre," he said.

As it is now, he has to show his art where he can—this week in the window of a downtown store.

The New York show was the first time Seyfort had shown a collection of his works anywhere. He complained he has had his work rejected by Canadian galleries as "not good enough" and is not accepted as a serious artist.

●

Why?—"Because I work in wood," he said.

Wood is better suited to bringing out what he wants in his sculptures and bas-reliefs—with particular care being taken to incorporate the grain of the red cedar and white pine he prefers in the mood of each piece of art.

But he thinks that most people don't accept sculptures carved from wood art and tend to classify them as "whittling." They don't want to extend to the medium of wood the same acceptance they give metal, clay and concrete, when used by artists, he said.

They don't appear to have anything against wood outside Canada, however. Seyfort's work has been accepted, even prior to his New York show, in the U.S. and Europe.

He has had pieces on display in the National Gallery in New York for three years and last year won an honorable mention in the Cooperstown Art Association exhibit for Mother and Child.

This work, a relief in white pine, was praised in the French magazine La Revue Moderne for its "figurative expression," emotion and lifelike, ardent sense of motion. The critic confidently said that Seyfort has "the gift of creation."

●

Wood-sculpting isn't Seyfort's only forte—he pioneered work in this province using colored glass, by building a huge wall mural of glass sections leaded together for a city automobile showroom.

"I am the only one in B.C. using this," he said.

So far the mural and the few pieces he has sold privately are the only exposure he gets locally as an artist.

Seyfort hopes the outside exposure and boost to his reputation will eventually creep back to Canada and give him some home support.

The New York show may be the beginning for him.

UBC Gallery Will Feature City Artists

Drawings and watercolors by Victoria artists Maxwell Bates and Eric Metcalfe will be on exhibit at UBC's Fine Arts Gallery until Nov. 18.

Also on display will be an exhibiton of work by Winnifred Warters, Esther Rogatnick and Hugh Calverley titled "Three Innocents," which has been organized by Prof. George Swinton of the University of Manitoba.

Persian and Indian miniatures dating from the late 11th century will be at the gallery from Tuesday to Nov. 14.

The gallery is located in the basement of UBC's library and is regularly closed on Sunday and Monday. This week it will also be closed Friday and Saturday.

Esquimalt Row Local Matter

The attorney - general's department is not interested in getting involved in the Esquimalt police job evaluation study controversy.

A high ranking official said today no official request for an investigation into the study and its subsequent release to the press had been received.

"If and when it is we shall not be too interested," he said. "This department does not want to get involved in what is obviously a local matter."

The spokesman said a copy of the report was received shortly after its completion by retired RCMP chief superintendent C. B. Macdonell and was carefully studied at the time.

'LOCAL MATTER'

"We couldn't see anything to get too excited about at that time and we still can't," he said. "These sort of things tend to generate a great deal of excitement locally at election time, but it is a local matter and we have no intention of becoming involved."

The call for a provincial investigation came over the weekend from reeveship candidate George Argyle who said he was going to request the attorney-general to take another look at the Macdonell report and conduct a full investigation.

'COURAGEOUS'

Other developments over the weekend saw the man who prepared the report describe Reeve Ray Bryant's call for a job evaluation study as "quite a courageous thing to do."

Mr. Macdonell, now a travelling magistrate in Alberta, said it was always his understanding that the report would be confidential and would not be for public release.

Mr. Macdonell was selected for the job on the recommendation of the attorney-general's department after the Esquimalt police commission, headed by Reeve Bryant, made a request for a suitable man to do a comprehensive job evaluation.

Reeve Bryant had been in office six months when as reeve and chairman of the police commission he called for the full study of the police department and recommendations for its future development.

The report was released to the press last week by an anonymous sender. It was forwarded to the Times through the regular mails.

Go-Slow Order Given Police On Juveniles

Bonner Awaiting Outcome Of Struggle with Ottawa

British Columbia police forces have been instructed to "go slow" in pressing charges against juveniles over traffic and other offences involving provincial and municipal regulations.

This was confirmed by Attorney-General Robert Bonner in a weekend interview.

The policy instruction to police is part of the province's reaction to a Supreme Court of Canada ruling that all charges against juveniles — even if they involve only provincial or municipal regulations — must be treated as crimes and prosecuted under the federal Juvenile Delinquents Act.

REVIEW SOUGHT

Mr. Bonner told The Times his department has ordered its legal representative in Ottawa to try to obtain a rare review by the Supreme Court of its own judgment and has launched a campaign to have the federal act changed.

In the meantime, police have been requested to mark time in prosecuting minor offences pending the outcome of the department's efforts.

"We've instructed our Ottawa counsel to explore the possibility of the Supreme Court reviewing its decision," Mr. Bonner said.

"Meanwhile, we have acquainted the police forces of the province with what we regard as the unfortunate state of the national law.

"We have directed a "go slow" policy in prosecuting juveniles on minor or technical provincial and municipal regulations — for example riding a bicycle on a sidewalk or for failing to license it."

Mr. Bonner added that technical discussions for revision of the juvenile delinquents law already have been opened with B.C. pressing for changes which would protect youngsters from being judged as criminals in such cases and would abolish permanent criminal records for juvenile offences.

"It is a monstrous thing to conceive that violating a municipal bylaw leaves a national record of a crime on a youngster whereas the same conviction for an adult leaves only some vague reference in local records," he said.

Funeral Held For Former Elocutionist

Funeral services were held here today for Mrs. Florence Bell Mitchell who was once a prominent elocutionist.

Her concerts took her throughout the Eastern United States and Canada. She appeared often at Massey Hall in Toronto.

Mrs. Mitchell moved to the Victoria area with her husband, James Pearly Mitchell, in 1926. They engaged in fruit farming at Saanichton until Mr. Mitchell's death in 1943.

MISSED SHIP

Mrs. Mitchell's grandfather sailed with the English explorer Sir John Franklin but missed his ship on the last famous trip when the expedition perished. One of her brothers, Franklin J. McLeay was a noted English actor.

The deceased was born in 1873 in Watford, Ont. She married in 1908 and lived with her husband in the Medicine Hat area for many years. Their only child died there at age three.

Mrs. Mitchell is survived by nieces in Ontario and New Brunswick and grand nieces and grand nephews at Forest and Ottawa, Ont. A Victoria relative is Mrs. Edward Callan.

Rev. R. J. D. Morris officiated at ceremonies at McCall Brothers Chapel. Burial was at Royal Oak.

Easterner Admits Robbing Bank With Empty Gun

A 22-year-old unemployed man pleaded guilty in magistrate's court today to a $1,555 armed robbery.

Carl Raymond, 22, from London, Ont., was charged with holding up the Bank of Montreal at Fort and Richmond Oct. 13.

He had earlier pleaded not guilty and elected trial by judge and jury. Defence counsel George Jones requested permission to withdraw the previous election.

Raymond elected trial before the magistrate and changed his plea to guilty.

Det. Richard Ward told the court a man entered the bank about 10:20 a.m. on the morning of the 13th. He was wearing a trench coat and a ski toque.

The man went to a teller, pointed the end of a sawed-off gun from his coat, and told him to fill a paper bag with money.

When the teller hesitated, the robber said "Hurry up and nobody will get hurt."

Det. Ward said the teller filled the bag, including 50 $5 bills of "scrip money," money for which the serial numbers have been recorded.

When police arrived, they were told the man had fled to the vicinity of Ida and Coronation Streets.

Det. Ward said when a thorough search of apartments at 2211 Ida St. revealed nothing, the apartment caretaker, Albert Thody, searched the crawlspace under the building.

He reported a man hiding there.

After being called by two detectives, the man said "OK, OK, I'm coming out."

He first passed out the trench coat, toque, the bag with the money, and the shot-gun. He then came out himself. Police identified him as Raymond.

Det. Ward said Raymond and his wife came to B.C. from Ontario where they were in debt. The detective said they found a little work in Vancouver and came here hoping for more.

The detective said when no work was found, Raymond purchased the gun and clothing to use in the bank robbery.

EMPTY GUN

Det. Ward said Raymond purchased shells for the gun, but emptied the powder from them, and at the time of the robbery the gun was empty.

Raymond's teen-age wife was originally charged in connection with the robbery, but after technical legal difficulties, the charge against both Raymond and his wife were quashed.

New charges were laid against Raymond, but not against his wife.

Magistrate Ostler remanded Raymond to Nov. 14 for presentence report.

Six-Month Term For Mainlander On 41 Charges

Andrew Toderian, 34, of North Surrey, was sentenced today to six months on 41 charges of obtaining goods and cash by false pretenses.

Toderian had earlier pleaded guilty to all the charges. He told the court "a few more charges will be coming in."

The offences all involved the passing of worthless cheques in Victoria, Surrey, Burnaby, New Westminster, Vancouver and West Vancouver over the past six months.

The accused told the court he was trying to play the horses to pay the money back.

Toderian had no previous record. Magistrate Ostler commented "when you involved yourself in crime you certainly pulled out all the stops."

FINES TOTAL $525 AFTER POLICE CHASE

A high speed police chase in the James Bay area late Sunday night resulted in a man facing three charges in magistrate's court today.

Gary Milley, 26, of 939 Johnson, was fined a total of $525 after he pleaded guilty.

Police reported they chased a car Milley was driving south on Government and east on Menzies at speeds over 70 miles per hour.

Magistrate Ostler fined the accused $350 for impaired driving, $150 for dangerous driving, and $25 for driving without a licence.

Auction Set For Former 'Y' Building

Victoria's old YMCA building at Blanshard and View goes on the auction block in 10 days.

The building, originally destined to become a hotel, will go to the highest bidder during a sheriff's sale to be held in the Sheriff's office at the Law Courts at 11 a.m. Wednesday, Nov. 15.

A spokesman for Commonwealth Trust Company, plaintiffs in the action forcing the sale, said he is confident the forced sale would not mean the disappearance of the old building.

SOLID BUILDING

"Structurally it is as solid as rock," he said. "We are reasonably sure that whoever purchases the building will carry forward the plan to convert it into a hotel or a place of entertainment."

Commonwealth held the original mortgage on the building for $60,000—an amount generally estimated to be half the building's actual worth.

Local developer Tage Borge Larsen presented the first plan for development to city council. He won approval from the planners for an over-all scheme which would have seen the old Y converted into a hotel.

Simpsons Proposes Warehouse

The Simpsons-Sears company is seeking zoning approval to build a warehouse in Saanich.

An application has been made to the municipality for a wholesale, retail warehousing distribution centre at Vanalman and Glanford.

The proposed site covers 10 acres opposite the Douglas golf and driving range.

A company spokesman in Victoria confirmed the application but declined details until it comes before council.

Because of the proximity of the proposed site to Patricia Bay Highway, approval from the highways department will be necessary as well as approval from Saanich.

MEETING WEDNESDAY

Assistant Saanich planner Keith Birch said the application will go before a meeting of the Advisory Planning Commission Wednesday and the planning department will make a recommendation at that time.

"If it is then cleared by them for or against, it will go to the next council meeting," he said.

The warehouse, if approved, would serve the $6 million Simpsons-Sears retail store approved by the city of Victoria at Hillside and Shelbourne.

$1,000 Bail On Drug Count

Bail was set at $1,000 in magistrate's court today for a youth charged with possession of marijuana.

Thomas Penston, 18, of 950 Empress Ave., was arrested Saturday.

He was remanded to Nov. 14 for election and plea.

B.C. Variety Wanted If Sasquatch Hunted

Conservative Minister Kenneth Kiernan says if he decides to order an expedition to find a Sasquatch it will be confined to B.C. territory.

"I'm not prepared to say at this time," he replied in a weekend interview when asked whether the government would underwrite or contribute to a Sasquatch hunt.

Mr. Kiernan said a lot depends on the film taken of a large, hairy but human-like creature by an amateur Sasquatch researcher in northern California while the minister was in Europe.

EVALUATION

"Because I wasn't able to see the film, I will have to await an evalutaion of it from my department," he said.

"I have considerable confidence in the objectivity of Frank Beebe of our museum and his report will have considerable influence in any decision I make in this matter."

Mr. Beebe and provincial anthropologist Don Abbott were among scientists who viewed the film in Vancouver two weeks ago. It was shown to them by Roger Patterson, Yakima, Wash., as a result of Mr. Kiernan's public appeals for any evidence that would shed light on the Sasquatch legends.

Earlier, Mr. Abbott was sent to the same area in northern California by Mr. Kiernan and brought back pictures and plaster casts of huge human-like footprints.

NOMINAL EXPENSE

"That trip was a relatively nominal expense to help us obtain a little more concrete information but beyond that our department's responsibility along the lines of classifying flora or fauna is limited to British Columbia's boundaries," said Mr. Kiernan.

"If we were to make any major expedition (to search for a Sasquatch), it would be related only to the confines of our province."

Fair Price Pitch Made to Motelmen

"Don't price yourself out of the tourist market, Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan told 150 motel and resort operators meeting in Victoria today.

Mr. Kiernan said British Columbia must establish a reputation for fair-dealing and fair-pricing, as well as hospitality, to keep up with the increasingly competitive tourist industry.

"If we do that, I believe we have as good a travel package to sell as any country in the world—and, as yet, I don't think we've even scratched the surface of our tourist potential."

Just back from a tour of Europe, Mr. Kiernan was addressing a four-day convention of the B.C. Motels and Resorts Association at Holyrood House.

PRICE CONTROLS

He said B.C. can learn much from Austria in the way of tourist techniques, but didn't think Canadians would accept the price controls that are practised by the Austrian Chamber of Commerce — practically an arm of the government.

"But it is very much in our interests to exercise that control voluntarily," the minister said. "The world is shrinking in terms of travel-time, which means we shall have to compete with more and more countries."

By 1972, he said, supersonic jet planes will have reduced the flying time between Vienna and Halifax, N.S., from 15 to six hours. And each plane will be carrying up to 450 persons.

"It must be admitted that some airports in Europe are better equipped to handle a heavy influx of tourists than our own," Mr. Kiernan said.

Delegates to the convention and their wives were welcomed today by Sam Otto and his wife, Olga, from Vancouver. They made a ceremonial landing by helicopter Saturday in a parking lot at Douglas and Hillside.

Cyclist Suffers Cuts, Fractures; Condition Fair

A motorcyclist is in only fair condition in hospital today after an accident on Cook Street Saturday afternoon.

Michael Hogan, 51, of 1034 Burdett, was admitted with cuts and fractures to his left knee, wrist and shoulder.

He was in collision with a car driven north on Cook near Collinson Street by Arthur Kilvington of 620 Cook.

Ask The Times

Q. What happens to the mortgage on a home or property sold for tax arrears? A.V.E.

A. Under provincial law and the Municipal Act, people buying property for tax arrears get clear title after one year if the property is not reclaimed by the owners. The mortgage is wiped out. But after the sale, the mortgage holder is informed of the sale so that he may take some steps to protect his interest. In the case of a crown mortgage, the property is sold subject to that mortgage.

Q. Why are there always so many cars parked off the surfaced portion of the Trans-Canade Highway overlooking Portage Inlet near the Saanich-View Royal boundary? Is there an industry near there? A.B.H.

A. This area is a meeting place for car pools. Many workers driving into the city leave their cars there and join their car pools for the rest of the trip into town.

REMEDIAL CLASSES 'STRAIGHTEN THEM AWAY EARLY'

Seeds of Trouble Don't Grow in Sheltered Climate

By DON VIPOND
Times Education Reporter

Step into a special room at Glen Lake Elementary School and you can watch teachers grappling with the seeds of trouble before they grow.

On either side of this unusual viewpoint and visible through one-way windows are bright and bustling classrooms.

No ordinary classrooms these though they might appear so at first glance. These are for youngsters with learning difficulties.

The pupils here are not retarded as most people think of the term. They are in fact of above-average intelligence. But for various emotional reasons, they have been unable to keep up at school with their playmates.

These two remedial classes, with no more than 12 in them, provide a sheltered climate where understanding and know-how help children overcome their frustrations, fears and anti-social behavior.

●

Tests by the psychology department at the University of Victoria show many of the youngsters who come here have particular trouble remembering what they hear, says principal Herman Leung.

So teachers Miss A. E. Curts and Mrs. N. E. Petersen use a battery of intriguing aids to keep interest high, counter the problem of easily distracted youngsters.

Education today is on the threshold of a vast new look. Parents and grandparents, could they return to the classroom, would see new teaching concepts, aimed right at the root of the old order. These techniques are turning learning into a more efficient and at the same time more interesting experience. In this series, education reporter Don Vipond sketches some of the experiments under way.

There is a listening device called the language master where a pupil can hear a story told through earphones which at the same time shut out distractions.

There are plenty of puzzles which keep a youngster's hands and eyes busy working together. There are magnetic blackboards where fingering letters which stick on the board lends the added reality of touch to learning.

And there are work carrels, private cubbyholes where a student can go to work alone when he wants.

In the gymnasium there is a new trampoline. These youngsters have to work harder than most to develop muscle co-ordination.

And there are teachers with patience and understanding and time for each pupil.

Uvic's psychology department has worked closely with the school in developing the program and testing pupils. Case histories show the remedial classes are doing a job in preparing troubled youngsters for regular classes.

Eight-year-old Jim for example was very immature, made no attempt to complete or carry through any work when he entered the class in October of last year.

After six months he had moved up to standard in 12 of 15 neuro-psychological tests and his reading ability had jumped ahead by two years.

●

Fred was 10 when he entered the class at the same time. He was extremely talkative and hyperactive, disturbing everyone and very demanding of the teacher's time.

Tests six months later showed he had improved in all areas where he was deficient and his oral reading had improved 25 months. He is now back in regular classes.

The observation room between the remedial classes is for psychology staff and teachers taking in-service training. The one-way windows and microphones "bugging" the classrooms allow them to study this experiment without distracting the youngsters they are trying to help.

"What we are trying to do is get these pupils straightened away early," said Mr. Leung. "If they get through to high school without help, then there can be real problems."

SHOPPING GUIDE

Attractive Greetings Give Others Health

By Penny Saver

Each day that passes brings us just a bit closer to that hectic Christmas mailing deadline. I am so determined to be prepared this year that I have already begun to look for my list and write out the few cards that are left over from last year's stock. Every year I resolve to write a few cards every night to save that last-minute 'writer's cramp' and every year sees me working far into the night trying to make the last mail that will get my cards to their destinations before Christmas.

Choosing Christmas cards that are both original and appropriate is a perennial problem for everyone, but I have solved at least part of my problem with the Canadian greeting cards I have found. The cards come with four pictures. One, of three Eskimos ice fishing under the Christmas star, sells at 10 cents a card. The other three, showing a northern scene with polar bear and seal, three silhouetted children holding Christmas symbols in white on a red background, and a snow scene of St. Anthony, sell at 15 cents each. These cards are perfect for overseas friends and relatives. All the designs are by Canadian artists and the proceeds go toward health services for the Eskimos in Newfoundland and Labrador.

The perfect gifts to send with these cards are cloth items, (lovely and light to save mailing cost), printed with Indian designs. I was charmed by a sturdy tote-bag at $2.95 made of beige hop-sacking with the design printed in black and red. It is lined with plastic and, like all these items, is completely washable. There were also place mats at four for $5.95, table cloths at $7.80, coasters at four for $1.39 and bookmarks at 59 cents each. The basic colors varied from the paler greens to bright reds.

Looking toward the New Year, I found several calendars on the Indian motif. The same medical mission that produces the Christmas cards mentioned above, puts out a five cent pocket calendar with a charming picture of an Eskimo on the back. Another Canadian group sells wall calendars showing paintings of Indian children. The prices for these are 89 cents and $1. Mailing envelopes are available for these.

If you would like to know where I found these items, please phone me at 382-3131.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Lowman

There is probably nobody quite so unhappy or so unrewarding as the person who holds grudges. Half the time the things which upset such people were just due to a thoughtless moment or a tactless remark on someone's part.

There is something downright ludicrous about a grown man or woman sulking, and anyway, the person at whom they glare or the one they ignore, goes scot free, while they poison themselves.

I cannot imagine a more boring way to spend energy yet many sensitive souls waste great amounts of it in this way. Negative, bitter thoughts and attitudes not only injure happiness but are terrifically damaging to health.

Our emotions affect our glands, our heart beat, our respiration and every organ in our body. Happiness is the magic medicine that lifts fatigue and promotes a sense of vibrant well being.

Then many folks who do not hold grudges have myriad things which "get their goat," or in other words, things which irritate them. Frequent secret irritation, even though it is controlled, is also damaging. Practically everyone has a few "goats", but the fewer the better!

Perhaps your goat is an irritating mannerism of someone you know. It may be the habit someone has of slapping you on the back. It may be someone thumping the arm of the chair or tapping with a foot, a blaring radio or a barking dog, manner of speech or a tone of voice, or any number of other things which cause you to tense up.

DEAR ABBY . . .

It's Time for Dad To Shape Up

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband spends every holiday — Easter, Thanksgiving, Christmas, etc. with his exwife and their three children. When I grumble because I and my two children by a former marriage are left alone, he says, "Why don't you get YOUR children's father to come and spend the holidays with you and HIS children the way I do?"

I want to be fair, Abby, but I also want to be treated fairly. Where do you think my husband's loyalties should lie?

ACHING HEART

DEAR ACHING: How old are his children? And how old are yours? A man who marries a woman with young children (under 10) should assume the children. And if he has young children of his own (and if their mother hasn't already replaced him with another "father") he should see them occasionally too.

But a man who is seriously trying to make a second marriage work should concentrate on being a father to the children of his present wife. Running back and forth (usually out of a sense of guilt) confuses the kiddies and embitters the wife.

DEAR ABBY: I feel that a 17-year-old girl should be allowed to shut her bedroom door if she chooses.

My mother and I live alone in a four-room house and I am not allowed to shut my bedroom door unless I am studying. My mother claims that I am "shutting her out."

Abby, I love my mother very much, and I am not "shutting her out." I just want a little privacy.

My mother is very fair about almost everything except this. Please print your answer. If you say I am wrong, I'll promise to do as you say with no more arguments. When I try to discuss it with my mother we both end up stretching our vocal cords. Thank you.

SEVENTEEN

DEAR SEVENTEEN: I think you should be allowed to shut your bedroom door whenever you wish.

VoW Opposes Border Agreement

HALIFAX (CP) — The Voice of Women national executive opposes an agreement between Canada and the U.S. to abolish the border between the two in case of attack on either country.

A statement released Sunday by the VoW national president, Mrs. J. M. C. Duckworth of Halifax, says the agreement was signed Aug. 8 and made public in the October issues of the Canadian Emergency Measures Organization publication.

The agreement provides for the waiving of customs, immigration and other border-crossing requirements following an attack on either country.

The agreement also established that "measures relating to economic stabilization, priorities, allocations and other emergency economic controls" be completely correlated following an attack, the statement says.

The VoW also calls for parliamentary debate on the question of Canada's role in NORAD.

A Beauty Hint

Margaret Merril advises that it is quite simple for every woman to promote an English countryside complexion. Her hint to gain a peaches-and-cream loveliness is to damp a cloth with cold water from your refrigerator and press it over your face for a few minutes once or twice a day. Then, to hold the good of the complexion - beautifying cold water, smooth on tropical oil of Olay. This oil is rather scarce and expensive, but your drug store should be able to get you a supply.

A New You

by Emily Wilkens

No matter how adept you are at applying makeup, the major factor in looking lovely is having a well-cared-for skin.

Your complexion, after all, can be compared to the clean canvas an artist chooses when he starts a new painting. To help you prepare for your creative makeup efforts, here are some useful guides for skin care:

BORROW MEANS SORROW: No matter how successful a product or technique seems to be for your best friend, don't conclude it's best for you, too. Each complexion is different — what's good for the goose may not be great for the gander. Experiment until you find YOUR best solution.

LEMONS FOR LOVELINESS: Improve your complexion and your general health by trying a beauty secret of many famous lovelies — drink the juice of half a lemon in a cup of hot water every morning before breakfast.

THE TAKE-OFF: Spend as much time taking off makeup properly as you do putting it on. Lovely complexions will soon wilt and fade away if left with layer upon layer of yesterday's "face." Your skin must be thoroughly cleansed. Make it a nightly ritual to remove EVERY trace of makeup. Follow with your particular program for complexion care.

BABY OIL BONANZA: For removing makeup on unblemished skin, simply apply baby oil. Remove with a soft old towel saved for this purpose.

CLEVER CLEANSER: A compatible cleanser for skin that tends to break out easily is "M.O." (a combination of milk of magnesia and mineral oil available in drug stores). It will remove makeup effectively as a prelude to your washing-up program.

MAGIC MASK: An often helpful remedy for troubled skin is to apply a mask of milk of magnesia, avoiding eye area. Let dry; rinse off with cool water. It's an equally good treatment for backs and shoulders, too. You may dab on individual spots to help dry them up.

STIRRING STORY: For best results, always be sure to stir creams you use. A wooden tongue depressor makes a handy mixer, and you'll probably have enough left on the stick to apply to throat, under the eyes and on the lips — three most vital areas. If you need more, scoop out with the depressor (never your fingernails). Always blot all cream off after 10 minutes.

THE SUN AND YOU: Many girls believe that strong doses of sun are most beneficial medicine for troubled skin. A little, yes . . . but excessive over-exposure can be dangerously damaging and ages the skin prematurely.

BLEMISHES VANISH. If blemishes tend to show through makeup, cover spots with baby powder before applying base. This babying technique helps dry up spots and temporarily conceals them. Take along some extra baby powder (in a small pill container) for during-the-day touch-ups. Never, but never, use moisturizer or cream makeup on blemished skin.

THE NEW YOU who babies her skin will have baby-soft skin to be proud of.

Victorian Wed In Edmonton

A wedding of wide interest to Victorians took place in Edmonton when Dawn Michelle Kreller became the bride of John Michael Magee in All Saints Cathedral.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. J. Elmer Kreller, 1010 McClure Street, Victoria, and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Magee of Edmonton.

The bride wore a gown and coat en train of white prelude satin trimmed with crystal beads and pearls at the neckline. Crystals and pearls starred the headpiece which held her chapel veil of silk illusion net. She carried a white Bible, topped with a single white chrysanthemum with white satin streamers starred with bow knots of stephanotis.

Gladioli and white chrysanthemums decorated the church when Dean Sheppard officiated at the candlelight service. White satin bows were on the pews. Hugh Bancroft was the organist.

Mrs. F. Ross Rockett was matron of honor for her sister and Miss Marlene Kreller, another sister, and Miss Gail Mercer were bridesmaids. They wore matching gowns of gold prelude satin with illusion net headpieces en tone holding silk illusion veils which misted to floor-length. They carried purses en tone, with single bronze chrysanthemums edged with gold streamers.

William Magee acted as best man for his brother and Marvin Wagner and Barry Weaver ushered the guests.

At the reception following in the Glendale Golf and Country Club a three-tier weding cake centred the head table. Maurice Mercer proposed the toast to the bride and Clarence Velch, the groom's uncle, acted as master of ceremonies. Rev. Harry Shell gave the blessing.

For travelling on honeymoon to Banff, Alta., the bride chose a rust woolen dress with beige and rust checked yoke with matching coat. Yellow roses en corsage completed her costume.

The newlyweds will make their home in Edmonton.

Epileptics Without Seizures

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

In the last 55 years I have become more and more interested in the people I keep seeing who are epileptics without seizures. Friends in the medical profession have chided me for making this diagnosis, saying that to them, epilepsy means seizures; but actually, let us think for a minute. Since out of every 10 or more persons who show typically epileptic electrophalograms (the records of the tiny electric currents that are constantly running through our brains) only one has ever had a seizure, the other nine or more must be "seizureless epileptics."

Alvarez

I have been told this by Dr. and Mrs. Frederic Gibbs of Chicago—world experts in this field—and I was told it also by the great neurologist, Professor Stanley Cobb of Harvard. An epileptic electroencephalogram often has in it what are called spikes and seizure discharges.

What symptoms do the seizurless epileptics complain of? Hundreds of them have come to me, complaining of many nervous troubles, due apparently to an overly irritable nervous system. Sometimes I get a hunch when the patient's legs keep twitching, or when his or her knee-jerks are exaggerated.

* * *

Often then I ask and learn the patient has a frankly epileptic relative, or a relative who has a violent temper, then I ask and learn that my patient has a quick and not easily controlled temper that makes it hard for her or him to get along with people. Often she has strange fears, frightening nightmares; or, more rarely, brief spells of mental confusion — especially after taking two or three alcoholic drinks.

Commonly, in the case of a man, I make the diagnosis of seizureless epilepsy with one question, such as, "Would you ever dare spank your child?" A hundred times that answer has been, "Oh, no, I might not be able to stop; also I never argue with anyone in a bar because I might lose my temper and seriously injure the fellow." One such irritable man came to me much worried because he had beaten his dog.

* * *

I became interested in these people around 1911, when in came a man complaining of sever pains in his head.

Because he looked like a very ill epileptic, I asked him if he had any epileptic relatives, and he said, "Why, yes, my brother has it bad." I then gave my patient the bromide drug we doctors were then using for epilepsy, and he immediately got much relief.

Later, in came the leading lawyer of his state who had frequent splitting headaches, plus an irascibility that caused him at times to blow his top in a way that made him feel ashamed. After much persuasion, and only after we had become friends, I got him to tell me of his family.

His mother's father was a violent man who looked, his doctor said, like a very ill epileptic. My patient's mother's sister was a violent devil who so hated her own ill humor that she committed suicide. Of my patient's many brothers, some were alcoholics, some were violent, and one was an epileptic with seizures.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Marjorie Gilbertson, age 14, of Duluth, Minnesota, for her question:

How can cats always land on their feet?

Rumor claims that cats have nine lives. This is true when there are nine cats. Each one is allotted one life and no more. Other cat rumors are exaggerated or downright false, too. It is an exaggeration to say that a falling cat always manages to land on his paddy paws and thoughtless to assume that the fall is always harmless.

Cats outnumber our other pets by far, but in spite of this the average person has a rather limited understanding of these furry friends. There are two possible reasons for this. First, every cat is a definite individualist. No two of them are alike in character, behavior or preferences. And every cat will defend his right to be himself with mule-headed vehemence. This characteristic extends to his choice of menus and mealtimes, when and where to take his catnaps and his arbitrary selection of friends and enemies—among cats and dogs, people and other animals. Never presume to generalize about all cats from your experience with merely one.

Nevertheless, all cats share certain built-in traits to some degree. This leads to the second reason for the general misunderstanding. Almost all cats are a lot smarter than most people think—and they know it. What's more, it happens to suit their independent plans to keep us in ignorance of their full intellectual capacities. They could without a doubt perform simple chores such as fetching small articles on order. But they stubbornly refuse to do so. Perhaps this is part of their smartness.

After all, if Miss Puss allowed herself to be trained for a dutiful life of chores her independent freedom would be lost. Many psychologists who test cats in terms of human intelligence appear blind to this catty characteristic. Little do they supsect that most cats are calculated drop-outs and perfectly satisfied to flunk these people-slanted IQ tests.

Injured by Falls

All this general talk is far afield from today's question. But people are so strongly divided for and against cats that some general background seems called for before we tackle an individual item. It is untrue that a cat has nine lives. But it is true that a falling cat generally lands on his feet. Generally, but not always. The trick is possible because a cat has a lithesome built-in agility plus a superb sense of balance. His agility depends on his strong, supple muscles and an unusual feature in his slender, catty skeleton.

His muscles are trigger fast—so fast that he can calculate, spring into position and aim an accurate blow faster than a snake can strike. His slender bones have special joints separated with supple bands of cartilage. He can twist and turn like a willow twig. His supple muscles and pliable skeleton are triggered by split second nerves and together these features spring into fast, co-ordinated action when the cat feels himself falling. When he falls backwards from merely the height of a chair he usually has time to twist around to land on his paddy paws.

Needless to say, no civilized human being is going to drop a cat to test how successfully he lands on his feet. The experiment may fail and in any case the cat may become understandably annoyed—and no sensible person wants to cope with the wrath of his fierce fangs and talons. Besides, many cats are seriously injured by falls, and many falls are fatal. Remember, the bones of their pliable skeletons are very, very slender. Severe jolts tend to break them, often causing internal injuries. High falls are frequently fatal, even when cats land on their feet. And when we recall that this furry individualist is our best ally in the devastating rodent war, no person in his right mind wants to harm him.

* * *

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Lisa Shive, age 10, of Hodgenville, Kentucky, for her question:

Do wasps serve any useful purpose?

Wasps carry nasty stings and tend to jab us when they can. It is natural to dislike them, avoid them, and wish they were elsewhere. We might even wish them all removed from the earth. But this drastic measure would upset the balance of nature. Spiders and a few birds who eat wasps might suffer malnutrition. Some wasps spread fertilizing pollen among the flowers, and without them, certain plants might fail to prepare seeds for the next generation. Many wasps destroy grubs that otherwise would become crop-destroying insects.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Jim: "Why don't you take over today and talk about Alvin Landy? I started to say 'your old friend,' but he was my old friend, too."

Oswald: "Alvin was every bridge player's friend. In 1947, when he came from Cleveland to run the American Contract Bridge League, he took over the thankless job of getting the league going again after the troubles of World War II. The 200,000 members today reflect how well Alvin did his job. We will all miss him, and tournaments just aren't going to be the same. Alvin was also a great player, although his duties kept him from playing in more than one event every two or three years. The Landy convention will be one monument to him but his real monument is the ACBL."

Jim: "The Landy convention was the first of several artificial conventions designed to make it easier and safer to compete against an opening one no-trump. The theory is that, since the no-trump is a good, balanced hand, there is little point trying to bid clubs against it unless you can afford to try an immediate club jump. Hence, when a player writes 'Landy' on his convention card, he says that if he bids two clubs against an opening no-trump he wants his partner to bid a major suit."

Oswald: "North wouldn't know which suit to bid or whether he should bid at all without the Landy convention. With that convention, he is able to bid two clubs and show both his suits at once. East's two no-trump is an effort to shut South out of the bidding, but South likes his hand and jumps right to four spades."

Jim: "South's four-spade bid is a trifle optimistic. The more conservative call of three spades probably would be better, but this four-spade bid works like a charm. Spades break, hearts break, the queen of spades is right and all South loses are two clubs and the ace of trumps."

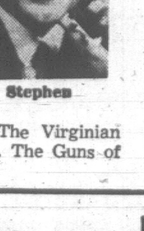
Andy Stephen Looks at TV

BITS 'N' PIECES: Remember The Monkees, the four young men who unabashedly imitated the Beatle's "Hard Day's Night" technique and adapted it to television with so much success a season ago?

Well, something has happened and they've slipped. The Monkees, according to the latest ratings chart, tied with "Hondo" for 66th place. It was only a matter of time anyway. The program now runs up against Gunsmoke on CBS-TV. It's proof that class shows.



Stephen

The new ratings proved, too, that to follow an established, much-viewed show, doesn't mean a built in audience and success. NBC's High Chapparal is in 46th place, following Bonanza which this time located itself in the 7th spot.

Some of the other listings showed The Virginian placed 14th and Gunsmoke in 23rd place. The Guns of Will Sonnett is 38th, Cimarron Strip is 45th and Cowboy In Africa in 65th spot, ahead of The Monkees.

Another surprise is that Dean Martin showed up in 13th place while his old partner Jerry Lewis failed to show up in the first 30 places. It hasn't been mentioned, yet, but Andy Griffith and Gomer Pyle lead the parade intermixed with the motion pictures.

The man who needles the celebrities with great alacrity, Don Rickles, is due for a Dean Martin showing on Nov. 30 . . . Some of the personalities due for a punctive session are Bob Hope, Danny Thomas, Pat Boone, Jackie Cooper and Ernest (McHale's Navy) Borgnine.

William Hanley's original drama, for which NBC paid $112,500, will be a two-hour presentation Jan. 26 . . . Dwayne Hickman, Dobie Gillis of a few seasons past, has been signed as one of three leads in a half-hour comedy set for CBS-TV next season, Missy's Man.

NBC's Sunday lineup will be brightened in the new year with the return of Wild Kingdom and Flipper.

HELP WANTED! ! !
TALENTED TYPE

Here's the problem: the builder of this solid, comfortable Vic. West home added lots of goodies INSIDE, such as hardwood floors in the living room, hall and 2 big bedrooms, extra large family kitchen, enclosed porches front and back, full basement with possible third bedroom and oil hot water heating system. But he ran clear out of ideas when he got streetside, and frankly, it's awful! If you have a dash of imagination and like to keep your neighbors happy, see this with me. All it requires (besides you) is $2,000 down and $100 per month. It's vacant, too — you can move in fast. Call Mrs. Fraser, 386-3231 or 477-1411.

Foot, Mouth Disease Wipes Out U.K. Herds

OSWESTRY, England (CP)—A fast-moving epidemic of foot-and-mouth disease is sweeping through rich farming country in this north-west area and more than 21,000 animals already have been slaughtered.

The desolate work of slaughter and mass burial, which may cost the government millions in compensation to farmers, involves cattle, pigs and sheep.

Infected animals and others in contact with them must be killed as a means of halting the disease, symptoms of which take the form of blisters affecting the feet and mouth. The disease causes death in some cases.

In one district of Cheshire, a single cow was found infected and three dairy herds had to be destroyed.

As the epidemic headed into the most densely stocked of Britain's dairy regions, about 1,000 men worked in a massive counter-action.

Foot and mouth is a virus disease which can be carried in the bone marrow of carcases and by humans from one animal to the next.

BLAME BIRDS

The current outbreak has spread with what some specialists call unprecedented speed. One theory is that migratory birds, especially starlings, may have figured in the spread.

Estimates of slaughter compensation owed to farmers has risen to about $2,250,000. There is no sign of any abatement in the epidemic. The agriculture ministry announced during the weekend that the disease was reported in 14 new locations bringing the total number of outbreaks to 75. The counties involved are Shropshire, Cheshire, Lancashire and Staffordshire.

An epidemic in 1960-61 cost the British government $8,100,000 in payments to farmers.

There are fears that the disease may soon mean higher prices for dairy products.

Bulldozers helped dig pits 12 feet deep for the carcases of slaughtered animals. In the meantime, farm buildings were being scrubbed out.

Bales of straw as well as implements came in for disinfecting on some farms.

Near Oswestry, close to the Welsh border, no sheep or cows were grazing and the normally lively pubs were deserted. Sometimes police guarded entrances to disease-hit farms.

East-west—1. Frank and Phyllis Christian 2. Doris Asserlind and Ed Harris; 3. Mabel Ness and Glenys Bowes; 4. Jane Mackie and Dorothy Housley; 5. N. R. Garland and J. M. Crooks.

Fulton, Hees to Gain In New Tory Line-Up

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—The Conservatives have made only one change in their shadow cabinet since Robert Stanfield was elected party leader Sept. 9.

That change, of course, is that Mr. Stanfield and not John Diefenbaker would become prime minister if the Conservatives won the next general election.

The Conservatives do not refer to a shadow cabinet as such but to chairmen of 21 caucus committees, which are assigned to scrutinize the work of various cabinet ministers and government departments.

Party informants say that some changes may be made after Mr. Stanfield finds a Commons seat—probably in Monday's Colchester-Hants byelection in Nova Scotia.

For one thing, greater recognition is likely to be given Davie Fulton and George Hees, defeated leadership candidates who threw their support to Mr. Stanfield. Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba, once he enters the Commons, would be given a key post.

No decision is likely to be made on whether Mr. Roblin will try for a Commons seat in a byelection or wait for a general election until after he resigns the premiership.

NO SAFE SEATS

Some Conservatives say there are no safe seats in rural Manitoba for Mr. Roblin and that holders of Winnipeg seats are not prepared to resign to make room for the premier.

Mr. Stanfield has been more interested in changing the methods of operation of caucus committees rather than in changing their chairmanships.

Mr. Fulton still is chairman of the Conservative committee on energy, mines and resources. Mr. Hees is chairman of the trade committee.

Marcel Lambert, Edmonton West, is still chairman of the defence committee, though Douglas Harkness, former defence minister, was one of the main backers of Mr. Stanfield from the outset and is no longer in the political purgatory in which Mr. Diefenbaker placed him after his resignation from the cabinet Feb. 3, 1963.

The Conservatives have leaped ahead of the Liberals in a national public opinion poll and as a result some of the MPs have taken a lot more lively interest in committee work.

As one MP said, there's nothing like the scent of a cabinet portfolio to spur work.

Two Provinces Granting Extra Holiday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Provincial civil servants in Saskatchewan and Alberta are the only provincial employees in Canada who can expect an extra holiday this year because Remembrance Day falls on a Saturday.

A cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press shows that only in those provinces will public employees get a holiday on the following Monday, sharing it with most federal employees and workers in industries under federal jurisdiction.

Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, Manitoba and British Columbia civil servants will work as usual Monday, Nov. 13. There was no report of a decision made in either New Brunswick or Newfoundland.

Chartered banks will be closed Nov. 13, under provisions of the Canada Labor Standards Code.

Unlike other statutory holidays, Remembrance Day must by law be observed on a fixed date. The pertinent act says it must be Nov. 11. Other holidays for which observance is established by law, such as Christmas, New Year's and Dominion days, can be observed on the nearest Monday. Dominion Day this year was also a Saturday, giving most Canadian workers a long weekend holiday.

Suspended Sentence For $27 Bar Theft

Joseph Manseau, 855 Douglas, was given a suspended sentence and placed on a $250 bond for one year after admitting to theft under $50.

Police said the accused had joined a woman at her table in a beer parlor and took $27 from her purse when she momentarily left the table.

It's inexpensive, and it makes the garden a safer, much pleasanter place to be after dark. Good garden lighting means you can pin a suit to the line after dark, instead of having a guest pin a suit on you.

WIDER TAX BASE NEEDED ON PENINSULA

They Face Fight to Keep Costs Down

By HUMPHRY DAVY

The decisive vote Saturday against amalgamation means the people of Sidney and North Saanich will have to tighten their belts to keep costs for services at a reasonable level.

This is the opinion of tax and planning experts who have made extensive studies over the past year on taxation problems arising from population growth and rural development.

The Stevenson-Kellogg report which recommended amalgamation showed that if residents wanted improved services and the most for their tax money, they should form a single municipality.

●

The Capital Region Planning Board has also said Sidney and North Saanich will have to widen their tax base if they want to offset increasing municipal costs.

However, the vote showed that residents want their districts to continue operating as they are — with a minimum of staff and services, and in the case of North Saanich, no commercialization.

But whether the two municipalities can continue this way and hold the line on taxes, is seriously questioned by experts.

For Sidney, they say, there is no immediate problem and it may be able to coast along for a number of years before municipal costs rise sharply. It will mean, of course, that administrative and public works costs will have to be kept to a minimum.

The town with a population of 2,500 and a land area of 1,244 acres is compact and easily serviced. It has a sewerage system and for the moment its water supply is adequate.

But the picture is different for North Saanich with a land area of 8,163 acres and a population of 2,943.

One of its first needs will be equipment for public works, such as a truck, a mower and a machine for digging—all of which will cost $30,000 or more.

The maintenance and operation of equipment over such a large area will be more costly than in Sidney.

The anti-union group felt, however, that if large lot subdivisions are maintained and the population kept down, they can cope with the problem of increased taxes.

They admit land values will rise, but feel the mill rate could be kept low.

The weakness in this argument, according to experts, is that a new level of government — the regional — board will be taking over more and more of the functions of the municipality — sewage, water, sanitation, garbage collection, hospitals.

And for these services, the board will assess residents on a property assessment basis.

●

For example, if the proposed hospital function is assessed on a three-mill basis, North Saanich would pay $26,000 and Sidney $18,000 or $8.70 per person in the former and $5.95 per person in the latter.

A more obvious comparison is that North Saanich has to find almost $25,000 every month for support of schools in the district. Sidney raises $16,200 a month.

This works out to $8.70 per person in North Saanich and $5.12 cents in Sidney.

As taxes are based on assessment, it is obvious that if North Saanich continues to feature large lots, it will be paying higher taxes for the benefit of its neighbors.

It may offset this by establishing a wider tax base -- such as developing a commercial area or promoting the development of marinas. But a move in this direction would be strongly opposed by some groups.

'Now We Can Plan for Future' Says Reeve as Merger Killed

REEVE CUMMING
. . . 'that's that'

Amalgamation of Sidney and North Saanich was killed Saturday when voters rejected the proposal 2-to-1.

The result means that Sidney (population 3,088) and North Saanich (population 2,943) will continue as separate incorporated areas.

North Saanich Reeve J. B. Cumming said both councils gave the voters all the facts "and now we have got their wishes, so our council can plan for the future".

●

Asked if he was disappointed, he replied: "No, I'm not surprised. The thing is settled as far as I am concerned."

Sidney Mayor Arthur Freeman said the voters made a wise choice.

"I am particularly pleased with the amount of voters that turned out in both communities," he said. "We will naturally accept it as the wish of the people at this time."

Sidney voted 566 to 206 against amalgamation; while North Saanich went 597 to 306 against.

BIG MILL TO HUM TONIGHT

VANCOUVER (CP) — Officials of Rayonier Canada (B.C.) Ltd., said Saturday the company's pulp mill at Port Alice, on northern Vancouver Island, is expected to resume operations tonight following its second four-day closure in two weeks.

A company spokesman said Friday's closure resulted from a combination of maintenance requirements, inventory back-up and shipping schedules.

'SELFISHNESS' DENIED BY DOBSON

Voters Shatter Mayor's Dream

DUNCAN — Mayor Jack Dobson said today Duncan's reasons for wanting to extend the city boundaries were not selfish.

"We just wanted a voice in the expansion and controlled development at Cowichan Bay," he said.

His comment followed the overwhelming defeat Saturday of a referendum to extend the city of Duncan to include Eagle Heights subdivision, Koksilah, unorganized territory to the south and part of Cowichan Bay.

Saturday's vote was 84.7 per cent against the plan with only 53 voting yes and 241 opposed.

In defeat, Mayor Dobson said he had been accused of being dishonest in stating his reasons for wishing an outlet to the sea at Cowichan Bay.

Unorganized district residents had accused city council of trying to annex part of Cowichan Bay in order to benefit from the assessment of a projected pulp mill in the area.

There is still no substance to the rumor of a pulp mill at Cowichan Bay.

Mayor Dobson said: "My idea in pressing for extension into the unorganized area was that we could see mistakes being made there which the city has found costly to correct after similar mistakes had been made in Duncan years ago.

BLENDING

"It was not be be a case of Duncan taking over the unorganized territory but a blending and consolidation of the two areas.

"Our only object was to plan for the future."

In reply to the suggestion the city should only have sought to extend to the Koksilah River, Mayor Dobson said: "We were acting more or less on the advice of the municipal affairs department.

"And the area chosen was suggested by our engineer as being as much as we could economically service with our existing facilities."

Mayor Dobson responded to criticism of the hiring of a firm of professional public relations sulting staff or City Hall staff had the time to devote to the work which council felt was requirode."

DIRECT CAUSE

He said extension will come eventually and congratulated the residents of the unorganized area for the interest taken in the plebiscite.

In stating he was not surprised by defeat of the plebiscite Mayor Dobson said he felt the increase in assessment was the chief direct cause.

A leading opponent of the plan, farmer John Hulbert said: "Most of the residents of Koksilah are happy the plebiscite was turned down so decisively.

"We were confident it would be defeated.

"Basically we are a large rural area and people felt that to come under city administration would be wrong.

"Their ideas of government are different from those of district municipalities—not that we're ready for municipal government yet either.

"District municipal government will come and we feel the whole of South Cowichan should be kept intact until that time arrives."

Early Start Planned On Teen Hall

NORTH COWICHAN — Local Teen Town expects to make a start before the end of the year on the building of a $30,000 hall.

First step was taken Sunday afternoon when Teen Town Mayor Danny Clements accepted the lease of an acre of land adjoining the Cowichan Exhibition grounds.

The land was bought for the teen-agers by the municipal council.

It was sold to council by Cowichan Agricultural Society for $3,500 although the market price was estimated at $6,000.

Coun. John Cannon told the Teen Town Council Sunday: "You can see that a great many people and organizations are willing to help you."

Coun. Cannon was the man who engineered the municipal purchase of the land.

He said the 10-year lease can be renewed every succeeding five years if both parties are agreeable.

FUND DRIVE

President Sandy Medler of Duncan Kinsmen Club stated they have a fund-raising project in mind for early 1968 which will give the Teen Town coffers a boost.

Adult adviser Jim Quaife said the split level type building will include a main hall, hobby and crafts room, lounge and kitchen facilities.

He said Teen Town hopes to be using the hall next July.

Mr. Quaife said a great deal of the work will be done by voluntary labor to keep the cost down.

He intimated he has given up all idea of running for Duncan city council in December.

"For the time being I'm going to devote all my spare time and energies toward helping Teen Town."

'RAGING INFERNO'

Fire Levels Guest House

DUNCAN—A guest house, empty but for the caretakers, was burned to the ground here late Sunday night.

The Rancho Del Rio on Riverbottom Road was a "raging inferno" when Duncan RCMP officers got to the scene about 11:30 p.m.

Caretaker Stanley Marlowe told them the fire started from the main living room fireplace and spread quickly through the old house.

OWNER AWAY

Mr. Marlowe and his wife escaped but were unable to save any furnishings.

Owner of the house, Gordon Williams, was away from home.

Riverbottom Road is outside the nearest fire protection district. Neither Duncan or North Cowichan (South End, the departments were able to turn out and the B.C. Forest Service told police they had not equipment for fighting house fires.

Brezhnev Dominates Ceremonies

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

LENINGRAD (AP) — A Viet Cong speaker used Bolshevik Revolution anniversary ceremonies Sunday to liken his movement to this city's Second World War resistance to a 900-day Nazi siege.

Dan Tran Thi, member of the ruling presidium of South Vietnam's National Liberation Front, said his guerrillas have adopted Leningrad's wartime motto: "We shall die rather than retreat one step."

He repeated attacks he made in a Kremlin speech Saturday, on what he called "American imperialism" and said the Viet Cong "will win." The three top Soviet leaders came here to honor heroes of the revolution that occurred in this city 50 years ago next Tuesday.

They placed wreaths at the eternal flame to fallen revolutionaries. Leonid I. Brezhnev and Nikolai V. Podgorny exchanged smiles while Alexei N. Kosygin, reported ill, stood stolidly by.

DOMINATES AFFAIR

Brezhnev, Communist party general secretary, dominated day-long proceedings here as he has dominated 50th anniversary celebrations since they began in Moscow Thursday.

Podgorny, the Soviet president, presented a new Order of the October Revolution to Leningrad after a Brezhnev speech in a new concert hall.

Premier Kosygin was silent through most of the meeting.

This city was named Petrograd when Vladimir I. Lenin led the revolution Nov. 7, 1917. The name was changed to Leningrad in 1924, shortly after Lenin died.

Red banners flew over Mars Field. The field, an old cavalry drill ground, is the burial place of 180 revolutionary heroes—men who overthrew Czar Nicholas II in February, 1917, and others who pushed aside a faltering provisional government to establish Bolshevik power nine months later.

Nuclear-powered submarines and missile-carrying warships lay in the Neva River which runs past the Peter and Paul fortress where Lenin's older brother was executed for plotting.

CRITICIZES CHINA

In his speech to 4,000 persons, Brezhnev spoke of the revolution and the city. He also accused China of hindering Communist aid efforts to Vietnam.

Thi thanked the Soviet Union for its aid to Vietnam. He did not, as he had Saturday in Moscow, also thank China.

The Moscow meeting of world Communist leaders ended Saturday with unanimous condemnation of the United States but continuing disagreement on other issues.

One after another the speakers, including President Tito of Yugoslavia and Nicolae Ceausescu of Romania, attacked U.S. intervention in Vietnam.

The Soviet government announced the award of the Order of Lenin, its highest decoration, to President Ho Chi Minh of North Vietnam.

But Brezhnev got little support in his call for a world Communist conference.

Only Wladyslaw Gomulka of Poland and Todor Zhivkov of Bulgaria joined him in urging such a conference. Such a meeting presumably would read China's Mao Tse-tung and his followers out of the Communist movement.

Court Reserves Judgment In Dope Case

Judgment was reserved in central court Friday on a marijuana possession charge.

Remanded to Nov. 14 were Vernon Green, 20, of Kenora, Ont., and Alfred Hughes, 19, of Lake Cowichan.

Police found two bags containing marijuana in a shed at the rear of 1519 Amelia where the accused were working.

Court was told the men had keys to the shed and were in control of it. They also were in control, possession and knew of the marijuana there, the crown alleged.

Robert Price, for the defence, claimed the accused did not show symptoms of marijuana, although one was seen to be smoking what he claimed was tobacco. No marijuana cigarette ends were found.

Mr. Price said they denied knowledge of the marijuana and this story was never shaken.

RESCUE BOAT ties up to fuselage of Cathay Pacific jetliner after it crashed into Hong Kong harbor on takeoff Sunday and broke apart. Of the 127 persons aboard only one woman passenger was killed and all others were rescued without serious injuries. (See story Page 9.) (AP Wirephoto.)

DERAILED IN LONDON SUBURB

Follows Fatal Airliner Mishap

LONDON (CP)—The death toll in the derailment of an express train rose to 53 today, raising to 90 the number of persons killed in travel disasters in the London area within 24 hours.

All 37 passengers and crew were killed Saturday night when a Spanish Iberia Airlines Caravelle jet crashed into a 900-foot hill nine minutes before it was scheduled to land at Heathrow Airport on a flight from Malaga.

Sunday night rescuers pulled 33 bodies from the crumpled wreck of a Hastings-London diesel express train which hurtled off the tracks near Hither Green, a London suburb. Twenty of the 139 injured died later in hospitals.

It was the worst British rail accident since 1957, when 90 persons were killed and 175 injured in a two-train collision two miles from the scene of the latest tragedy.

RETURNING FROM VISITS

Most passengers on the crowded 12-car train were young people returning to London Sunday night after a weekend with their families on the south coast.

Four cars on the train toppled onto their sides, coming to a stop in a sprawl of splintered wood and tangled metal. The remaining seven cars in the train leaned crazily off the rails.

Under the glare of arc lights, doctors and nurses crawled beneath tons of creaking, buckled metal as firemen cut paths to trapped victims with acetylene torches.

Medical teams injected pain-killing drugs into the injured and did on-the-spot emergency operations, amputating limbs to free some of those trapped. One man died as surgeons amputated his leg.

The train's crash-time speed was estimated by passengers to be between 70 and 80 miles an hour. (See story page 2.)

Rivals Battle In Aden

(See also Page 3)

ADEN (CP)—Rival Arab nationalists battled again today in an area where they used mortars, grenades and machine-guns Sunday in a struggle for the future of this soon-to-be-independent British protectorate.

The fighting was in the Sheikh Otham district, where a ceasefire was announced Sunday night after 2,000 Arabs screaming for an end to the fighting marched through the battle-torn streets.

At least 15 more Arabs were killed in the civil war Sunday and 42 injured.

The National Liberation Front and the Front for the Liberation of Occupied South Yemen are vying for control of Aden as total withdrawal of British forces is expected in mid-November.

Arab police estimate casualties since Friday at 70 dead and 250 wounded.

CHANCES DIM

With the decision of the general command of the NLF here to order its Cairo representatives not to continue unity negotiations with FLOSY, only a remote chance remained for an early ceasefire.

Call for Restraint 'A Canadian Original'

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Sharp said today his plan to mobilize public support for restraints on costs and prices will be a distinctive Canadian approach to the problem, and not a copy of any other country's guidelines.

Mr. Sharp told a meeting of representatives of 40 major municipalities that "everyone's job" depends on keeping Canada competitive in international markets, and that holding back costs and prices is everyone's responsibility.

"Some people have called it a guidelines policy, but guidelines means anything you want it to mean," Mr. Sharp said. "I do not intend to imitate any other country. Our problem is different. We need a Canadian approach, related to Canadian facts and Canadian circumstances."

TO CONTROL GROWTH

Mr. Sharp said the objective of current federal policy is not to dampen down the economy, but to maintain its growth at a steady rate. The economy was busting at its seams last year, and the government is trying to get it back to a rate of growth that can be maintained without excessive cost and price pressures.

Mr. Sharp said the government has "made considerable progress" in curtailing its expenditures, and he hoped soon to make an announcement of the result.

MUST MEET CONDITIONS

'Arabs Willing To Recognize Israeli State'

KING HUSSEIN

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—King Hussein of Jordan Sunday made the strongest Arab bid for peace with Israel so far, telling a television audience that Arab leaders are willing to recognize Israel's rights to exist and possibly to let Israeli ships through the Suez Canal if Israel meets "the right conditions."

Replying to questions on the CBS program Face the Nation, Hussein said a pre-requisite to direct peace talks is the withdrawal of Israeli troops from all Arab soil it occupied in the June war.

Israel has said it never will let go of Old Jerusalem, which Jordan seized in the 1948 Palestine war, and Israeli Prime Minister Levi Eshkol indicated a week ago that Israel intends to keep other Arab areas it captured in June.

RENEW HOSTILITIES

Artillery and tank fire punctuated the pre-dawn stillness on the Israeli-Jordanian ceasefire line Sunday, marking the third border clash in three weeks between the two countries.

An Israeli army spokesman said Jordanian guns opened up to cover Arab saboteurs who blew up a building at a farm settlement and were trying to cross the River Jordan to safety.

Jordan charged that Israel opened the two-hour artillery duel by firing on homes in the Ghor area of northern Jordan. No fatalities were reported.

Hussein meets State Secretary Dean Rusk in Washington today and with President Johnson Wednesday.

Arab countries have refused to recognize Israel's right to exist and have maintained that the 1948 state of war never has ended.

But Hussein said the Arab leaders at the Khartoum summit conference in September agreed to offer "to recognize the right of all to live in peace and security" in the Middle East.

Asked if Egyptian President Nasser would allow Israeli ships to use the Suez Canal and the Strait of Tiran, Hussein replied: "I think if the right conditions were met, yes."

WIRE BRIEFS

Would Return

LONDON (Reuters) — About 140 British doctors who emigrated to Canada and the United States would like to return to Britain, Health Minister Kenneth Robinson said today.

He told the House of Commons this figure was given by a health ministry team which went to North America to encourage British doctors to return.

Bridge Collapses

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao (AP)—A half-completed suspension bridge collapsed and fell into St. Anna Bay today and officials said reports indicated nine persons were killed. Ship traffic into Willemstad harbor, one of the Caribbean's busiest ports, was blocked.

31 Inches of Snow

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Snowsqualls sliced into upstate New York's snow belts for the third consecutive day today, blanketing areas east and south of Lakes Erie and Ontario with up to 31 inches of snow.

'SETTLE VIETNAM FIRST AND REST WILL FOLLOW'

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters)—U Thant has called again for a solution to the Vietnam conflict to open the door for other agreements, including a Middle East settlement.

Assessing the world's situation as he entered his seventh year as United Nations secretary-general, he told reporters Saturday he considers the Vietnam problem "mainly responsible for the deterioration of the international situation".

He added:

"If the Vietnam problem can be solved, I am confident that there will be a very significant improvement in the international climate, which can lead to and generate—or facilitate—a solution of other major problems."

ANOTHER NEW TARGET

Bombers Hit Hanoi Depot

SAIGON (CP)—Another target came off the Pentagon's out-of-bounds list today as United States Air Force planes bombed North Vietnam's biggest military storage area—a little more than half a mile from the international airport serving Hanoi—a U.S. military spokesman announced.

The target was at Gia Thuong, a half mile from Gia Lam Airport, where international traffic, including planes of the three-nation International Control Commission, land.

American bombs hit buildings and anti-aircraft sites in the area, three miles northeast of the centre of Hanoi.

The Gia Lam air base, across the Red River from the heart of Hanoi, is the only MiG airfield U.S. planes have not yet attacked. It is on the Pentagon's restricted list. Among the others are the Haiphong docks and rail terminal and the power plant in Lao Cai, on the border of China.

BRIEF SKIRMISH

American F-105 Thunderchief pilots reported MiG-17 and MiG-21 interceptors in the area, and one F-105 had a brief clash with one of the MiGs, but the U.S. command said neither plane was hit.

The spokesman said Gia Thuong is considered one of the largest military storage areas in North Vietnam, with 72 storage buildings, 11 support buildings and eight administration buildings in the compound.

In another major strike Sunday, air force Thunderchiefs again raided the Puc Yen MiG base northwest of Hanoi and reported damaging at least two MiG-17s on the ground.

In the South, Viet Cong guerrillas invaded five Montagnard villages in the central highlands early today and kidnapped 245 of the mountain tribes people, a U.S. spokesman reported.

Government troops also battled Viet Cong troops near Loc Ninh Sunday.

Initial field reports said 20 South Vietnamese were killed, 38 were wounded or missing, and three American advisers were wounded.

The Viet Cong captured Loc Ninh a week ago Sunday and held it for three days. But Maj.-Gen. John Hay, commander of the U.S. Division, said the Viet Cong lost 918 dead by body count and he was certain the number killed was twice that.

3 Ridings Vote Today

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Voters today cast ballots in three federal constituencies across Canada in by-elections to fill Commons seats vacated earlier this year.

A somewhat apathetic campaign has been conducted in the Alberta riding of Jasper-Edison, disappearing under redistribution in the next general election, while cries of bribery have gone up in Nova Scotia's Colchester-Hants constituency.

In Newfoundland's Bonavista-Twillingate riding the Progressive Conservatives have led an all-out campaign to take the traditionally Liberal seat for the first time since the province joined Confederation in 1949.

Newly-elected Progressive Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield, former Nova Scotia premier, after campaigning for only two days in Colchester-Hants, is seeking a federal seat for the first time.

FLEE TO RWANDA

Congo Claims Rebels Defeated

KINSHASA, The Congo (AP)—The Congolese government says it has defeated all the mercenaries that had been harassing it—the group which had held Bukavu since Aug. 8 and another band which invaded from Portuguese Angola last week.

The government said Sunday that the rebel forces at Bukavu had fled across Kivu Lake into neighboring Rwanda and the invaders were fleeing back to Angola after a Congolese victory in Katanga province.

In Geneva, the International Red Cross Committee said about 130 white mercenaries, 900 rebel Katangan soldiers and about 100 women and children fled to Rwanda and plans were being made to evacuate them.

In Brussels, the Belgian foreign ministry charged that after mercenaries arrived in the city of Kisenge in Katanga, Congolese Army troops arrested and machine-gunned five Europeans, including a Belgian Roman Catholic priest and a nun. It said the priest was among three persons killed and the nun was wounded.

Since July, about 20 European civilians have been reported killed by the Congolese army or police.

Foreign Minister Justin Bomboko said the situation was quiet in Katanga, where the invaders from Angola had split into two columns, one heading for Kasaji and the other for Kisenge.

LaMARSH BATTLE SHAPES UP

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Conservative members of the Commons broadcasting committee met today to map strategy in the wake of charges of mismanagement made against the CBC by Secretary of State Judy LaMarsh.

Spokesmen for the Tories and the NDP said both opposition parties were in agreement that the battle should take precedence over second reading of the new broadcasting bill which was scheduled to continue later today.

Miss LaMarsh and CBC president Alphonse Ouimet meanwhile were cooling off their spat, with no further public exchange of accusations.

NEW MOON PROBE PLANNED

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A multi-purpose "pinball" satellite parked itself in a stationary orbit high above Brazil today as a successful herald to one of America's busiest space weeks.

The new ATS III for (Applications Technology Satellite) rocketed into orbit from Cape Kennedy Sunday night to test systems that might eventually provide man with greater benefits from space. Included are new experiments in communications, navigation and weather prediction.

After a few days of precise manoeuvring, the satellite is to take up permanent station above the mouth of the Amazon River in Brazil.

ATS III is one of four U.S. space shots scheduled this week. Also on tap are:

1. Surveyor VI, set to blast off from the Cape at 2:22 a.m. EST Tuesday on a planned 65-hour flight to the moon. The spacecraft is intended to land in a potential astronaut landing site near the centre of the moon's surface to snap photographs and analyze the lunar soil.

2. ESSA VI, another in a series of operational weather-study satellites, to be launched Wednesday from Vandenberg Air Force Base, near Santa Barbara, Calif.

3. A mammoth Saturn V rocket, similar to the one which one day will propel astronauts to the moon, to undergo its first test launching Thursday from the Cape. The rocket, largest, most powerful ever built, is to boost an unmanned Apollo moonship 11,400 miles into space.

FIRST A NUMBNESS, THEN TRAGIC NEWS

By TED GASKELL

Everything was going just right for the 32-year-old branch manager.

He was assured of a move to head office and everybody predicted he'd be general manager while he was still a comparatively young man.

And that would mean no scrimping for his children's education; no worries about mortgages. He could settle down to a good, full life.

But that all changed within days.

First he felt a numbness in his hands which rubbing didn't eliminate. It persisted and he went to his doctor. A few days later, after a number of tests, he was given the news.

"You have multiple sclerosis."

The disease—little is known about the cause and so far there is no cure—is the most terrifying and most tragic of all.

It gives hardly any warning before striking and it strikes most often at an age — between 20 and 40 — when a man or woman has the greatest family responsibility.

It is indeed, as president of the Victoria and Vancouver Island Multiple Sclerosis Society W. H. Phillips, says "a disease of the family. It hurts every member."

The local branch looks after 200 patients with its $23,700 budget of which $12,300 will come from the United Red Feather-Red Cross Appeal funds.

Some goes for administration but the greater part by far goes to provide wheelchairs and other equipment for the patients.

Some money goes for drugs and a good deal for physiotherapy.

The society has its own daily clinic in the Saanich Health Centre where Mrs. Pat Spriggs works with up to 25 patients a week.

About two thirds of the victims deteriorate rapidly and are soon in hospital beds.

But for the rest, the condition worsens gradually and sometimes there are remissions. But the condition returns.

So far there is no cure.

That's why the society works so hard to make things as easy and life as pleasant as possible for the patients.

Almost every month there is a social night with entertainment planned.

Highlights of the social year are the Christmas party usually attended by 300 or 400 patients and family, and the garden party in the summer.

An important part of the society's work is providing transportation to the therapy sessions.

For this the society has the Cosmopolitan Bus, which has on its standard frame a special body that enables it to carry six wheel chair cases.

Yarrows Ltd. provided the bus and the society pays the running costs and the driver.

"Without the bus, the society couldn't function," Mr. Phillips said.

M' Uncle Zeke wuz scared till he heard th' Russian space bomb ain't accurate. Now he's terrified.

Esquimalt Row Local Matter

The attorney - general's department is not interested in getting involved in the Esquimalt police job evaluation study controversy.

A high ranking official said today no official request for an investigation into the study and its subsequent release to the press had been received.

"If and when it is we shall not be too interested," he said. "This department does not want to get involved in what is obviously a local matter."

The spokesman said a copy of the report was received shortly after its completion by retired RCMP chief superintendent C. B. Macdonell and was carefully studied at the time.

'LOCAL MATTER'

"We couldn't see anything to get too excited about at that time and we still can't," he said. "These sort of things tend to generate a great deal of excitement locally at election time, but it is a local matter and we have no intention of becoming involved."

The call for a provincial investigation came over the weekend from reeveship candidate George Argyle who said he was going to request the attorney-general to take another look at the Macdonell report and conduct a full investigation.

'COURAGEOUS'

Other developments over the weekend saw the man who prepared the report describe Reeve Ray Bryant's call for a job evaluation study as "quite a courageous thing to do."

Mr. Macdonell, now a travelling magistrate in Alberta, said it was always his understanding that the report would be confidential and would not be for public release.

Mr. Macdonell was selected for the job on the recommendation of the attorney-general's department after the Esquimalt police commission, headed by Reeve Bryant, made a request for a suitable man to do a comprehensive job evaluation.

Reeve Bryant had been in office six months when as reeve and chairman of the police commission he called for the full study of the police department and recommendations for its future development.

The report was released to the press last week by an anonymous sender. It was forwarded to the Times through the regular mails.

Go-Slow Order Given Police On Juveniles

Bonner Awaiting Outcome Of Struggle with Ottawa

British Columbia police forces have been instructed to "go slow" in pressing charges against juveniles over traffic and other offences involving provincial and municipal regulations.

This was confirmed by Attorney-General Robert Bonner in a weekend interview.

The policy instruction to police is part of the province's reaction to a Supreme Court of Canada ruling that all charges against juveniles — even if they involve only provincial or municipal regulations — must be treated as crimes and prosecuted under the federal Juvenile Delinquents Act.

REVIEW SOUGHT

Mr. Bonner told The Times his department has ordered its legal representative in Ottawa to try to obtain a rare review by the Supreme Court of its own judgment and has launched a campaign to have the federal act changed.

In the meantime, police have been requested to mark time in prosecuting minor offences pending the outcome of the department's efforts.

"We've instructed our Ottawa counsel to explore the possibility of the Supreme Court reviewing its decision," Mr. Bonner said.

"Meanwhile, we have acquainted the police forces of the province with what we regard as the unfortunate state of the national law.

"We have directed a "go slow" policy in prosecuting juveniles on minor or technical provincial and municipal regulations — for example riding a bicycle on a sidewalk or for failing to license it."

Mr. Bonner added that technical discussions for revision of the juvenile delinquents law already have been opened with B.C. pressing for changes which would protect youngsters from being judged as criminals in such cases and would abolish permanent criminal records for juvenile offences.

"It is a monstrous thing to conceive that violating a municipal bylaw leaves a national record of a crime on a youngster whereas the same conviction for an adult leaves only some vague reference in local records," he said.

... toured continent

Funeral Held For Former Elocutionist

Funeral services were held here today for Mrs. Florence Bell Mitchell who was once a prominent elocutionist.

Her concerts took her throughout the Eastern United States and Canada. She appeared often at Massey Hall in Toronto.

Mrs. Mitchell moved to the Victoria area with her husband, James Pearly Mitchell, in 1926. They engaged in fruit farming at Saanichton until Mr. Mitchell's death in 1943.

MISSED SHIP

Mrs. Mitchell's grandfather sailed with the English explorer Sir John Franklin but missed his ship on the last famous trip when the expedition perished. One of her brothers, Franklin J. McLeay was a noted English actor.

The deceased was born in 1873 in Watford, Ont. She married in 1908 and lived with her husband in the Medicine Hat area for many years. Their only child died there at age three.

Mrs. Mitchell is survived by nieces in Ontario and New Brunswick and grand nieces and grand nephews at Forest and Ottawa, Ont. A Victoria relative is Mrs. Edward Callan.

Rev. R. J. D. Morris officiated at ceremonies at McCall Brothers Chapel. Burial was at Royal Oak.

Easterner Admits Robbing Bank With Empty Gun

A 22-year-old unemployed man pleaded guilty in magistrate's court today to a $1,655 armed robbery.

Carl Raymond, 22, from London, Ont., was charged with holding up the Bank of Montreal at Fort and Richmond Oct. 13.

He had earlier pleaded not guilty and elected trial by judge and jury. Defence counsel George Jones requested permission to withdraw the previous election.

Raymond elected trial before the magistrate and changed his plea to guilty.

Det. Richard Ward told the court a man entered the bank about 10:20 a.m. on the morning of the 13th. He was wearing a trench coat and a ski toque.

The man went to a teller, pointed the end of a sawed-off gun from his coat, and told him to fill a paper bag with money.

When the teller hesitated, the robber said "Hurry up and nobody will get hurt."

Det. Ward said the teller filled the bag, including 50 $5 bills of "scrip money," money for which the serial numbers have been recorded.

When police arrived, they were told the man had fled to the vicinity of Ida and Coronation Streets.

Det. Ward said when a thorough search of apartments at 2211 Ida St. revealed nothing, the apartment caretaker, Albert Thody, searched the crawlspace under the building.

He reported a man hiding there.

After being called by two detectives, the man said "OK, OK, I'm coming out."

He first passed out the trench coat, toque, the bag with the money, and the shot-gun. He then came out himself. Police identified him as Raymond.

Det. Ward said Raymond and his wife came to B.C. from Ontario where they were in debt. The detective said they found a little work in Vancouver and came here hoping for more.

The detective said when no work was found, Raymond purchased the gun and clothing to use in the bank robbery.

EMPTY GUN

Det. Ward said Raymond purchased shells for the gun, but emptied the powder from them, and at the time of the robbery the gun was empty.

Raymond's teen-age wife was originally charged in connection with the robbery, but after technical legal difficulties, the charge against both Raymond and his wife were quashed.

New charges were laid against Raymond, but not against his wife.

Magistrate Ostler remanded Raymond to Nov. 14 for pre-sentence report.

Six-Month Term For Mainlander On 41 Charges

Andrew Toderian, 34, of North Surrey, was sentenced today to six months on 41 charges of obtaining goods and cash by false pretenses.

Toderian had earlier pleaded guilty to all the charges. He told the court "a few more charges will be coming in."

The offences all involved the passing of worthless cheques in Victoria, Surrey, Burnaby, New Westminster, Vancouver and West Vancouver over the past six months.

The accused told the court he was trying to play the horses to pay the money back.

Toderian had no previous record. Magistrate Ostler commented "when you involved yourself in crime you certainly pulled out all the stops."

FINES TOTAL $525 AFTER POLICE CHASE

A high speed police chase in the James Bay area late Sunday night resulted in a man facing three charges in magistrate's court today.

Gary Milley, 26, of 939 Johnson, was fined a total of $525 after he pleaded guilty.

Police reported they chased a car Milley was driving south on Government and east on Menzies at speeds over 70 miles per hour.

Magistrate Ostler fined the accused $350 for impaired driving, $150 for dangerous driving, and $25 for driving without a licence.

Auction Set For Former 'Y' Building

Victoria's old YMCA building at Blanshard and View goes on the auction block in 10 days.

The building, originally destined to become a hotel, will go to the highest bidder during a sheriff's sale to be held in the Sheriff's office at the Law Courts at 11 a.m. Wednesday, Nov. 15.

A spokesman for Commonwealth Trust Company, plaintiffs in the action forcing the sale, said he is confident the forced sale would not mean the disappearance of the old building.

SOLID BUILDING

"Structurally it is as solid as rock," he said. "We are reasonably sure that whoever purchases the building will carry forward the plan to convert it into a hotel or a place of entertainment."

Commonwealth held the original mortgage on the building for $60,000—an amount generally estimated to be half the building's actual worth.

Local developer Tage Borge Larsen presented the first plan for development to city council. He won approval from the planners for an over-all scheme which would have seen the old Y converted into a hotel.

Simpsons Proposes Warehouse

The Simpsons-Sears company is seeking zoning approval to build a warehouse in Saanich.

An application has been made to the municipality for a wholesale, retail warehousing distribution centre at Vanalman and Glanford.

The proposed site covers 10 acres opposite the Douglas golf and driving range.

A company spokesman in Victoria confirmed the application but declined details until it comes before council.

Because of the proximity of the proposed site to Patricia Bay Highway, approval from the highways department will be necessary as well as approval from Saanich.

MEETING WEDNESDAY

Assistant Saanich planner Keith Birch said the application will go before a meeting of the Advisory Planning Commission Wednesday and the planning department will make a recommendation at that time.

"If it is then cleared by them for or against, it will go to the next council meeting," he said.

The warehouse, if approved, would serve the $6 million Simpsons-Sears retail store approved by the city of Victoria at Hillside and Shelbourne.

$1,000 Bail On Drug Count

Bail was set at $1,000 in magistrate's court today for a youth charged with possession of marijuana.

Thomas Penston, 18, of 950 Empress Ave., was arrested Saturday.

He was remanded to Nov. 14 for election and plea.

B.C. Variety Wanted If Sasquatch Hunted

Conservative Minister Kenneth Kiernan says if he decides to order an expedition to find a Sasquatch it will be confined to B.C. territory.

"I'm not prepared to say at this time," he replied in a weekend interview when asked whether the government would underwrite or contribute to a Sasquatch hunt.

Mr. Kiernan said a lot depends on the film taken of a large, hairy but human-like creature by an amateur Sasquatch researcher in northern California while the minister was in Europe.

EVALUATION

"Because I wasn't able to see the film, I will have to await an evalutaion of it from my department," he said.

"I have considerable confidence in the objectivity of Frank Beebe of our museum and his report will have considerable influence in any decision I make in this matter."

Mr. Beebe and provincial anthropologist Don Abbott were among scientists who viewed the film in Vancouver two weeks ago. It was shown to them by Roger Patterson, Yakima, Wash., as a result of Mr. Kiernan's public appeals for any evidence that would shed light on the Sasquatch legends.

Earlier, Mr. Abbott was sent to the same area in northern California by Mr. Kiernan and brought back pictures and plaster casts of huge human-like footprints.

NOMINAL EXPENSE

"That trip was a relatively nominal expense to help us obtain a little more concrete information but beyond that our department's responsibility along the lines of classifying flora or fauna is limited to British Columbia's boundaries," said Mr. Kiernan.

"If we were to make any major expedition (to search for a Sasquatch), it would be related only to the confines of our province."

Fair Price Pitch Made to Motelmen

Don't price yourself out of the tourist market, Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan told 150 motel and resort operators meeting in Victoria today.

Mr. Kiernan said British Columbia must establish a reputation for fair-dealing and fair-pricing, as well as hospitality, to keep up with the increasingly competitive tourist industry.

"If we do that, I believe we have as good a travel package to sell as any country in the world—and, as yet, I don't think we've even scratched the surface of our tourist potential."

Just back from a tour of Europe, Mr. Kiernan was addressing a four-day convention of the B.C. Motels and Resorts Association at Holyrood House.

PRICE CONTROLS

He said B.C. can learn much from Austria in the way of tourist techniques, but didn't think Canadians would accept the price controls that are practised by the Austrian Chamber of Commerce — practically an arm of the government.

"But it is very much in our interests to exercise that control voluntarily," the minister said. "The world is shrinking in terms of travel-time, which means we shall have to compete with more and more countries."

By 1972, he said, supersonic jet planes will have reduced the flying time between Vienna and Halifax, N.S., from 15 to six hours. And each plane will be carrying up to 450 persons.

"It must be admitted that some airports in Europe are better equipped to handle a heavy influx of tourists than our own," Mr. Kiernan said.

Delegates to the convention and their wives were welcomed today by Sam Otto and his wife, Olga, from Vancouver. They made a ceremonial landing by helicopter Saturday in a parking lot at Douglas and Hillside.

Cyclist Suffers Cuts, Fractures; Condition Fair

A motorcyclist is in only fair condition in hospital today after an accident on Cook Street Saturday afternoon.

Michael Hogan, 51, of 1034 Burdett, was admitted with cuts and fractures to his left knee, wrist and shoulder.

He was in collision with a car driven north on Cook near Collinson Street by Arthur Kilvington of 620 Cook.

Ask The Times

Q. What happens to the mortgage on a home or property sold for tax arrears? A.V.E.

A. Under provincial law and the Municipal Act, people buying property for tax arrears get clear title after one year if the property is not reclaimed by the owners. The mortgage is wiped out. But after the sale, the mortgage holder is informed of the sale so that he may take some steps to protect his interest. In the case of a crown mortgage, the property is sold subject to that mortgage.

Q. Why are there always so many cars parked off the surfaced portion of the Trans-Canade Highway overlooking Portage Inlet near the Saanich-View Royal boundary? Is there an industry near there? A.B.H.

A. This area is a meeting place for car pools. Many workers driving into the city leave their cars there and join their car pools for the rest of the trip into town.

REMEDIAL CLASSES 'STRAIGHTEN THEM AWAY EARLY'

By DON VIPOND
Times Education Reporter

Education today is on the threshold of a vast new look. Parents and grandparents, could they return to the classroom, would see new teaching concepts, aimed right at the root of the old order. These techniques are turning learning into a more efficient and at the same time more interesting experience. In this series, education reporter Don Vipond sketches some of the experiments under way.

Step into a special room at Glen Lake Elementary School and you can watch teachers grappling with the seeds of trouble before they grow.

On either side of this unusual viewpoint and visible through one-way windows are bright and bustling classrooms.

No ordinary classrooms these though they might appear so at first glance. These are for youngsters with learning difficulties.

The pupils here are not retarded as most people think of the term. They are in fact of above-average intelligence. But for various emotional reasons, they have been unable to keep up at school with their playmates.

These two remedial classes, with no more than 12 in them, provide a sheltered climate where understanding and know-how help children overcome their frustrations, fears and anti-social behavior.

●

Tests by the psychology department at the University of Victoria show many of the youngsters who come here have particular trouble remembering what they hear, says principal Herman Leung.

So teachers Miss A. E. Curts and Mrs. N. E. Petersen use a battery of intriguing aids to keep interest high, counter the problem of easily distracted youngsters.

There is a listening device called the language master where a pupil can hear a story told through earphones which at the same time shut out distractions.

There are plenty of puzzles which keep a youngster's hands and eyes busy working together. There are magnetic blackboards where fingering letters which stick on the board lends the added reality of touch to learning.

And there are work carrels, private cubbyholes where a student can go to work alone when he wants.

In the gymnasium there is a new trampoline. These youngsters have to work harder than most to develop muscle co-ordination.

And there are teachers with patience and understanding and time for each pupil.

Uvic's psychology department has worked closely with the school in developing the program and testing pupils. Case histories show the remedial classes are doing a job in preparing troubled youngsters for regular classes.

Eight-year-old Jim for example was very immature, made no attempt to complete or carry through any work when he entered the class in October of last year.

After six months he had moved up to standard in 12 of 15 neuro-psychological tests and his reading ability had jumped ahead by two years.

●

Fred was 10 when he entered the class at the same time. He was extremely talkative and hyperactive, disturbing everyone and very demanding of the teacher's time.

Tests six months later showed he had improved in all areas where he was deficient and his oral reading had improved 25 months. He is now back in regular classes.

The observation room between the remedial classes is for psychology staff and teachers taking in-service training. The one-way windows and microphones "bugging" the classrooms allow them to study this experiment without distracting the youngsters they are trying to help.

"What we are trying to do is get these pupils straightened away early," said Mr. Leung. "If they get through to high school without help, then there can be real problems."

Foot, Mouth Disease Wipes Out U.K. Herds

OSWESTRY, England (CP)—A fast-moving epidemic of foot-and-mouth disease is sweeping through rich farming country in this north-west area and more than 21,000 animals already have been slaughtered.

The desolate work of slaughter and mass burial, which may cost the government millions in compensation to farmers, involves cattle, pigs and sheep.

Infected animals and others in contact with them must be killed as a means of halting the disease, symptoms of which take the form of blisters affecting the feet and mouth. The disease causes death in some cases.

In one district of Cheshire, a single cow was found infected and three dairy herds had to be destroyed.

As the epidemic headed into the most densely stocked of Britain's dairy regions, about 1,000 men worked in a massive counter-action.

Foot and mouth is a virus disease which can be carried in the bone marrow of carcases and by humans from one animal to the next.

BLAME BIRDS

The current outbreak has spread with what some specialists call unprecedented speed. One theory is that migratory birds, especially starlings, may have figured in the spread.

Estimates of slaughter compensation owed to farmers has risen to about $2,250,000. There is no sign of any abatement in the epidemic. The agriculture ministry announced during the weekend that the disease was reported in 14 new locations bringing the total number of outbreaks to 75. The counties involved are Shropshire, Cheshire, Lancashire and Staffordshire.

An epidemic in 1960-61 cost the British government $8,100,000 in payments to farmers.

There are fears that the disease may soon mean higher prices for dairy products.

Bulldozers helped dig pits 12 feet deep for the carcases of slaughtered animals. In the meantime, farm buildings were being scrubbed out.

Bales of straw as well as implements came in for disinfecting on some farms.

Near Oswestry, close to the Welsh border, no sheep or cows were grazing and the normally lively pubs were deserted. Sometimes police guarded entrances to disease-hit farms.

Fulton, Hees to Gain In New Tory Line-Up

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—The Conservatives have made only one change in their shadow cabinet since Robert Stanfield was elected party leader Sept. 9.

That change, of course, is that Mr. Stanfield and not John Diefenbaker would become prime minister if the Conservatives won the next general election.

The Conservatives do not refer to a shadow cabinet as such but to chairmen of 21 caucus committees, which are assigned to scrutinize the work of various cabinet ministers and government departments.

Party informants say that some changes may be made after Mr. Stanfield finds a Commons seat—probably in Monday's Colchester-Hants byelection in Nova Scotia.

For one thing, greater recognition is likely to be given Davie Fulton and George Hees, defeated leadership candidates who threw their support to Mr. Stanfield. Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba, once he enters the Commons, would be given a key post.

No decision is likely to be made on whether Mr. Roblin will try for a Commons seat in a byelection or wait for a general election until after he resigns the premiership.

NO SAFE SEATS

Some Conservatives say there are no safe seats in rural Manitoba for Mr. Roblin and that holders of Winnipeg seats are not prepared to resign to make room for the premier.

Mr. Stanfield has been more interested in changing the methods of operation of caucus committees rather than in changing their chairmanships.

Mr. Fulton still is chairman of the Conservative committee on energy, mines and resources. Mr. Hees is chairman of the trade committee.

Marcel Lambert, Edmonton West, is still chairman of the defence committee, though Douglas Harkness, former defence minister, was one of the main backers of Mr. Stanfield from the outset and is no longer in the political purgatory in which Mr. Diefenbaker placed him after his resignation from the cabinet Feb. 3, 1963.

The Conservatives have leaped ahead of the Liberals in a national public opinion poll and as a result some of the MPs have taken a lot more lively interest in committee work.

As one MP said, there's nothing like the scent of a cabinet portfolio to spur work.

Two Provinces Granting Extra Holiday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Provincial civil servants in Saskatchewan and Alberta are the only provincial employees in Canada who can expect an extra holiday this year because Remembrance Day falls on a Saturday.

A cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press shows that only in those provinces will public employees get a holiday on the following Monday, sharing it with most federal employees and workers in industries under federal jurisdiction.

Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, Manitoba and British Columbia civil servants will work as usual Monday, Nov. 13. There was no report of a decision made in either New Brunswick or Newfoundland.

Chartered banks will be closed Nov. 13, under provisions of the Canada Labor Standards Code.

Unlike other statutory holidays, Remembrance Day must by law be observed on a fixed date. The pertinent act says it must be Nov. 11. Other holidays for which observance is established by law, such as Christmas, New Year's and Dominion days, can be observed on the nearest Monday. Dominion Day this year was also a Saturday, giving most Canadian workers a long weekend holiday.

It's inexpensive, and it makes the garden a safer, much pleasanter place to be after dark. Good garden lighting means you can pin a suit to the line after dark. 'SETTLE VIETNAM FIRST AND REST WILL FOLLOW'

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters)—U Thant has called again for a solution to the Vietnam conflict to open the door for other agreements, including a Middle East settlement.

Assessing the world's situation as he entered his seventh year as United Nations secretary-general, he told reporters Saturday he considers the Vietnam problem "mainly responsible for the deterioration of the international situation".

He added:

"If the Vietnam problem can be solved, I am confident that there will be a very significant improvement in the international climate, which can lead to and generate—or facilitate—a solution of other major problems."

MUST MEET CONDITIONS

'Arabs Willing To Recognize Israeli State'

KING HUSSEIN

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—King Hussein of Jordan Sunday made the strongest Arab bid for peace with Israel so far, telling a television audience that Arab leaders are willing to recognize Israel's rights to exist and possibly to let Israeli ships through the Suez Canal if Israel meets "the right conditions."

Replying to questions on the CBS program Face the Nation, Hussein said a pre-requisite to direct peace talks is the withdrawal of Israeli troops from all Arab soil it occupied in the June war.

Israel has said it never will let go of Old Jerusalem, which Jordan seized in the 1948 Palestine war, and Israeli Prime Minister Levi Eshkol indicated a week ago that Israel intends to keep other Arab areas it captured in June.

RENEW HOSTILITIES

Artillery and tank fire punctuated the pre-dawn stillness on the Israeli-Jordanian ceasefire line Sunday, marking the third border clash in three weeks between the two countries.

An Israeli army spokesman said Jordanian guns opened up to cover Arab saboteurs who blew up a building at a farm settlement and were trying to cross the River Jordan to safety.

Jordan charged that Israel opened the two-hour artillery duel by firing on homes in the Ghor area of northern Jordan. No fatalities were reported.

Hussein meets State Secretary Dean Rusk in Washington today and with President Johnson Wednesday.

Arab countries have refused to recognize Israel's right to exist and have maintained that the 1948 state of war never has ended.

But Hussein said the Arab leaders at the Khartoum summit conference in September agreed to offer "to recognize the right of all to live in peace and security" in the Middle East.

Asked if Egyptian President Nasser would allow Israeli ships to use the Suez Canal and the Strait of Tiran, Hussein replied: "I think if the right conditions were met, yes."

3 Ridings Vote Today

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Voters today cast ballots in three federal constituencies across Canada in by-elections to fill Commons seats vacated earlier this year.

A somewhat apathetic campaign has been conducted in the Alberta riding of Jasper-Edison, disappearing under redistribution in the next general election, while cries of bribery have gone up in Nova Scotia's Colchester-Hants constituency.

In Newfoundland's Bonavista-Twillingate riding the Progressive Conservatives have led an all-out campaign to take the traditionally Liberal seat for the first time since the province joined Confederation in 1949.

Newly-elected Progressive Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield, former Nova Scotia premier, after campaigning for only two days in Colchester-Hants, is seeking a federal seat for the first time.

NEW MOON PROBE PLANNED

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A multi-purpose "pinball" satellite parked itself in a stationary orbit high above Brazil today as a successful herald to one of America's busiest space weeks.

The new ATS III for (Applications Technology Satellite) rocketed into orbit from Cape Kennedy Sunday night to test systems that might eventually provide man with greater benefits from space. Included are new experiments in communications, navigation and weather prediction.

After a few days of precise manoeuvring, the satellite is to take up permanent station above the mouth of the Amazon River in Brazil.

ATS III is one of four U.S. space shots scheduled this week. Also on tap are:

1. Surveyor VI, set to blast off from the Cape at 2:22 a.m. EST Tuesday on a planned 65-hour flight to the moon. The spacecraft is intended to land in a potential astronaut landing site near the centre of the moon's surface to snap photographs and analyze the lunar soil.

2. ESSA VI, another in a series of operational weather-study satellites, to be launched Wednesday from Vandenberg Air Force Base, near Santa Barbara, Calif.

3. A mammoth Saturn V rocket, similar to the one which one day will propel astronauts to the moon, to undergo its first test launching Thursday from the Cape. The rocket, largest, most powerful ever built, is to boost an unmanned Apollo moonship 11,400 miles into space.

ANOTHER NEW TARGET

Bombers Hit Hanoi Depot

SAIGON (CP)—Another target came off the Pentagon's out-of-bounds list today as United States Air Force planes bombed North Vietnam's biggest military storage area—a little more than half a mile from the international airport serving Hanoi—a U.S. military spokesman announced.

The target was at Gia Thuong, a half mile from Gia Lam Airport, where international traffic, including planes of the three-nation International Control Commission, land.

American bombs hit buildings and anti-aircraft sites in the area, three miles northeast of the centre of Hanoi.

The Gia Lam air base, across the Red River from the heart of Hanoi, is the only MiG airfield U.S. planes have not yet attacked. It is on the Pentagon's restricted list. Among the others are the Haiphong docks and rail terminal and the power plant in Lao Cai, on the border of China.

BRIEF SKIRMISH

American F-105 Thunderchief pilots reported MiG-17 and MiG-21 interceptors in the area, and one F-105 had a brief clash with one of the MiGs, but the U.S. command said neither plane was hit.

The spokesman said Gia Thuong is considered one of the largest military storage areas in North Vietnam, with 72 storage buildings, 11 support buildings and eight administration buildings in the compound.

In another major strike Sunday, air force Thunderchiefs again raided the Puc Yen MiG base northwest of Hanoi and reported damaging at least two MiG-17s on the ground.

In the South, Viet Cong guerrillas invaded five Montagnard villages in the central highlands early today and kidnapped 245 of the mountain tribes people, a U.S. spokesman reported.

Government troops also battled Viet Cong troops near Loc Ninh Sunday.

Initial field reports said 20 South Vietnamese were killed, 38 were wounded or missing, and three American advisers were wounded.

The Viet Cong captured Loc Ninh a week ago Sunday and held it for three days. But Maj.-Gen. John Hay, commander of the U.S. Division, said the Viet Cong lost 918 dead by body count and he was certain the number killed was twice that.

Judy Won't Tell

OTTAWA (CP)—State Secretary Judy LaMarsh, resisting fresh Opposition pressure, refused again today to reveal in the Commons the information on which she based charges last week of "rotten management" in some parts of the CBC.

She argued that if her sources of information were revealed, no state secretary would ever again obtain information on what is going on within the publicly-owned corporation.

Michael Starr, interim Opposition leader, began the exchange by asking whether Prime Minister Pearson had been given the evidence on which Miss LaMarsh's accusation was based.

●

Mr. Pearson was not in the Commons seat and Transport Minister Hellyer said he would take the question as notice, unless Miss LaMarsh wished to reply.

Miss LaMarsh said she intends to bring together those who had supplied the information and the new management of the CBC, still to be appointed.

Mr. Starr pressed for a reply on whether Mr. Pearson or any other cabinet minister had been given the evidence. Miss LaMarsh made no reply.

Cars Derailed Near London

LONDON (CP)—The death toll in the derailment of an express train rose to 53 today, raising to 90 th number of persons killed in travel disasters in t London area within 24 hours.

All 37 passengers and crew were killed Saturday night when a Spanish Iberia Airlines Caravelle jet crashed into a 900-foot hill nine minutes before it was scheduled to land at Heathrow Airport on a flight from Malaga.

Sunday night rescuers pulled 33 bodies from the crumpled wreck of a Hastings-London diesel express train which hurtled off the tracks near Hither Green, a London suburb. Twenty of the 139 injured died later in hospitals.

It was the worst British rail accident since 1957, when 90 persons were killed and 175 injured in a two-train collision two miles from the scene of the latest tragedy.

RETURNING FROM VISITS

Most passengers on the crowded 12-car train were young people returning to London Sunday night after a weekend with their families on the south coast.

Four cars on the train toppled onto their sides, coming to a stop in a sprawl of splintered wood and tangled metal. The remaining seven cars in the train leaned crazily off the rails.

Under the glare of arc lights, doctors and nurses crawled beneath tons of creaking, buckled metal as firemen cut paths to trapped victims with acetylene torches.

Medical teams injected pain-killing drugs into the injured and did on-the-spot emergency operations, amputating limbs to free some of those trapped. One man died as surgeons amputated his leg.

A railway official said the accident could have been caused by a broken rail, since a serious break was found near the scene of the derailment.

The train's crash-time speed was estimated by passengers to be between 70 and 80 miles an hour. (See story page 2.)

Call for Restraint 'A Canadian Original

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Sharp said today his plan to mobilize public support for restraints on costs and prices will be a distinctive Canadian approach to the problem, and not a copy of any other country's guidelines.

Mr. Sharp told a meeting of representatives of 40 major municipalities that "everyone's job" depends on keeping Canada competitive in international markets, and that holding back costs and prices is everyone's responsibility.

"Some people have called it guidelines policy, but guideline means anything you want it t mean," Mr. Sharp said. "I d not intend to imitate any othe country. Our problem is di ferent. We need a Canadia approach, related to Canadia facts and Canadian circum stances."

TO CONTROL GROWTH

Mr. Sharp said the objectiv of current federal policy is n to dampen down the economy but to maintain its growth at steady rate.

FIRST A NUMBNESS, THEN TRAGIC NEWS

By TED GASKELL

Everything was going just right for the 32-year-old branch manager.

He was assured of a move to head office and everybody predicted he'd be general manager while he was still a comparatively young man.

And that would mean no scrimping for his children's education; no worries about mortgages. He could settle down to a good, full life.

But that all changed within days.

First he felt a numbness in his hands which rubbing didn't eliminate. It persisted and he went to his doctor. A few days later, after a number of tests, he was given the news.

"You have multiple sclerosis."

The disease—little is known about the cause and so far there is no cure—is the most terrifying and most tragic of all.

It gives hardly any warning before striking and it strikes most often at an age — between 20 and 40 — when a man or woman has the greatest family responsibility.

It is indeed, as president of the Victoria and Vancouver Island Multiple Sclerosis Society W. H. Phillips, says "a disease of the family. It hurts every member."

The local branch looks after 200 patients with its $23,700 budget of which $12,300 will come from the United Red Feather-Red Cross Appeal funds.

Some goes for administration but the greater part by far goes to provide wheelchairs and other equipment for the patients.

Some money goes for drugs and a good deal for physiotherapy.

The society has its own daily clinic in the Saanich Health Centre where Mrs. Pat Spriggs works with up to 25 patients a week.

About two thirds of the victims deteriorate rapidly and are soon in hospital beds.

But for the rest, the condition worsens gradually and sometimes there are remissions. But the condition returns.

So far there is no cure.

That's why the society works so hard to make things as easy and life as pleasant as possible for the patients.

Almost every month there is a social night with entertainment planned.

Highlights of the social year are the Christmas party usually attended by 300 or 400 patients and family, and the garden party in the summer.

An important part of the society's work is providing transportation to the therapy sessions.

For this the society has the Cosmopolitan Bus, which has on its standard frame a special body that enables it to carry six wheel chair cases.

Yarrows Ltd. provided the bus and the society pays the running costs and the driver.

"Without the bus, the society couldn't function," Mr. Phillips said.

SURVIVOR SAYS:

'I Wish I Had Never Looked'

LONDON (UPI) — "Dont' look, dearie, keep your eyes shut."

Grandmother Ethel Cowland, 64, ignored her rescuers and peered at the floodlit wreckage of the train she had been riding Sunday night.

"God, I wish I had kept my eyes shut," she whispered. "There were bodies everywhere."

Mrs. Cowland was one of the lucky ones. She wasn't scratched in Britain's worst train crash in 10 years.

For her, the 7:43 from Hastings to London was ideal. It had permitted her to miss an earlier train and stay with her grandchildren for a fireworks display marking Guy Fawkes Day.

One stop from suburban Lewisham Mrs. Cowland's happy day turned into a night of horror.

MIDDLE OF TRAIN

"I was in a carriage in the middle of the train," she said. "suddenly, it started bumping. Then it went up and down furiously. Then it lurched and the lights went out."

People screamed in the darkness. They were tossed like rag dolls and baggage crashed down from overhead racks.

Mrs. Cowland could not remember her car leaving the track near the Hither Green Bridge.

"I ended up in a corner of the carriage," she said. "I had been thrown on top of a girl who seemed very badly hurt, It was black, very black, and I could smell smoke."

There also was panic in the wreckage and cries from the injured. In the darkness, people screamed and moaned. But one man, shouting louder than the others, gradually got everyone quiet.

"This man began organizing everyone," Mrs. Cowland said. "he was wonderful, very cool."

WET NIGHT

The man—no one thought of asking his name — began leading survivors out into the chilly, wet night even before the first rescuers arrived.

But Mrs. Cowland was too frightened to walk. So two men led her outside.

"Don't look, dearie," one of them said, "keep your eyes shut."

But Mrs. Cowland had to see what happened.

"Unfortunately, I did look," she said. "God, I wish I had kept my eyes shut."

Bodies were strewn on the twisted tracks and along the railway embankment. Mrs. Cowland saw at least 20 — "all of them seemed so still."

NEED CROWBARS

Voices called out. "we need crowbars. Please cut us out. Oxygen, does anyone have oxygen?"

Then Mrs. Cowland and the other living among the dead heard the first of 40 ambulances to arrive at the scene.

"The scene was like nothing on this earth," Mrs. Cowland said.

Levesque Surprised He Got Medal

MONTREAL (CP) — Rene Levesque says he has been awarded a centennial medal by the federal government "for service to Canada."

The Independent member of the Quebec legislature for the Montreal riding of Laurier who recently opted for a sovereign Quebec, registered surprise at being so honored.

Writing in his column in the Montreal weekly Dimanche-Matin, he said the medal was mailed to him last week by the secretary of state.

The federal government is awarding about 20,000 centennial medals, with one going to each member of Parliament and provincial legislatures.

Mr. Levesque, a former Quebec welfare minister, was elected to the legislature as a Liberal but resigned to become an independent after the Quebec Liberal Federation rejected his proposal to turn Quebec into a sovereign state.

Terrorist Hunted

PARIS (AP) — French police pressed a big manhunt Sunday in an effort to trap Clarke Tenne, escaped secret army terrorist who had fought against President de Gaulle's Algerian policies. The search, aided by roadblocks on main highways and French frontiers, came as de Gaulle prepared to make one of his periodic trips into the provinces.

Degrees Awarded Two Victorians

Two Victoria men were granted degrees at the University of Saskatchewan fall convocation at Saskatoon on Saturday.

Neil Kennedy Jones and Douglas Archie Shaw both received bachelor of arts degrees. They were among eight graduates from British Columbia. A total of 86 of the 625 degrees conferred went to residents outside Saskatchewan.

20 MINUTES

Sik-Yan Was A Star

HONG KONG (AP)—For 20 minutes Sunday, 44-year-old Lau Sik-Yan was a star.

Ten minutes after a 17-year-old Chinese girl had silently thrown herself to her death from a 100-foot high rooftop ledge and while police were picking up her body, Lau crawled on to the same ledge.

While hundreds below watched, he danced and skipped along the ledge. He taunted police and firemen who tried to coax him down. He swung from a rooftop radio aerial, balanced first on one leg and then on the other, grinning, smiling and laughing as his audience below alternately gasped, cheered, and applauded.

Nine firemen and police with a circular safety net manoeuvred to stay under him.

Then, with a final laugh, he jumped. The net men missed him by a few feet and Lau crumpled dead on the pavement.

Police do not know if the two deaths were related or whether Lau was simply carried away by the fact that he had a ready-made audience.

Reality Sails Home Ahead of the Pack

By SHIRLEY HEWETT

A light northerly combined with an ebb tide to send 16 RVic yachts off to a good start in Sunday's first race of the Sidney winter series.

As soon as they had cleared the line off Armstong Point, the boats popped their spinnakers for an easy run down to the first mark in Sidney Channel.

Halfway through the race, the wind dropped, stranding some boats around the Sidney wharf mark while others straggled back again toward the channel on the second round.

Jack Smith's eight-metre Reality, sailed by a three-man team, led the fleet around the 11-mile course to finish half an hour ahead of Walter Stenner's Encore.

Results on corrected time were: 1, Jack Smith's Reality; 2, Walter Stenner's Encore; 3, Fred Gardiner's Shih Yen; 4, Dave Anstey's Hussy; 5, Peter Coombs' Doxy II; 6, A. B. Sanderson's Filey Brig; 7, Peter Young's Hammerhead; 8, Gordon MacKay's Whistler; 9, John Malleson's Swallow and 10, Don Lawson's Tepah.

DNF boats were Crescendo Concubine, Galenaia, Marionette II, Semiramis and Skua.

The Saturday races in Cadboro Bay followed the previous pattern of gusting winds. The series races for Davidson's and El Toros have been rescheduled for next weekend.

Doug Harrison and Doug Deer placed first and second in the Fireball race.

RCNSA races in Esquimalt Harbor Sunday were started in 10 m.p.h. winds which dropped to six m.p.h. but remained steady.

Robin Spear was invincible in the El Toro division with four firsts and one second place for the five races.

Bill Whitby was next with one first and three seconds. Junior Pat Brownlee sailed a fine race, coming from behind to take second place in the second race.

Twelve boats competed.

Other RCNSA results were:

O.K. DINHIES (6 boats)

First race: 1, John Ganton; 2, Frank Cushing; 3, Doug Beer. Second race: 1, Dennis Parsons; 2, Frank Cushing; 3, Doug Beer.

FIREBALLS (6 boats)

First race: 1, Jack Stacey; 2, Lou Boulanger; 3, Roger Oldham. Second race: 1, Lou Boulanger; 2, Doug Hemphill; 3, Jack Stacey.

UNIQUA 420's

First race: 1, Paul Jensen; 2, John Sharpe; 3, Margaret Ashofrd. Second race: 1, Paul Jensen; 2, Mike Weir; 3, John Sharpe.

Husband Gets Eight Months For Assaults

Kenneth Harris, of 144 Queens, was sentenced Tuesday to eight months on four charges of assault.

Three involved his wife, and the fourth his wife's sister.

Harris pleaded not guilty to two of the charges, and guilty to the other two.

In a trial Tuesday, court found him guilty of assaulting his wife on Sept. 22 and again on Oct. 2. He was sentenced to one month on each charge.

Harris was sentenced to six months on each of the two charges to which he pleaded guilty. The sentences are to run concurrently, but to be added to the two months handed out for the first two counts.

Ford Back at Work In Catch-Up Drive

DETROIT (AP)—Cars rolled off Ford Motor Co. assembly lines today for the first time since Sept. 6, when the United Auto Workers went on strike against the No. 2 auto-maker and won record gains for 160,000 UAW members at Ford.

At Chrysler, the union's No. 2 target, bargainers worked against a Wednesday midnight deadline to come up with a contract covering the firm's 95,000 production workers and 8,000 salaried workers represented by the union.

Ford assembly lines were closed for 60 days, 46 of them during a national strike by the union and the last two weeks over local disputes. Ford workers won roughly $1 an hour more in wages and fringe benefits above the previous Big Three rate of $4.70 an hour.

All the company's key parts plants have settled local contracts. Four out of 16 assembly plants are still without new contracts. About 11,000 Ford workers in Canada were laid off because of a shortage of parts from the U.S. plants.

CONTINUE TALKS

Union and company bargainers continue negotiations at Chrysler Corp. today.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW president, and John D. Leary, Chrysler vice-president for administration, headed the two negotiating teams.

"I must report we have made some progress today," Reuther said Sunday. "But there is still very much work to be done if we are to avoid a strike by Nov. 8."

Chrysler is expected to follow generally the major economic pattern of the Ford contract.

The biggest problem in Chrysler negotiations is equal pay for Canadian and American workers, which the union says was the only major demand it did not win at Ford.

BIF SHARES SUSPENDED

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto Stock Exchange today suspended trading in shares of British International Finance (Canada) Ltd. and its subsidiary, York Lambton Corp., because it says it wants to know who actually controls the companies, and the state of their finances.

BIF, the company which, through York Lambton, holds controlling interest in the Bank of Western Canada, has been plagued by trouble since early this year. Sinclair Stevens, a Toronto financier who started BIF six years before, sold his interest to Marc Bienvenu of Montreal in a complicated transaction under which Mr. Bienvenu would lend $3,000,000 to York Lambton and, when this was redeemed, use the money to buy a controlling interest in BIF.

The TSE wants to know whether Mr. Bienvenu has yet exercised this option.

York Lambton was to get the money to repay Mr. Bienvenu from the sale of its Bank of Western Canada holdings. Although the company has started proceedings to wind up the bank, the process is delayed by court actions involving the voting rights of a block of shares to which Mr. Stevens claims ownership.

BIF elected its board of directors at its annual meeting in July, but the Ontario Supreme Court froze its actions after granting an injunction declaring the election invalid. The injunction was brought by three directors not re-elected at the meeting.

A hearing is pending on whether to make the injunction permanent.

M. R. Jennings, secretary of BIF, said Monday he would investigate the reasons for the stock exchange suspension. He said the company would make an announcement "in due course."

BIF closed at $1.05 Friday on the Toronto Stock Exchange and York Lambton at $1.10. They traded at around $5 earlier this year. The stocks are not listed on the Montreal Stock Exchange.

Bonner's Office Not Interested In Police Probe

Esquimalt Row Local Matter

The attorney - general's department is not interested in getting involved in the Esquimalt police job evaluation study controversy.

A high ranking official said today no official request for an investigation into the study and its subsequent release to the press had been received.

"If and when it is we shall not be too interested," he said. "This department does not want to get involved in what is obviously a local matter."

The spokesman said a copy of the report was received shortly after its completion by retired RCMP chief superintendent C. B. Macdonell and was carefully studied at the time.

'LOCAL MATTER'

"We couldn't see anything to get too excited about at that time and we still can't," he said. "These sort of things tend to generate a great deal of excitement locally at election time, but it is a local matter and we have no intention of becoming involved."

The call for a provincial investigation came over the weekend from reeveship candidate George Argyle who said he was going to request the attorney-general to take another look at the Macdonell report and conduct a full investigation.

'COURAGEOUS'

Other developments over the weekend saw the man who prepared the report describe Reeve Ray Bryant's call for a job evaluation study as "quite a courageous thing to do."

Mr. Macdonell, now a travelling magistrate in Alberta, said it was always his understanding that the report would be confidential and would not be for public release.

Mr. Macdonell was selected for the job on the recommendation of the attorney-general's department after the Esquimalt police commission, headed by Reeve Bryant, made a request for a suitable man to do a comprehensive job evaluation.

Reeve Bryant had been in office six months when as reeve and chairman of the police commission he called for the full study of the police department and recommendations for its future development.

The report was released to the press last week by an anonymous sender. It was forwarded to the Times through the regular mails.

Go-Slow Order Given Police On Juveniles

Bonner Awaiting Outcome Of Struggle with Ottawa

British Columbia police forces have been instructed to "go slow" in pressing charges against juveniles over traffic and other offences involving provincial and municipal regulations.

This was confirmed by Attorney-General Robert Bonner in a weekend interview.

The policy instruction to police is part of the province's reaction to a Supreme Court of Canada ruling that all charges against juveniles — even if they involve only provincial or municipal regulations — must be treated as crimes and prosecuted under the federal Juvenile Delinquents Act.

REVIEW SOUGHT

Mr. Bonner told The Times his department has ordered its legal representative in Ottawa to try to obtain a rare review by the Supreme Court of its own judgment and has launched a campaign to have the federal act changed.

In the meantime, police have been requested to mark time in prosecuting minor offences pending the outcome of the department's efforts.

"We've instructed our Ottawa counsel to explore the possibility of the Supreme Court reviewing its decision," Mr. Bonner said.

"Meanwhile, we have acquainted the police forces of the province with what we regard as the unfortunate state of the national law.

"We have directed a "go slow" policy in prosecuting juveniles on minor or technical provincial and municipal regulations — for example riding a bicycle on a sidewalk or for failing to license it."

Mr. Bonner added that technical discussions for revision of the juvenile delinquents law already have been opened with B.C. pressing for changes which would protect youngsters from being judged as criminals in such cases and would abolish permanent criminal records for juvenile offences.

"It is a monstrous thing to conceive that violating a municipal bylaw leaves a national record of a crime on a youngster whereas the same conviction for an adult leaves only some vague reference in local records," he said.

MRS. MITCHELL

Funeral Held For Former Elocutionist

Funeral services were held here today for Mrs. Florence Bell Mitchell who was once a prominent elocutionist.

Her concerts took her throughout the Eastern United States and Canada. She appeared often at Massey Hall in Toronto.

Mrs. Mitchell moved to the Victoria area with her husband, James Pearly Mitchell, in 1926. They engaged in fruit farming at Saanichton until Mr. Mitchell's death in 1943.

MISSED SHIP

Mrs. Mitchell's grandfather sailed with the English explorer Sir John Franklin but missed his ship on the last famous trip when the expedition perished. One of her brothers, Franklin J. McLeay was a noted English actor.

The deceased was born in 1873 in Watford, Ont. She married in 1908 and lived with her husband in the Medicine Hat area for many years. Their only child died there at age three.

Mrs. Mitchell is survived by nieces in Ontario and New Brunswick and grand nieces and grand nephews at Forest and Ottawa, Ont. A Victoria relative is Mrs. Edward Callan.

Rev. R. J. D. Morris officiated at ceremonies at McCall Brothers Chapel. Burial was at Royal Oak.

Easterner Admits Robbing Bank With Empty Gun

A 22-year-old unemployed man pleaded guilty in magistrate's court today to a $1,655 armed robbery.

Carl Raymond, 22, from London, Ont., was charged with holding up the Bank of Montreal at Fort and Richmond Oct. 13.

He had earlier pleaded not guilty and elected trial by judge and jury. Defence counsel George Jones requested permission to withdraw the previous election.

Raymond elected trial before the magistrate and changed his plea to guilty.

Det. Richard Ward told the court a man entered the bank about 10:20 a.m. on the morning of the 13th. He was wearing a trench coat and a ski toque.

The man went to a teller, pointed the end of a sawed-off gun from his coat, and told him to fill a paper bag with money.

When the teller hesitated, the robber said "Hurry up and nobody will get hurt."

Det. Ward said the teller filled the bag, including 50 $5 bills of "scrip money," money for which the serial numbers have been recorded.

When police arrived, they were told the man had fled to the vicinity of Ida and Coronation Streets.

Det. Ward said when a thorough search of apartments at 2211 Ida St. revealed nothing, the apartment caretaker, Albert Thody, searched the crawlspace under the building.

He reported a man hiding there.

After being called by two detectives, the man said "OK, OK, I'm coming out."

He first passed out the trench coat, toque, the bag with the money, and the shot-gun. He then came out himself. Police identified him as Raymond.

Det. Ward said Raymond and his wife came to B.C. from Ontario where they were in debt. The detective said they found a little work in Vancouver and came here hoping for more.

The detective said when no work was found, Raymond purchased the gun and clothing to use in the bank robbery.

EMPTY GUN

Det. Ward said Raymond purchased shells for the gun, but emptied the powder from them, and at the time of the robbery the gun was empty.

Raymond's teen-age wife was originally charged in connection with the robbery, but after technical legal difficulties, the charge against both Raymond and his wife were quashed.

New charges were laid against Raymond, but not against his wife.

Magistrate Ostler remanded Raymond to Nov. 14 for pre-sentence report.

Six-Month Term For Mainlander On 41 Charges

Andrew Toderian, 34, of North Surrey, was sentenced today to six months on 41 charges of obtaining goods and cash by false pretenses.

Toderian had earlier pleaded guilty to all the charges. He told the court "a few more charges will be coming in."

The offences all involved the passing of worthless cheques in Victoria, Surrey, Burnaby, New Westminster, Vancouver and West Vancouver over the past six months.

The accused told the court he was trying to play the horses to pay the money back.

Toderian had no previous record. Magistrate Ostler commented "when you involved yourself in crime you certainly pulled out all the stops."

FINES TOTAL $525 AFTER POLICE CHASE

A high speed police chase in the James Bay area late Sunday night resulted in a man facing three charges in magistrate's court today.

Gary Milley, 26, of 939 Johnson, was fined a total of $525 after he pleaded guilty.

Police reported they chased a car Milley was driving south on Government and east on Menzies at speeds over 70 miles per hour.

Magistrate Ostler fined the accused $350 for impaired driving, $150 for dangerous driving, and $25 for driving without a licence.

Auction Set For Former 'Y' Building

Victoria's old YMCA building at Blanshard and View goes on the auction block in 10 days.

The building, originally destined to become a hotel, will go to the highest bidder during a sheriff's sale to be held in the Sheriff's office at the Law Courts at 11 a.m. Wednesday, Nov. 15.

A spokesman for Commonwealth Trust Company, plaintiffs in the action forcing the sale, said he is confident the forced sale would not mean the disappearance of the old building.

SOLID BUILDING

"Structurally it is as solid as rock," he said. "We are reasonably sure that whoever purchases the building will carry forward the plan to convert it into a hotel or a place of entertainment."

Commonwealth held the original mortgage on the building for $60,000—an amount generally estimated to be half the building's actual worth.

Local developer Tage Borge Larsen presented the first plan for development to city council. He won approval from the planners for an over-all scheme which would have seen the old Y converted into a hotel.

Simpsons Proposes Warehouse

The Simpsons-Sears company is seeking zoning approval to build a warehouse in Saanich.

An application has been made to the municipality for a wholesale, retail warehousing distribution centre at Vanalman and Glanford.

The proposed site covers 10 acres opposite the Douglas golf and driving range.

A company spokesman in Victoria confirmed the application but declined details until it comes before council.

Because of the proximity of the proposed site to Patricia Bay Highway, approval from the highways department will be necessary as well as approval from Saanich.

MEETING WEDNESDAY

Assistant Saanich planner Keith Birch said the application will go before a meeting of the Advisory Planning Commission Wednesday and the planning department will make a recommendation at that time.

"If it is then cleared by them for or against, it will go to the next council meeting," he said.

The warehouse, if approved, would serve the $6 million Simpsons-Sears retail store approved by the city of Victoria at Hillside and Shelbourne.

$1,000 Bail On Drug Count

Bail was set at $1,000 in magistrate's court today for a youth charged with possession of marijuana.

Thomas Penston, 18, of 950 Empress Ave., was arrested Saturday.

He was remanded to Nov. 14 for election and plea.

B.C. Variety Wanted If Sasquatch Hunted

Conservative Minister Kenneth Kiernan says if he decides to order an expedition to find a Sasquatch it will be confined to B.C. territory.

"I'm not prepared to say at this time," he replied in a weekend interview when asked whether the government would underwrite or contribute to a Sasquatch hunt.

Mr. Kiernan said a lot depends on the film taken of a large, hairy but human-like creature by an amateur Sasquatch researcher in northern California while the minister was in Europe.

EVALUATION

"Because I wasn't able to see the film, I will have to await an evalutaion of it from my department," he said.

"I have considerable confidence in the objectivity of Frank Beebe of our museum and his report will have considerable influence in any decision I make in this matter."

Mr. Beebe and provincial anthropologist Don Abbott were among scientists who viewed the film in Vancouver two weeks ago. It was shown to them by Roger Patterson, Yakima, Wash., as a result of Mr. Kiernan's public appeals for any evidence that would shed light on the Sasquatch legends.

Earlier, Mr. Abbott was sent to the same area in northern California by Mr. Kiernan and brought back pictures and plaster casts of huge human-like footprints.

NOMINAL EXPENSE

"That trip was a relatively nominal expense to help us obtain a little more concrete information but beyond that our department's responsibility along the lines of classifying flora or fauna is limited to British Columbia's boundaries," said Mr. Kiernan.

"If we were to make any major expedition (to search for a Sasquatch), it would be related only to the confines of our province."

Fair Price Pitch Made to Motelmen

Don't price yourself out of the tourist market, Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan told 150 motel and resort operators meeting in Victoria today.

Mr. Kiernan said British Columbia must establish a reputation for fair-dealing and fair-pricing, as well as hospitality, to keep up with the increasingly competitive tourist industry.

"If we do that, I believe we have as good a travel package to sell as any country in the world—and, as yet, I don't think we've even scratched the surface of our tourist potential."

Just back from a tour of Europe, Mr. Kiernan was addressing a four-day convention of the B.C. Motels and Resorts Association at Holyrood House.

PRICE CONTROLS

He said B.C. can learn much from Austria in the way of tourist techniques, but didn't think Canadians would accept the price controls that are practised by the Austrian Chamber of Commerce — practically an arm of the government.

"But it is very much in our interests to exercise that control voluntarily," the minister said. "The world is shrinking in terms of travel-time, which means we shall have to compete with more and more countries."

By 1972, he said, supersonic jet planes will have reduced the flying time between Vienna and Halifax, N.S., from 15 to six hours. And each plane will be carrying up to 450 persons.

"It must be admitted that some airports in Europe are better equipped to handle a heavy influx of tourists than our own," Mr. Kiernan said.

Delegates to the convention and their wives were welcomed today by Sam Otto and his wife, Olga, from Vancouver. They made a ceremonial landing by helicopter Saturday in a parking lot at Douglas and Hillside.

Cyclist Suffers Cuts, Fractures; Condition Fair

A motorcyclist is in only fair condition in hospital today after an accident on Cook Street Saturday afternoon.

Michael Hogan, 51, of 1034 Burdett, was admitted with cuts and fractures to his left knee, wrist and shoulder.

He was in collision with a car driven north on Cook near Collinson Street by Arthur Kilvington of 620 Cook.

Ask The Times

Q. What happens to the mortgage on a home or property sold for tax arrears? A.V.E.

A. Under provincial law and the Municipal Act, people buying property for tax arrears get clear title after one year if the property is not reclaimed by the owners. The mortgage is wiped out. But after the sale, the mortgage holder is informed of the sale so that he may take some steps to protect his interest. In the case of a crown mortgage, the property is sold subject to that mortgage.

Q. Why are there always so many cars parked off the surfaced portion of the Trans-Canada Highway overlooking Portage Inlet near the Saanich-View Royal boundary? Is there an industry near there? A.B.H.

A. This area is a meeting place for car pools. Many workers driving into the city leave their cars there and join their car pools for the rest of the trip into town.

REMEDIAL CLASSES 'STRAIGHTEN THEM AWAY EARLY'

By DON VIPOND
Times Education Reporter

Education today is on the threshold of a vast new look. Parents and grandparents, could they return to the classroom, would see new teaching concepts, aimed right at the root of the old order. These techniques are turning learning into a more efficient and at the same time more interesting experience. In this series, education reporter Don Vipond sketches some of the experiments under way.

Step into a special room at Glen Lake Elementary School and you can watch teachers grappling with the seeds of trouble before they grow.

On either side of this unusual viewpoint and visible through one-way windows are bright and bustling classrooms.

No ordinary classrooms these though they might appear so at first glance. These are for youngsters with learning difficulties.

The pupils here are not retarded as most people think of the term. They are in fact of above-average intelligence. But for various emotional reasons, they have been unable to keep up at school with their playmates.

These two remedial classes, with no more than 12 in them, provide a sheltered climate where understanding and know-how help children overcome their frustrations, fears and anti-social behavior.

●

Tests by the psychology department at the University of Victoria show many of the youngsters who come here have particular trouble remembering what they hear, says principal Herman Leung.

So teachers Miss A. E. Curts and Mrs. N. E. Petersen use a battery of intriguing aids to keep interest high, counter the problem of easily distracted youngsters.

There is a listening device called the language master where a pupil can hear a story told through earphones which at the same time shut out distractions.

There are plenty of puzzles which keep a youngster's hands and eyes busy working together. There are magnetic blackboards where fingering letters which stick on the board lends the added reality of touch to learning.

And there are work carrels, private cubbyholes where a student can go to work alone when he wants.

In the gymnasium there is a new trampoline. These youngsters have to work harder than most to develop muscle co-ordination.

And there are teachers with patience and understanding and time for each pupil.

Uvic's psychology department has worked closely with the school in developing the program and testing pupils. Case histories show the remedial classes are doing a job in preparing troubled youngsters for regular classes.

Eight-year-old Jim for example was very immature, made no attempt to complete or carry through any work when he entered the class in October of last year.

After six months he had moved up to standard in 12 of 15 neuro-psychological tests and his reading ability had jumped ahead by two years.

●

Fred was 10 when he entered the class at the same time. He was extremely talkative and hyperactive, disturbing everyone and very demanding of the teacher's time.

Tests six months later showed he had improved in all areas where he was deficient and his oral reading had improved 25 months. He is now back in regular classes.

The observation room between the remedial classes is for psychology staff and teachers taking in-service training. The one-way windows and microphones "bugging" the classrooms allow them to study this experiment without distracting the youngsters they are trying to help.

"What we are trying to do is get these pupils straightened away early," said Mr. Leung. "If they get through to high school without help, then there can be real problems."

U.K. Train Crash Claims 53 Lives

Follows Fatal Airliner Mishap

LONDON (CP)—The death toll in the derailment of an expres train rose to 53 today, raising to 90 the number of persons killed in travel disasters in the London area within 24 hours.

All 37 passengers and crew were killed Saturday night when a Spanish Iberia Airlines Caravelle jet crashed into a 900-foot hill nine minutes before it was scheduled to land at Heathrow Airport on a flight from Malaga.

Sunday night rescuers pulled 33 bodies from the crumpled wreck of a Hasting-London diesel express train which hurtled off the tracks near Hither Green, a London suburb. Twenty of the 139 injured died later in hospitals.

It was the worst British rail accident since 1957, when 90 persons were killed and 175 injured in a two-train collision two miles from the scene of the latest tragedy.

RETURNING FROM VISITS

Most passengers on the crowded 12-car train were young people returning to London Sunday night after a weekend with their families on the south coast.

Four cars on the train toppled onto their sides, coming to a stop in a sprawl of splintered wood and tangled metal. The remaining seven cars in the train leaned crazily off the rails.

Under the glare of arc lights, doctors and nurses crawled beneath tons of creaking, buckled metal as firemen cut paths to trapped victims with acetylene torches.

Medical teams injected pain-killing drugs into the injured and did on-the-spot emergency operations, amputating limbs to free some of those trapped. One man died as surgeons amputated his leg.

The train's crash-time speed was estimated by passengers to be between 70 and 80 miles an hour. (See story page 2.)

Rivals Battle In Aden

(See also Page 3)

ADEN (CP)—Rival Arab nationalists battled again today in an area where they used mortars, grenades and machine-guns Sunday in a struggle for the future of this soon-to-be-independent British protectorate.

The fighting was in the Sheikh Otham district, where a ceasefire was announced Sunday night after 2,000 Arabs screaming for an end to the fighting marched through the battle-torn streets.

At least 15 more Arabs were killed in the civil war Sunday and 42 injured.

The National Liberation Front and the Front for the Liberation of Occupied South Yemen are vying for control of Aden as total withdrawal of British forces is expected in mid-November.

Arab police estimate casualties since Friday at 70 dead and 250 wounded.

CHANCES DIM

With the decision of the general command of the NLF here to order its Cairo representatives not to continue unity negotiations with FLOSY, only a remote chance remained for an early ceasefire.

FLEE TO RWANDA

Congo Claims Rebels Defeated

KINSHASA, The Congo (AP)—The Congolese government says it has defeated all the mercenaries that had been harassing it—the group which had held Bukavu since Aug. 8 and another band which invaded from Portuguese Angola last week.

The government said Sunday that the rebel forces at Bukavu had fled across Kivu Lake into neighboring Rwanda and the invaders were fleeing back to Angola after a Congolese victory in Katanga province.

In Geneva, the International Red Cross Committee said about 130 white mercenaries, 900 rebel Katangan soldiers and about 100 women and children fled to Rwanda and plans were being made to evacuate them.

In Brussels, the Belgian foreign ministry charged that after mercenaries arrived in the city of Kisenge in Katanga, Congolese Army troops arrested and machine-gunned five Europeans, including a Belgian Roman Catholic priest and a nun. It said the priest was among three persons killed and the nun was wounded.

Since July, about 20 European civilians have been reported killed by the Congolese army or police.

Foreign Minister Justin Bomboko said the situation was quiet in Katanga, where the invaders from Angola had split into two columns, one heading for Kasaji and the other for Kisenge.

LaMARSH BATTLE SHAPES UP

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Conservative members of the Commons broadcasting committee met today to map strategy in the wake of charges of mismanagement made against the CBC by Secretary of State Judy LaMarsh.

Spokesmen for the Tories and the NDP said both opposition parties were in agreement that the battle should take precedence over second reading of the new broadcasting bill which was scheduled to continue later today.

Miss LaMarsh and CBC president Alphonse Ouimet meanwhile were cooling off their spat, with no further public exchange of accusations.

MUST MEET CONDITIONS

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

KING HUSSEIN
. . . strong peace bid

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—King Hussein of Jordan Sunday made the strongest Arab bid for peace with Israel so far, telling a television audience that Arab leaders are willing to recognize Israel's rights to exist and possibly to let Israeli ships through the Suez Canal if Israel meets "the right conditions."

Replying to questions on the CBS program Face the Nation, Hussein said a pre-requisite to direct peace talks is the withdrawal of Israeli troops from all Arab soil it occupied in the June war.

Israel has said it never will let go of Old Jerusalem, which Jordan seized in the 1948 Palestine war, and Israeli Prime Minister Levi Eshkol indicated a week ago that Israel intends to keep other Arab areas it captured in June.

RENEW HOSTILITIES

Artillery and tank fire punctuated the pre-dawn stillness on the Israeli-Jordanian ceasefire line Sunday, marking the third border clash in three weeks between the two countries.

An Israeli army spokesman said Jordanian guns opened up to cover Arab saboteurs who blew up a building at a farm settlement and were trying to cross the River Jordan to safety.

Jordan charged that Israel opened the two-hour artillery duel by firing on homes in the Ghor area of northern Jordan. No fatalities were reported.

Hussein meets State Secretary Dean Rusk in Washington today and with President Johnson Wednesday.

Arab countries have refused to recognize Israel's right to exist and have maintained that the 1948 state of war never has ended.

But Hussein said the Arab leaders at the Khartoum summit conference in September agreed to offer "to recognize the right of all to live in peace and security" in the Middle East.

Asked if Egyptian President Nasser would allow Israeli ships to use the Suez Canal and the Strait of Tiran, Hussein replied: "I think if the right conditions were met, yes."

WIRE BRIEFS

He told the House of Commons this figure was given by a health ministry team which went to North America to encourage British doctors to return.

Bridge Collapses

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Snowsqualls sliced into upstate New York's snow belts for the third consecutive day today, blanketing areas east and south of Lakes Erie and Ontario with up to 31 inches of snow.

'SETTLE VIETNAM FIRST AND REST WILL FOLLOW'

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters)—U Thant has called again for a solution to the Vietnam conflict to open the door for other agreements, including a Middle East settlement.

Assessing the world's situation as he entered his seventh year as United Nations secretary-general, he told reporters Saturday he considers the Vietnam problem "mainly responsible for the deterioration of the international situation".

He added:

"If the Vietnam problem can be solved, I am confident that there will be a very significant improvement in the international climate, which can lead to and generate—or facilitate—a solution of other major problems."

ANOTHER NEW TARGET

Bombers Hit Hanoi Depot

SAIGON (CP)—Another target came off the Pentagon's out-of-bounds list today as United States Air Force planes bombed North Vietnam's biggest military storage area—a little more than half a mile from the international airport serving Hanoi—a U.S. military spokesman announced.

The target was at Gia Thuong, a half mile from Gia Lam Airport, where international traffic, including planes of the three-nation International Control Commission, land.

American bombs hit buildings and anti-aircraft sites in the area, three miles northeast of the centre of Hanoi.

The Gia Lam air base, across the Red River from the heart of Hanoi, is the only MiG airfield U.S. planes have not yet attacked. It is on the Pentagon's restricted list. Among the others are the Haiphong docks and rail terminal and the power plant in Lao Cai, on the border of China.

BRIEF SKIRMISH

American F-105 Thunderchief pilots reported MiG-17 and MiG-21 interceptors in the area, and one F-105 had a brief clash with one of the MiGs, but the U.S. command said neither plane was hit.

The spokesman said Gia Thuong is considered one of the largest military storage areas in North Vietnam, with 72 storage buildings, 11 support buildings and eight administration buildings in the compound.

In another major strike Sunday, air force Thunderchiefs again raided the Puc Yen MiG base northwest of Hanoi and reported damaging at least two MiG-17s on the ground.

In the South, Viet Cong guerrillas invaded five Montagnard villages in the central highlands early today and kidnapped 245 of the mountain tribes people, a U.S. spokesman reported.

Government troops also battled Viet Cong troops near Loc Ninh Sunday.

Initial field reports said 20 South Vietnamese were killed, 38 were wounded or missing, and three American advisers were wounded.

The Viet Cong captured Loc Ninh a week ago Sunday and held it for three days. But Maj.-Gen. John Hay, commander of the U.S. Division, said the Viet Cong lost 918 dead by body count and he was certain the number killed was twice that.

3 Ridings Vote Today

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Voters today cast ballots in three federal constituencies across Canada in by-elections to fill Commons seats vacated earlier this year.

A somewhat apathetic campaign has been conducted in the Alberta riding of Jasper-Edison, disappearing under redistribution in the next general election, while cries of bribery have gone up in Nova Scotia's Colchester-Hants constituency.

In Newfoundland's Bonavista-Twillingate riding the Progressive Conservatives have led an all-out campaign to take the traditionally Liberal seat for the first time since the province joined Confederation in 1949.

Newly-elected Progressive Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield, former Nova Scotia premier, after campaigning for only two days in Colchester-Hants, is seeking a federal seat for the first time.

NEW MOON PROBE PLANNED

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A multi-purpose "pinball" satellite parked itself in a stationary orbit high above Brazil today as a successful herald to one of America's busiest space weeks.

The new ATS III for (Applications Technology Satellite) rocketed into orbit from Cape Kennedy Sunday night to test systems that might eventually provide man with greater benefits from space. Included are new experiments in communications, navigation and weather prediction.

After a few days of precise manoeuvring, the satellite is to take up permanent station above the mouth of the Amason River in Brizil.

ATS III is one of four U.S. space shots scheduled this week. Also on tap are:

1. Surveyor VI, set to blast off from the Cape at 2:22 a.m. EST Tuesday on a planned 65-hour flight to the moon. The spacecraft is intended to land in a potential astronaut landing site near the centre of the moon's surface to snap photographs and analyze the lunar soil.

2. ESSA VI, another in a series of operational weather-study satellites, to be launched Wednesday from Vandenberg Air Force Base, near Santa Barbara, Calif.

3. A mammoth Saturn V rocket, similar to the one which one day will propel astronauts to the moon, to undergo its first test launching Thursday from the Cape. The rocket, largest, most powerful ever bult, is to boost an unmanned Apollo moonship 11,400 miles into space.

Call for Restraint 'A Canadian Original'

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Sharp said today his plan to mobilize public support for restraints on costs and prices will be a distinctive Canadian approach to the problem, and not a copy of any other country's guidelines.

Mr. Sharp told a meeting of representatives of 40 major municipalities that "everyone's job" depends on keeping Canada competitive in international markets, and that holding back costs and prices is everyone's responsibility.

"Some people have called it a guidelines policy, but guidelines means anything you want it to mean," Mr. Sharp said. "I do not intend to imitate any other country. Our problem is different. We need a Canadian approach, related to Canadian facts and Canadian circumstances."

TO CONTROL GROWTH

Mr. Sharp said the objective of current federal policy is not to dampen down the economy, but to maintain its growth at a steady rate. The economy was busting at its seams last year, and the government is trying to get it back to a rate of growth that can be maintained without excessive cost and price pressures.

Mr. Sharp said the government has "made considerable progress" in curtailing its expenditures, and he hoped soon to make an announcement of the result.

FIRST A NUMBNESS, THEN TRAGIC NEWS

By TED GASKELL

Everything was going just right for the 32-year-old branch manager.

He was assured of a move to head office and everybody predicted he'd be general manager while he was still a comparatively young man.

And that would mean no scrimping for his children's education; no worries about mortgages. He could settle down to a good, full life.

But that all changed within days.

First he felt a numbness in his hands which rubbing didn't eliminate. It persisted and he went to his doctor. A few days later, after a number of tests, he was given the news.

"You have multiple sclerosis."

The disease little is known about the cause and so far there is no cure, is the most terrifying and most tragic of all.

It gives hardly any warning before striking and it strikes most often at an age — between 20 and 40 — when a man or woman has the greatest family responsibility.

It is indeed, as president of the Victoria and Vancouver Island Multiple Sclerosis Society W. H. Phillips, says "a disease of the family. It hurts every member."

The local branch looks after 200 patients with its $23,700 budget of which $12,300 will come from the United Red Feather-Red Cross Appeal funds.

Some goes for administration but the greater part by far goes to provide wheelchairs and other equipment for the patients.

Some money goes for drugs and a good deal for physiotherapy.

The society has its own daily clinic in the Saanich Health Centre where Mrs. Pat Spriggs works with up to 25 patients a week.

About two thirds of the victims deteriorate rapidly and are soon in hospital beds.

But for the rest, the condition worsens gradually and sometimes there are remissions. But the condition returns.

So far there is no cure.

That's why the society works so hard to make things as easy and life as pleasant as possible for the patients.

Almost every month there is a social night with entertainment planned.

Highlights of the social year are the Christmas party usually attended by 300 or 400 patients and family, and the garden party in the summer.

An important part of the society's work is providing transportation to the therapy sessions.

For this the society has the Cosmopolitan Bus, which has on its standard frame a special body that enables it to carry six wheel chair cases.

Yarrows Ltd. provided the bus and the society pays the running costs and the driver.

"Without the bus, the society couldn't function," Mr. Phillips said.

CHICAGO (AP)—Wheat and corn futures fell more than two cents a bushel in one of the most active trading sessions in four months on the Board of Trade today.

Several factors were involved in the corn futures decline. Hedge selling on the opening followed by active commission house and local selling weakened prices more than a cent a bushel. Later, a report that Mexico had again exported corn tended to depress prices still further.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Wall St. Bounces Back

Wall Street made a dramatic recovery today to end up down 1.33 after the Dow Jones index had slumped down more than eight points during fairly active trading.

Traders despaired of a rally as the market began to erode early but bargain hunters restored many of the early losses by close.

AT VANCOUVER losses and gains were evenly divided to noon today.

Levy Industries climbed to $40.50, a gain of .50. Pacific Pete and CAE Industries both lost .75.

Central Del Rio fell to $20 in oils.

In the mining section, Brenda gave up .15 at $7.80 and Granduc was off .20 at $6.30. Placer gained .25 at $33.50 and Arctic added .07 to $2.50. Utica put on .10 at $4.25.

AT TORONTO the stock market was higher at the close of light trading today.

On index, industrials gained .05 to 158.87, golds fell .17 to 164.44, base metals slid .23 to 104.92 and western oils dipped .39 to 198.61.

Final volume was 2,776,000 shares compared with 3,725,000 Friday.

General Products Manufacturing A jumped 3⅛ to 83, Famous Players 2⅛ to 42⅝, FPE-Pioneer 1½ to 34, Computing Devices 1⅛ to 14⅞ and Ingersoll 1 to 35.

B-A Oil dropped 1⅛ to 36⅛ and Canadian Westinghouse 1 to 15.

Trading was suspended in shares of British International Finance (Canada) Ltd. and York Lambton Ltd. pending the companies' financial situation and management status.

In base metals, Deniso fell 1 to 81½, Highland-Bell ⅝ to 12¾ and Roman Corp. ⅜ to 27⅛.

Hollinger advanced 1 to 25 and Rio Algom ¼ to 34¼.

Among western oils, Husky gained 1c to 22¾. Scurry-Rainbow fell 1⅛ to 42⅞ and Central-Del Rio ¾ to 20¾.

AT MONTREAL prices edged slightly lower in early afternoon trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange, as several early morning gains melted into losses.

International Nickel dropped one point to 111¾, matching a similar slide on the New York Stock Exchange. DuPont fell ⅝ to 26, and CPR, Alcan and Denison about ½ point each.

AT LONDON stocks rose today, helped by company announcements and weekend press comment. Some major stocks were unable to maintain their early gains but motors and aircrafts were strong.

Many dollar stocks improved. Canadian Pacific was strong but elsewhere in Canadians the gains were small. Support was shown for Canadian banking issues.

Press comment in advance of profit figures to be announced today helped British Motors, Leyland also advanced and Rolls-Royce was wanted.

BIF SHARES SUSPENDED

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto Stock Exchange today suspended trading in shares of British International Finance (Canada) Ltd. and its subsidiary, York Lambton Corp., because it says it wants to know who actually controls the companies, and the state of their finances.

BIF, the company which, through York Lambton, holds controlling interest in the Bank of Western Canada, has been plagued by trouble since early this year. Sinclair Stevens, a Toronto financier who started BIF six years before, sold his interest to Marc Bienvenu of Montreal in a complicated transaction under which Mr. Bienvenu would lend $3,000,000 to York Lambton and, when this was redeemed, use the money to buy a controlling interest in BIF.

The TSE wants to know whether Mr. Bienvenu has yet exercised this option.

York Lambton was to get the money to repay Mr. Bienvenu from the sale of its Bank of Western Canada holdings. Although the company has started proceedings to wind up the bank, the process is delayed by court actions involving the voting rights of a block of shares to which Mr. Stevens claims ownership.

BIF elected its board of directors at its annual meeting in July, but the Ontario Supreme Court froze its actions after granting an injunction declaring the election invalid. The injunction was brought by three directors not re-elected at the meeting.

A hearing is pending on whether to make the injunction permanent.

M. R. Jennings, secretary of BIF, said Monday he would investigate the reasons for the stock exchange suspension. He said the company would make an announcement "in due course."

BIF closed at $1.05 Friday on the Toronto Stock Exchange and York Lambton at $1.10. They traded at around $5 earlier this year. The stocks are not listed on the Montreal Stock Exchange.

Ford Back at Work In Catch-Up Drive

DETROIT (AP)—Cars rolled off Ford Motor Co. assembly lines today for the first time since Sept. 6, when the United Auto Workers went on strike against the No. 2 auto-maker and won record gains for 160,000 UAW members at Ford.

At Chrysler, the union's No. 2 target, bargainers worked against a Wednesday midnight deadline to come up with a contract covering the firm's 95,000 production workers and 8,000 salaried workers represented by the union.

Ford assembly lines were closed for 60 days, 46 of them during a national strike by the union and the last two weeks over local disputes. Ford workers won roughly $1 an hour more in wages and fringe benefits above the previous Big Three rate of $4.70 an hour.

All the company's key parts plants have settled local contracts. Four out of 16 assembly plants are still without new contracts. About 11,000 Ford workers in Canada were laid off because of a shortage of parts from the U.S. plants.

CONTINUE TALKS

Union and company bargainers continue negotiations at Chrysler Corp. today.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW president, and John D. Leary, Chrysler vice-president for administration, headed the two negotiating teams.

"I must report we have made some progress today," Reuther said Sunday. "But there is still very much work to be done if we are to avoid a strike by Nov. 8."

Chrysler is expected to follow generally the major economic pattern of the Ford contract.

The biggest problem in Chrysler negotiations is equal pay for Canadian and American workers, which the union says was the only major demand it did not win at Ford.

MUST MAKE CHANGES

In addition, bargainers for Chrysler and the union must rewrite the Ford pact to make it apply to union-represented salaried workers, unique at Chrysler, and must also deal with pension problems involving workers laid off from 1958 to 1962 when Chrysler lost money two years in a row.

The union wants to give those laid-off workers pension credit for the years they worked even if they did not meet the current requirement of 1,700 hours of work for a year's pension credit.

Members of UAW local 444 in Windsor voted 2,926 to 98 Sunday to walk out at Chrysler Canada Ltd., if the company and the union do not come to terms before midnight Nov. 15 when the union's old contract expires.

The union represents 11,900 production workers in Canada, 10,000 of them in Local 444, and 600 salaried workers.

U.S. workers at Chrysler and General Motors have been on the job without a contract since Sept. 6 when pacts expired at big three firms.

The average hourly straight time wage of the U.S. auto worker was $3.41 under the old agreements, about 40 cents above the Canadian scale.

Esquimalt Row Local Matter

The attorney - general's department is not interested in getting involved in the Esquimalt police job evaluation study controversy.

A high ranking official said today no official request for an investigation into the study and its subsequent release to the press had been received.

"If and when it is we shall not be too interested," he said. "This department does not want to get involved in what is obviously a local matter."

The spokesman said a copy of the report was received shortly after its completion by retired RCMP chief superintendent C. B. Macdonell and was carefully studied at the time.

'LOCAL MATTER'

"We couldn't see anything to get too excited about at that time and we still can't," he said. "These sort of things tend to generate a great deal of excitement locally at election time, but it is a local matter and we have no intention of becoming involved."

The call for a provincial investigation came over the weekend from reeveship candidate George Argyle who said he was going to request the attorney-general to take another look at the Macdonell report and conduct a full investigation.

'COURAGEOUS'

Other developments over the weekend saw the man who prepared the report describe Reeve Ray Bryant's call for a job evaluation study as "quite a courageous thing to do."

Mr. Macdonell, now a travelling magistrate in Alberta, said it was always his understanding that the report would be confidential and would not be for public release.

Mr. Macdonell was selected for the job on the recommendation of the attorney-general's department after the Esquimalt police commission, headed by Reeve Bryant, made a request for a suitable man to do a comprehensive job evaluation.

Reeve Bryant had been in office six months when as reeve and chairman of the police commission he called for the full study of the police department and recommendations for its future development.

The report was released to the press last week by an anonymous sender. It was forwarded to the Times through the regular mails.

Go-Slow Order Given Police On Juveniles

Bonner Awaiting Outcome Of Struggle with Ottawa

British Columbia police forces have been instructed to "go slow" in pressing charges against juveniles over traffic and other offences involving provincial and municipal regulations.

This was confirmed by Attorney-General Robert Bonner in a weekend interview.

The policy instruction to police is part of the province's reaction to a Supreme Court of Canada ruling that all charges against juveniles — even if they involve only provincial or municipal regulations — must be treated as crimes and prosecuted under the federal Juvenile Delinquents Act.

REVIEW SOUGHT

Mr. Bonner told The Times his department has ordered its legal representative in Ottawa to try to obtain a rare review by the Supreme Court of its own judgment and has launched a campaign to have the federal act unchanged.

In the meantime, police have been requested to mark time in prosecuting minor offences pending the outcome of the department's efforts.

"We've instructed our Ottawa counsel to explore the possibility of the Supreme Court reviewing its decision," Mr. Bonner said.

"Meanwhile, we have acquainted the police forces of the province with what we regard as the unfortunate state of the national law.

"We have directed a "go slow" policy in prosecuting juveniles on minor or technical provincial and municipal regulations — for example riding a bicycle on a sidewalk or for failing to license it."

Mr. Bonner added that technical discussions for revision of the juvenile delinquents law already have been opened with B.C. pressing for changes which would protect youngsters from being judged as criminals in such cases and would abolish permanent criminal records for juvenile offences.

"It is a monstrous thing to conceive that violating a municipal bylaw leaves a national record of a crime on a youngster whereas the same conviction for an adult leaves only some vague reference in local records," he said.

Funeral Held For Former Elocutionist

Funeral services were held here today for Mrs. Florence Bell Mitchell who was once a prominent elocutionist.

Her concerts took her throughout the Eastern United States and Canada. She appeared often at Massey Hall in Toronto.

Mrs. Mitchell moved to the Victoria area with her husband, James Pearly Mitchell, in 1926. They engaged in fruit farming at Saanichton until Mr. Mitchell's death in 1943.

MISSED SHIP

Mrs. Mitchell's grandfather sailed with the English explorer Sir John Franklin but missed his ship on the last famous trip when the expedition perished. One of her brothers, Franklin J. McLeay was a noted English actor.

The deceased was born in 1873 in Watford, Ont. She married in 1908 and lived with her husband in the Medicine Hat area for many years. Their only child died there at age three.

Mrs. Mitchell is survived by nieces in Ontario and New Brunswick and grand nieces and grand nephews at Forest and Ottawa, Ont. A Victoria relative is Mrs. Edward Callan.

Rev. R. J. D. Morris officiated at ceremonies at McCall Brothers Chapel. Burial was at Royal Oak.

Cyclist Suffers Cuts, Fractures; Condition Fair

A motorcyclist is in only fair condition in hospital today after an accident on Cook Street Saturday afternoon.

Michael Hogan, 51, of 1034 Burdett, was admitted with cuts and fractures to his left knee, wrist and shoulder.

He was in collision with a car driven north on Cook near Collinson Street by Arthur Kilvington of 620 Cook.

Easterner Admits Robbing Bank With Empty Gun

A 22-year-old unemployed man pleaded guilty in magistrate's court today to a $1,555 armed robbery.

Carl Raymond, 22, from London, Ont., was charged with holding up the Bank of Montreal at Fort and Richmond Oct. 13.

He had earlier pleaded not guilty and elected trial by judge and jury. Defence counsel George Jones requested permission to withdraw the previous election.

Raymond elected trial before the magistrate and changed his plea to guilty.

Det. Richard Ward told the court a man entered the bank about 10:20 a.m. on the morning of the 13th. He was wearing a trench coat and a ski toque.

The man went to a teller, pointed the end of a sawed-off gun from his coat, and told him to fill a paper bag with money.

When the teller hesitated, the robber said "Hurry up and nobody will get hurt."

Det. Ward said the teller filled the bag, including 50 $5 bills of "scrip money," money for which the serial numbers have been recorded.

When police arrived, they were told the man had fled to the vicinity of Ida and Coronation Streets.

Det. Ward said when a thorough search of apartments at 2211 Ida St. revealed nothing, the apartment caretaker, Albert Thody, searched the crawlspace under the building.

He reported a man hiding there.

After being called by two detectives, the man said "OK, OK, I'm coming out."

He first passed out the trench coat, toque, the bag with the money, and the shot-gun. He then came out himself. Police identified him as Raymond.

Det. Ward said Raymond and his wife came to B.C. from Ontario where they were in debt. The detective said they found a little work in Vancouver and came here hoping for more.

The detective said when no work was found, Raymond purchased the gun and clothing to use in the bank robbery.

EMPTY GUN

Det. Ward said Raymond purchased shells for the gun, but emptied the powder from them, and at the time of the robbery the gun was empty.

Raymond's teen-age wife was originally charged in connection with the robbery, but after technical legal difficulties, the charge against both Raymond and his wife were quashed.

New charges were laid against Raymond, but not against his wife.

Magistrate Ostler remanded Raymond to Nov. 14 for presentence report.

Six-Month Term For Mainlander On 41 Charges

Andrew Toderian, 34, of North Surrey, was sentenced today to six months on 41 charges of obtaining goods and cash by false pretenses.

Toderian had earlier pleaded guilty to all the charges. He told the court "a few more charges will be coming in."

The offences all involved the passing of worthless cheques in Victoria, Surrey, Burnaby, New Westminster, Vancouver and West Vancouver over the past six months.

The accused told the court he was trying to play the horses to pay the money back.

Toderian had no previous record. Magistrate Ostler commented "when you involved yourself in crime you certainly pulled out all the stops."

FINES TOTAL $525 AFTER POLICE CHASE

A high speed police chase in the James Bay area late Sunday night resulted in a man facing three charges in magistrate's court today.

Gary Milley, 26, of 939 Johnson, was fined a total of $525 after he pleaded guilty.

Police reported they chased a car Milley was driving south on Government and east on Menzies at speeds over 70 miles per hour.

Magistrate Ostler fined the accused $350 for impaired driving, $150 for dangerous driving, and $25 for driving without a licence.

Auction Set For Former 'Y' Building

Victoria's old YMCA building at Blanshard and View goes on the auction block in 10 days.

The building, originally destined to become a hotel, will go to the highest bidder during a sheriff's sale to be held in the Sheriff's office at the Law Courts at 11 a.m. Wednesday, Nov. 15.

A spokesman for Commonwealth Trust Company, plaintiffs in the action forcing the sale, said he is confident the forced sale would not mean the disappearance of the old building.

SOLID BUILDING

"Structurally it is as solid as rock," he said. "We are reasonably sure that whoever purchases the building will carry forward the plan to convert it into a hotel or a place of entertainment."

Commonwealth held the original mortgage on the building for $60,000—an amount generally estimated to be half the building's actual worth.

Local developer Tage Borge Larsen presented the first plan for development to city council. He won approval from the planners for an over-all scheme which would have seen the old Y converted into a hotel.

Simpsons Proposes Warehouse

The Simpsons-Sears company is seeking zoning approval to build a warehouse in Saanich.

An application has been made to the municipality for a wholesale, retail warehousing distribution centre at Vanalman and Glanford.

The proposed site covers 10 acres opposite the Douglas Golf and driving range.

A company spokesman in Victoria confirmed the application but declined details until it comes before council.

Because of the proximity of the proposed site to Patricia Bay Highway, approval from the highways department will be necessary as well as approval from Saanich.

MEETING WEDNESDAY

Assistant Saanich planner Keith Birch said the application will go before a meeting of the Advisory Planning Commission Wednesday and the planning department will make a recommendation at that time.

"If it is then cleared by them for or against, it will go to the next council meeting," he said.

The warehouse, if approved, would serve the $6 million Simpsons-Sears retail store approved by the city of Victoria at Hillside and Shelbourne.

$1,000 Bail On Drug Count

Bail was set at $1,000 in magistrate's court today for a youth charged with possession of marijuana.

Thomas Penston, 18, of 950 Empress Ave., was arrested Saturday.

He was remanded to Nov. 14 for election and plea.

B.C. Variety Wanted If Sasquatch Hunted

Conservative Minister Kenneth Kiernan says if he decides to order an expedition to find a Sasquatch it will be confined to B.C. territory.

"I'm not prepared to say at this time," he replied in a weekend interview when asked whether the government would underwrite or contribute to a Sasquatch hunt.

Mr. Kiernan said a lot depends on the film taken of a large, hairy but human-like creature by an amateur Sasquatch researcher in northern California while the minister was in Europe.

AVALUATION

"Because I wasn't able to see the film, I will have to await an evalutaion of it from my department," he said.

"I have considerable confidence in the objectivity of Frank Beebe of our museum and his report will have considerable influence in any decision I make in this matter."

Mr. Beebe and provincial anthropologist Don Abbott were among scientists who viewed the film in Vancouver two weeks ago. It was shown to them by Roger Patterson, Yakima, Wash., as a result of Mr. Kiernan's public appeals for any evidence that would shed light on the Sasquatch legends.

Earlier, Mr. Abbott was sent to the same area in northern California by Mr. Kiernan and brought back pictures and plaster casts of huge human-like footprints.

NOMINAL EXPENSE

"That trip was a relatively nominal expense to help us obtain a little more concrete information but beyond that our department's responsibility along the lines of classifying flora or fauna is limited to British Columbia's boundaries," said Mr. Kiernan.

"If we were to make any major expedition (to search for a Sasquatch), it would be related only to the confines of our province."

Fair Price Pitch Made to Motelmen

Don't price yourself out of the tourist market, Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan told 150 motel and resort operators meeting in Victoria today.

Mr. Kiernan said British Columbia must establish a reputation for fair-dealing and fair-pricing, as well as hospitality, to keep up with the increasingly competitive tourist industry.

"If we do that, I believe we have as good a travel package to sell as any country in the world—and, as yet, I don't think we've even scratched the surface of our tourist potential."

Just back from a tour of Europe, Mr. Kiernan was addressing a four-day convention of the B.C. Motels and Resorts Association at Holyrood House.

PRICE CONTROLS

He said B.C. can learn much from Austria in the way of tourist techniques, but didn't think Canadians would accept the price controls that are practised by the Austrian Chamber of Commerce — practically an arm of the government.

"But it is very much in our interests to exercise that control voluntarily," the minister said. "The world is shrinking in terms of travel-time, which means we shall have to compete with more and more countries."

By 1972, he said, supersonic jet planes will have reduced the flying time between Vienna and Halifax, N.S., from 15 to six hours. And each plane will be carrying up to 450 persons.

"It must be admitted that some airports in Europe are better equipped to handle a heavy influx of tourists than our own," Mr. Kiernan said.

Delegates to the convention and their wives were welcomed today by Sam Otto and his wife, Olga, from Vancouver. They made a ceremonial landing by helicopter Saturday in a parking lot at Douglas and Hillside.

Ask The Times

Q. What happens to the mortgage on a home or property sold for tax arrears? A.V.E.

A. Under provincial law and the Municipal Act, people buying property for tax arrears get clear title after one year if the property is not reclaimed by the owners. The mortgage is wiped out. But after the sale, the mortgage holder is informed of the sale so that he may take some steps to protect his interest. In the case of a crown mortgage, the property is sold subject to that mortgage.

Q. Why are there always so many cars parked off the surfaced portion of the Trans-Canade Highway overlooking Portage Inlet near the Saanich-View Royal boundary? Is there an industry near there? A.B.H.

A. This area is a meeting place for car pools. Many workers driving into the city leave their cars there and join their car pools for the rest of the trip into town.

REMEDIAL CLASSES 'STRAIGHTEN THEM AWAY EARLY'

By DON VIPOND
Times Education Reporter

Education today is on the threshold of a vast new look. Parents and grandparents, could they return to the classroom, would see new teaching concepts, aimed right at the root of the old order. These techniques are turning learning into a more efficient and at the same time more interesting experience. In this series, education reporter Don Vipond sketches some of the experiments under way.

Step into a special room at Glen Lake Elementary School and you can watch teachers grappling with the seeds of trouble before they grow.

On either side of this unusual viewpoint and visible through one-way windows are bright and bustling classrooms.

No ordinary classrooms these though they might appear so at first glance. These are for youngsters with learning difficulties.

The pupils here are not retarded as most people think of the term. They are in fact of above-average intelligence. But for various emotional reasons, they have been unable to keep up at school with their playmates.

These two remedial classes, with no more than 12 in them, provide a sheltered climate where understanding and know-how help children overcome their frustrations, fears and anti-social behavior.

●

Tests by the psychology department at the University of Victoria show many of the youngsters who come here have particular trouble remembering what they hear, says principal Herman Leung.

So teachers Miss A. E. Curts and Mrs. N. E. Petersen use a battery of intriguing aids to keep interest high, counter the problem of easily distracted youngsters.

There is a listening device called the language master where a pupil can hear a story told through earphones which at the same time shut out distractions.

There are plenty of puzzles which keep a youngster's hands and eyes busy working together. There are magnetic blackboards where fingering letters which stick on the board lends the added reality of touch to learning.

And there are work carrels, private cubbyholes where a student can go to work alone when he wants.

In the gymnasium there is a new trampoline. These youngsters have to work harder than most to develop muscle co-ordination.

And there are teachers with patience and understanding and time for each pupil.

Uvic's psychology department has worked closely with the school in developing the program and testing pupils. Case histories show the remedial classes are doing a job in preparing troubled youngsters for regular classes.

Eight-year-old Jim for example was very immature, made no attempt to complete or carry through any work when he entered the class in October of last year.

After six months he had moved up to standard in 12 of 15 neuro-psychological tests and his reading ability had jumped ahead by two years.

●

Fred was 10 when he entered the class at the same time. He was extremely talkative and hyperactive, disturbing everyone and very demanding of the teacher's time.

Tests six months later showed he had improved in all areas where he was deficient and his oral reading had improved 25 months. He is now back in regular classes.

The observation room between the remedial classes is for psychology staff and teachers taking in-service training. The one-way windows and microphones "bugging" the classrooms allow them to study this experiment without distracting the youngsters they are trying to help.

"What we are trying to do is get these pupils straightened away early," said Mr. Leung. "If they get through to high school without help, then there can be real problems."
